

Theatrical

Sir Martin Harvey To-night. Few actors of our day have had a more fascinating career than Martin Harvey, and few men have been as little in the limelight of personal and society publicity off the stage than he—indeed, and one which lasted for some years. It was at the Lyceum—then at the zenith of its fame—and "the Chief" was in command. "Whatever name I have made for myself," observed Mr. Harvey, "has been due to Sir Henry Irving. Than that he was trained by Henry, no actor can want to say more."

At Griffin's. Ed. Collins' Musical Revue presented last evening the up-to-date musical comedy, "A Question of Divorce," and it proved to be a laughing sensation from beginning to end. New songs, scenery and costumes add a charming atmosphere for the great comedy, and "Riley" is seen at his best. The girls of the chorus make a charming jury for a court scene, which was one of the most entertaining parts of the play, and was heartily enjoyed by the audience. Be sure and see "A Question of Divorce," which is one of the best plays in this talented company's repertoire. There is also a comedy and selected picture programme, which lends the right touch of variety, and is thoroughly enjoyable. To-night and to-morrow this programme will be repeated.—Advt.

At The Strand. "The Furnace" the picture which opened at the Strand last night, is a big production in many senses of the word. The theme is striking, the action and plot gripping and well portrayed by an all-star cast of notables, including Theodore Roberts, Milton Sills, Mayme Kelso and others. The story revolves around the society marriage of a wealthy Englishman and a popular London actress, the confession immediately afterward that he married his wife merely because he had heard that she had threatened to sue him for breach of promise if he jilted her. Their subsequent estrangement and the many dramatic complications which follow before a reconciliation is effected, make a very tense drama. The picture is an adaptation by Julia Crawford Ivers of the new novel, "The Furnace" by the English writer "Pan" which promises to create a sensation among fiction lovers and is just coming off the press. "The Furnace" will be shown for two days longer.—Advt.

At the Allen. For the first time in her screen career Anita Stewart appears as a vamp in a motion picture, "The Yellow Typhoon," from the novel by Harold MacGrath, which is playing at the Allen theatre, today. She plays the double part of twin sisters, Berta and Hilda Nordstrom, the former a striking blonde of the adventures type and the latter a sweet brunette with characteristics quite the opposite.

In essaying the role of Berta, whose golden hair and artful ways have men broken as the reeds in the path of a storm and give to her the name of "The Yellow Typhoon," Miss Stewart portrays in convincing manner an unusual character part. "While vamping is something new to me, except from observation," said Miss Stewart, "nevertheless I have always felt that I could play such a part if only given the chance and provided with the proper makeup. That is why I jumped at this opportunity to prove to doubters that I could act like a really wicked woman. No, I have no love for vamps, but I rather enjoyed playing the part because I thought I could reveal in their true light the characters of these women who are the greatest enemies of man."—Advt.

The probabilities are that the Canadian budget may not come down as early as expected but rather, only when, in the light of the fate of the Fordney bill or the tariff forecast of the Harding administration, the Washington situation, affecting Canada can better be sized up.
