A DEAR SWEET THING SEES A PRIZE FIGHT

"Oh, there won't be a fight after we gave up that darling dance at the Ritz to come down here. Oh, I'm so disappointed!"

It was a sweet, young thing in one of the boxes in Madison square garden, New York, last Friday night.

"But, look! Mr. Mitchell has his hands bandaged, and so has Mr. Leonard. They must have been hurt."

"No, no! Boxers always wear bandages to protect their hands."

"My goodness, do not those gloves protect them? They are the very largest things I have ever seen."

Then a glance around the boxes and stifled comment about the gown of Mrs. Scandos and the bravery of Miss Whozzat, who is sitting so close to the stage.

"Isn't Mr. Leonard perfectly charming? He's so much better looking than Mr. Mitchell. I hope he doesn't get a black eye or something."

"He shall not. He has too good a guard."

"Are those men in his corner his guard? Oh, there's a bucket there, too! Isn't that terrible! I always heard that prize fights were such gory things, but I didn't know they had to use buckets."

"That's water in the buckets. They use that to revive the boxers and refresh them between rounds."

"Since prohibition they use water? Well, isn't that too funny! Water is the best stimulant they can use in public, isn't it?"

"Well, yes, sometimes. They also use smelling salts."

"Oh, that reminds me. I didn't bring mine. What if I should faint. Would you have to go after one of those buckets?"

The first round was under way. Mr. Leonard struck Mr. Mitchell with his right hand and Mr. Mitchell fell to the floor.

"Oh, isn't that awful! I just can't look at it. I'll cover my eyes and you tell me when it is over."

Two more heavy thuds from the ring and the arena was in an uproar.

"Oh, I just must see what is going on. Oh, that's Mr. Leonard on the floor, isn't it? I'm so upset I thought all the time that Mr. Mitchell was being knocked down."

The gong ends the round. Sixth round: "Hit him, Mr. Leonard! He's out! Finish him! Ah, there he's gone! Isn't Mr. Leonard a fine fighter?"

"Yes, yes, he really is," from her side. "When will Mr. Leonard fight Mr. Dempsey? I want to see that."

CLARK GRIFFITH President of the Washington American League club, who has retired from the active management of the team.

HOCKEY NOTES.

Some of those good jobs held by hockey tourists since last August probably do not look so good now, since the O.H.A. "put the work" on them.

Showing a surprising revival of form last night, the Winnipegs gave the Falcons their first defeat in the Manitoba Hockey League by a score of 7 to 4.

Port Colbourne's fine big artificial ice plant would be handy were it located in some of the cities which boast good O.H.A. teams, but are without ice. London, one of the best sporting centres in Ontario, has been without adequate hockey accommodation for two decades.

Bout Realized $90,000.

The American committee for devastated France yesterday announced it had realized $90,000 from its management of the boxing bout in New York, in which Benny Leonard scored a technical knockout over Ritchie Mitchell in the sixth round.

The gate receipts amounted to $150,000, the largest in the history of lightweight boxing, of which $40,000 went to Leonard and $20,000 to Mitchell. The crowd of about 14,000, which packed Madison Square Garden, was made up not only of the usual quota of fistie fans, but a galaxy of society folk.

THE HIGH COST OF GOLF.

A golf club in Glasgow with a course a half hour's ride from the centre of the city and just that distance from the seashore, has sent out a harsh ultimatum to its members. The notification reads that the yearly dues must be increased to—no, not $300—but $20, because of the cost of upkeep.

Membership includes the right to play on two courses. It would be difficult to hire coat space in a club locker for that sum in this country.

CLERGYMAN TEACHES AND REFEREEES BOUTS

Rev. Earl Blackman, pastor of the First Christian Church of Chanute, Kan., officiated as referee in the recent bout between Champion Jack Britton and Morris Lax. Rev. Mr. Blackman is a warm admirer of boxing, and, in addition to appearing frequently in the ring as referee of professional bouts, teaches a class of the young men of his church in the art of self-defence.

Rev. Earl Blackman was a chaplain in the United States army during the war. While in France he issued a challenge to the chaplain of the allied nations in which he offered to box any chaplain at catch-weights. Mr. Blackman weighs only 167 pounds.

"Home Run" Baker Coming Back.

J. Franklin Baker, former home run king, may return to the diamond next season. He is reported as having told friends that he was going to Baltimore, where he had an appointment with Joe Kelly, scout of the New York Americans, with whom he will talk over the situation. Baker, who lives at Trappe, Md., did not play last year owing to business and illness in his family.

A movement is said to be on foot to reorganize the Provincial Soccer League.

It is proposed to stage a Dominion championship basketball series for senior teams.
