HATS OF RIBBON

Very Wide Decorations Are Better for Fall Headgear.

Material Gives an All-Over Shaggy Appearance to Smart Toques and Turbans.

The latest millinery offerings might be said to have but one thing in common, and that is generally soft, unstudied effect, which is preserved, no matter what the material or the trimming. After that, writes a fashion correspondent, it is safe to say that over fifty per cent of the newest hats are of velvet, of either Lyons or panne, some of both; that ribbon hats are almost as common and often more interesting than velvet, and that felt, leather and lace are generously represented. The duvety displayed late in the summer is scarcely noticeable now, except in combination or as trimming.

The hats displayed in the Paris openings are now beginning to leave their mark upon the American styles, and the combination of American workmanship which understands the American woman's needs with that dashing originality of the French results in some very beautiful specimens of the designer's art. Three things characterize the latest millinery shapes. One is that soft, draped effects are particularly stressed; the second that trimmings droop, rather than spring upward, and, thirdly, that the uneven brim, especially the Harlequin shape, which widens at the sides, turns up from the face and shows a narrow rim in back, is sure to be very popular.

Speaking of ribbon hats, it is interesting to note the new ribbons manufactured for their use. The very wide ribbons running from five to ten inches, are better for the purpose of the puffed and draped hats than the narrower ribbons of the spring. There are some fascinating new shaggy ribbons, "shredded wheat" ribbons they have been called, and others with frayed edges, which, when used, give an all-over shaggy appearance to smart toques and turbans. The crepe ribbons are also very good, especially the newer ones made to resemble leather. Among these latter two novelties have reached this side of the ocean—one is a snakeskin ribbon, and the other frogskin.

Imitations are not scorned by the fashionable milliner. She now condescends to use some of the new plushes instead of fur, one in particular, in a taupe gray, realistically made to resemble squirrel. There is a new "wingspring" feather trimming, sometimes imitated by such almost undreamed-of things as elephants' whiskers and other strong, curled hairs or metal threads. Coq plumes are to be expected in a season when trimming is trained to droop, and even these are occasionally imitated by potted strands of silk, or given a metallic touch by having their tips gilded or bronzed. Coq is not used in the natural color alone, but is found in fascinating jades and rusts. Crepe satin and fallie imitate the gloss of fine leather to the point of deceit.

Pincushion Lady With Pin-Trimmed Skirt—Floral Decoration to Hide Telephone.

Yes, of course, you have seen pincushion ladies before. But have you seen one just like this? You can buy the lady without her clothes. Then you can easily dress

This Pincushion Lady Uses Her Pins to Trim Her Skirt. Over her wire hooped body use some wide satin ribbon. A discarded hair ribbon may answer the purpose. Then over that drape an overskirt finished with lace in the manner shown.

This flower-covered disk is a beautiful camouflage for the telephone in your boudoir or any other dressed-up room. It is easily made. Simply cut it out of cardboard to fit your telephone. Then cover it with silk and in the manner shown sew flatly upon it either silk or milliner's flowers. Covering the disk with coppenhagen blue, gray daisies and rose-color roses would be a charming scheme to follow. Or, covering the disk with gray, use violet and coppenhagen blue flowers. You will have to fit the color scheme into the scheme of the room.

POSIES ARE USED ON GOWNS

Beflowered Frocks Promise to Be Favored Especially for Evening Wear This Winter.

Two kinds of flowers are being used at the moment for trimmings; they will also be worn during the winter months, especially for evening dresses. There is natural type of garden flower as well as the very fanciful one in velvet and satin, of extraordinary size and shades, such as belong to the realm of fairy tales. Many garlands fall from the waistline and are softly mounted to allow a supple and graceful movement when walking or dancing, and they will add a nice touch of color to our dresses. There are big flowers, or small nosegays, made with faded tones and mixed shades. Some flowers are made in two colors; for instance, pink taffeta and beige pongee, with each petal cut in the two materials and placed one over the other; the petals are not sewn, but curled and pressed together, in order to effect the same waves and folds which give a fairy lightness to the flowers. A motif at the girdle has been very much favored for a considerable time now. It is sometimes a feather pouf or a cluster of fruit, or one or two velvet flowers of fresh hue.

There are some gowns which are not only trimmed with beads, but are entirely made of them. Long fringes of beads entirely cover the slip underneath, being held by the girdle. An effect of contrasting shades is generally sought after. If, for instance, the slip is of black satin or crepe, the glass tubes are white.

Talking of beads leads to thoughts of real pearls; they are no longer worn screwed on the ear, but hang at the end of a thin thread glittering with small diamonds. Many women wind their pearl necklaces round their arms, and some others hang them across the breast from one side to the other. But the classical string of pearls that encircles the neck always remains the most lovely.

Novelties in Fur Neckpieces.

Greater variety and more detail in design will be seen in fur neck pieces this winter, furriers say. "Leading sellers," they declare, "will doubtless be the well-known animal scarf and the plain scarf, but in the newer styles there are numberless moderate-sized choker ties, the general construction of which is a scarf varying from fifteen inches to a yard long, with a slash toward one end for the other end to pass through. Another piece has a short choker collar with two wide pointed ends which lie flat against the front of the coat in revers fashion.

Much Hand Work on This Coat.

Navy silk duvety, with an invisible stripe weave, is ornamented with hand-made flowers of black braid, the centers of black velvet. A short cape, the edges pieced, swings from the shoulders. The collar and cuffs are scal.
