Australian Labor Party Very Strongly Opposed To Imperial Federation

If anything is done in London by the Empire's Prime Minister next year to consummate Imperialistic aims, Labor at the first opportunity will solemnly repudiate the compact before the whole world.

The organized workers of Australia, it says, "will not tolerate Imperial federation." The issue is being debated in the Australian press at the present time owing to the Constitutional Conference called to meet in London within the next year or two.

Several Australian comments infer that, with Milner as Secretary of State for the Colonies, they distrust the possibilities of the outcome.

Referring to Lord Milner's speech, the Melbourne Age says: "We cannot consent to be ruled by the majority decisions of representatives of Great Britain, Canada, South Africa and New Zealand, even though members of the Australian Government sit and vote amongst them."

On another day, discussing the same issue, the Age said: "Australia cannot and will not surrender any share in the control of its defence to any outside body. It will decide for itself the nature, extent and cost of its own system, and brook no interference. In this, as in all other matters, the Commonwealth will stand on its own feet."

The most democratic and vigilant elements in Australian political thought," this writer declares, "are fundamentally at issue with the Imperial Federation gospel in all its forms and with all its implications. Certain newspaper correspondents may seek to convey the impression that in some subtle fashion a change has passed over the Commonwealth, and that with the return of the 'boys' there has been re-created a 'new atmosphere' in which Imperial federation will flourish. It is not so. The majority of the returned soldiers have become absorbed in the national life and are, as a result, reorganized themselves in the two great political parties. The 'Digger' is as much opposed as the civilian voter to any sacrifice of Australia's untrammelled freedom."

A correspondent of the New Statesman, writing from Melbourne, says that outside a very limited circle there is no body of opinion in Australia which favors Imperial federation or any closer political bonds with the United Kingdom. "Lord Milner's speech," he adds, "finds support only amongst the ultra-Tory newspapers, the Australian group of 'Round Table' lawyers, politicians and University men, and a few generals who are obsessed with the purely professional aspects of defence problems—which can, however, be solved without any formal bonds, contractual legislation or super-Parliament."

Bring with him electric atmosphere, a man strode into a newspaper office and banged his stick on the counter of the commercial department. "Where's the editor?" he shouted angrily. "He's—he's out!" replied the clerk nervously. "What's he done this time?" "In that advertisement for my valveless motor," said the visitor, "he's turned the second 'v' into a 'u'!"

ST. MARK'S, DESERONTO Christmas Services and Entertainment Were Successful. Deseronto, Dec. 30.—The Christmas services at St. Mark's church, Deseronto, were bright and uplifting. The communicants were numerous, the offerings liberal and the music was good. Jackson's Te Deum and Hall's communion service were used, reflecting credit on Professor Epps and his choir. The church was tastefully decorated, the beauty of the decorations being enhanced by the electric lights recently installed. The Christmas tree and entertainment in the basement of St. Mark's, Deseronto, was a great success. Tuesday, Dec. 28th. The programme was an excellent one and thoroughly enjoyed by an audience that filled the hall. Each child received a splendid book, a bag of candies and an orange, the candies being donated by Mrs. T. D. Gault, and the oranges by William Harvey. The rector joined the boys of the Bible Class in their physical drill, dumb bells, etc. The teachers and the kind friends drilling the children were deservedly thanked for their assistance and the children deserved the applause of the audience, which was very hearty. Two carols, "Holy Night," and "We Three Kings of Orient Are" terminated a most enjoyable evening for the children and their parents and friends.
