WOULD NOT LIKE TO TRY ANOTHER SMASH Men Whom He Dealt With Never Before Betrayed Trust.

W. Duncan, inspector of detectives, is back on the job at Portsmouth penitentiary. He is looking very well after his rest, but he would not care to go through another episode like that with the prisoner, Leo Rogers. The wound on his head is pretty well healed up and he is otherwise fit. Not in thirty years experience on the detective force, where he had to deal with men of every type, did he ever have a man betray a trust he placed in him, as this man did.

A woman invariably tells a small boy to hurry back when she sends him on an errand—but what's the use? The ball at the Royal Military College, that was indefinitely postponed, will take place Jan. 21st. And the early bird sometimes gets it where the giraffe got the extension.

G.W.V.A. ASSAULT-AT-ARMS

Hughes, of Queen's, and Wingfield, of Ottawa, Fought a Draw.

About three hundred citizens attended the assault-at-arms held in the armouries Thursday evening, under the auspices of the G.W.V.A. The programme presented was of very high merit, and perhaps the best that has yet been shown in Kingston. There were two or three preliminary bouts before the event of the evening took place. The first bout was between Kid English and Young Riley, in the eighty-pound class. These are both Kingston boys, and have been trained by J. H. Jarvis. Both showed good form. English had the advantage in the first round, getting in two good jabs to the face. Riley's longer reach, however, told in the second round, which was decided in his favor. The third round was even, and the referee's decision was a draw.

Mr. Clark refereed all the boxing events in a very satisfactory manner. The announcer was "Joe" Smith, who is taking a course at the R.M.C.

Another interesting bout was staged between Jarvis and Amey in the seventy-pound class. Both boys are members of the Naval Brigade. Jarvis did very fine work all through the bout. Amey showed up well in the second round, but the third round was all in favor of Jarvis, and he was acknowledged the winner.

The next bout was between Oscar Corneau, bantam champion of Quebec, and K. O. Wilkie, Ottawa. Corneau showed more of the boxer's trickiness than his opponent, but his hitting was as effective. The first, fourth and sixth rounds were in Corneau's favor, while the second, third and fifth were won by Wilkie. There was much excitement in the third round of this event, when Wilkie bored in and delivered some quick jabs to the face, but Corneau defended well. The referee's decision was a draw.

The main event was then staged. This was a ten-round contest between "Billie" Hughes, trainer at Queen's, and Fred Wingfield, Ottawa. Both boxers appeared in the pink of condition. First round: About thirty seconds elapsed before a punch was delivered. Hughes got in the first punch, which was a blow to the head, but Wingfield countered with a blow to the body. The round was even. Second round: This round was decided in Wingfield's favor. Third round: Both boxers displayed fine work in upper-cutting, round even. Fourth round: Wingfield ducked a swing to the head and delivered a number of quick jabs to the body. Hughes landed a good blow on the head and another on the body; Hughes' round. Fifth round: This was also in Hughes' favor. Hughes forced his man to the ropes, and got in a number of telling blows. Sixth round: Both boxers slackened down in this round, which was fairly even. Seventh round: Wingfield made a vicious swing to the head, but Hughes ducked in a pretty manner and forced the fighting. Hughes knocked Wingfield down, but he immediately regained his feet; Hughes' round. Eighth round: Both boxers were hitting to face and body, the advantage being in Wingfield's favor. The good defense work of Hughes was seen in this round. The ninth and tenth rounds were both even. The referee's decision was a draw, and this was the verdict of the majority of the fans.

After this a fine demonstration of wrestling holds was given by "Jack" Fraser, who was billed to wrestle the "Wild Cat" (Cazereau). Cazereau failed to appear and the decision was given in favor of Fraser.

REV. FATHER CASEY IS HIGHLY HONORED Degree of Doctor of Letters Conferred on Him by Laval.

REV. DR. D. A. CASEY
Rev. Father D. A. Casey, editor of the Canadian Freeman, has been honored by Laval University, Montreal, with the honorary degree of doctor of letters, in recognition of his work on the newspaper and also as a mark of appreciation of the success he has attained in purely literary work by the two volumes of verse known as "At the Gate of the Temple" and "Leaves on the Wind." He has always been a strong champion of Quebec, and in the columns of his paper has advocated a better understanding between the two dominant races in the Dominion. Father Casey is of Irish birth, and came to Canada in 1909, finishing his ecclesiastical course at St. Michael's College, Toronto. He was ordained to the priesthood at Peterborough in 1910, and labored there for six years, until his appointment to the editorship of the Canadian Freeman by Archbishop Spratt in 1916.
