

BOILS SO BAD AS A MAN WENT FORTH TO DIE HAD TO GIVE UP WORK

From the days of Job, up to the present time, boils have been one of the afflictions of the human race. All the poulticing and lancing you may do will not prevent them from breaking out again.

Boils are simply caused by the bad blood bursting out; and the bad blood must be made pure before the boils will disappear.

Burdock Blood Bitters, which has been on the market for over forty years, is well known as the greatest blood medicine procurable.

It purifies the blood by removing every particle of foul matter from the system, and when this is done the boils vanish, and you should never be troubled again.

Mr. James Fahey, Newport Island, Que., writes: "I was troubled with boils on my back and neck, so bad that I was obliged to give up work."

I tried several remedies, but got no relief. Finally I went to a doctor, and he treated me for several weeks, and all without benefit.

At last a friend told me of Burdock Blood Bitters, so I decided to give it a trial. I got three bottles, but before I had taken two the boils were all gone.

It is eight months now, and I have had no return of the old trouble, and have never felt so well.

AS A MAN WENT FORTH TO DIE

The International Sunday School Lesson for Jan. 23rd is "Promotion in the Kingdom."—Matt. 20: 17-28.

By William T. Ellis.

As a young reporter, I once had occasion to view the body of an unknown wayfarer, who had died in the almshouse of a small town.

The doddering old pauper who had been with him at the end mumbled toothlessly to me about how the dying man had pleaded in vain, for some one to hold his hand as he passed into the unknown.

That picture has all these years stayed by me: a lonely, nameless man, dying among strangers, and crying in vain for even the friendly touch of an alien hand.

Companionship, sympathy, friendship—every one yearns for these in the dark and difficult hours. Even Jesus was not beyond this hunger.

We find Him kin to our humanity as He opens His heart to His company of friends and tells them that He is about to die. A solitary way walked the Saviour: what He might be true companion to all others who walk alone.

There are those who minimize the death of Jesus. Not so He Himself. In His deepest hours of self-revelation with His friends, it was of His death He spoke.

In the experience of the transfiguration, the theme of His conversation with Moses and Elijah was His death.

In the agony of the Garden it was the approaching event of His death that filled His thought. Much as the life and words of the Master mean to mankind, it is His death that crowns and explains all. The Cross interprets both time and eternity.

"Under an Eastern sky, Amid a rabble's cry, A Man went forth to die For me."

"Thorn-crowned His blessed head, Blood-stained His every tread, Cross-laden, on He sped For me."

"Pierced glow His hands and feet, Three hours o'er Him beat Force rays of noontide heat, For me."

"Thus wert Thou made all mine; Lord make me wholly Thine; Grant grace and strength Divine To me."

ed in the mud and cold for the zero hours; and who open-eyed entered into the jaws of death. This memory is one of the most precious assets of our civilization, to be handed down as a standard to all succeeding generations.

Properly and appropriately, we speak of it in connection with the experience of Jesus, who, all-seeing and unfeared, went steadfastly up to Jerusalem; where awaited Him a horrible fate of which He was fully aware.

He knew it all. Not a particle of the shame and suffering was hidden from His eyes. As our Lesson text says: "And as Jesus was going up to Jerusalem, He took the twelve disciples apart, and on the way He said unto them, 'Behold, we go up to Jerusalem; and the Son of man shall be delivered unto the chief priests and scribes; and they shall condemn Him to death, and shall deliver Him unto the Gentiles to mock, and to scourge, and to crucify; and the third day He shall be raised up.'"

What a Hero was our Lord? And what a leader for stout-hearted youths today.

Enter The Ambitious Woman. Like a dash of cold water on the pale face of Jesus, came an interruption from the mother of James and John, his favorite disciples.

The Lord had opened His heart to His friends. He had given them a glimpse of His deepest experience. In most sacred confidence, He had shared His innermost feelings with them.

Instead of receiving in turn understanding and sympathy and the fellowship of comprehending friendship, He gets an ambitious request for political preferment! While He had been talking of the sublimities, they had been thinking of the positions they might attain!

Like the dying wayfarer, who had pleaded in vain for some one to hold his hand, Jesus had been rebuffed cruelly in His outstretching for sympathy.

Zebedee's wife was an ambitious woman, an early representative of the familiar and universal type of woman who seeks to further the fortunes of her men.

She was proud that her sons were in the inner circle of the great Teacher's friends. She believed in Jesus, after the vague, misunderstanding faith of most of His followers; and she expected Him, as the Messiah, to set up a temporal kingdom.

In that kingdom she wanted her sons to have the highest places. We may not be too hard upon the mother of John and James. Women and men of her state of mind have persisted throughout the Christian centuries, withstanding all the clear revelations of the mind of Christ and the admonitions of the Spirit.

A Modern Version. I know one layman, once a delegate to the highest national, once a great American denomination, who in a pulsive, honest indignation, once spoke out against a shamefully political organization, that was electing for the highest office in the church's gift.

LITERARY SOCIETY

Has Been Formed in Connection With High School.

Sydenham, Jan. 17.—Canon Jones, Kingston, addressed the members of St. Paul's D. S. L. Society on Friday evening, taking as his subject: "A Trip to England And What I Saw There."

The lecture was illustrated with lantern views. Patrick Groome has sold his house, on Bridge street, at present occupied by S. W. Alexander, to Samuel Babcock. The High School Literary Society was organized for the winter term last week.

Officers elected were: President, Francis Shillington; secretary, Miss Hattie McKeever; treasurer, Irvin Stafford; pianist, Charles Sedgewick; poet, Miss C. Morrow; historian, James Garvin. The first meeting comes on Friday, Jan. 28th.

The body of the child of Bert Warman was brought here from Newburg, on Tuesday last, and was placed in the vault. Two hockey games were played here last week, the first one being on Thursday, between Verona and Sydenham.

The game was an interesting one to watch, and was fairly fast in places. The final score was eight to five, in favor of the locals. On Saturday afternoon the second game was played, Catarqui team testing their strength with the locals. This game was not quite so fast as the other, as it was inclined to be one-sided, although the score does not indicate it.

The score was five to three for the home team. Catarqui gaining most of their goals in the final period. Arthur Lee and Van Young proved the scoring aces in both games. W. H. Arthur has sold his house just west of the cheese factory to George Swerbrick.

Bruce Joyner, a former resident of the village, is spending a few days with former friends. Mrs. Dowdell, wife of a former Anglican rector here, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Sine.

Mrs. Babcock, Belleville, is spending some time with friends and relatives in this vicinity. The special services which have been held in Grace Methodist church during the past two weeks, concluded on Sunday, when four services were conducted, including a men's meeting at three o'clock in the afternoon.

J. J. Lindsay, Toronto, has been the evangelist during the series. NORTHBROOK 'PHONELESS. The Trouble on the Line Cannot Be Located.

Northbrook, Jan. 14.—Ideal weather and roads are favoring the farmers in hauling many logs to the various mills, and also to load the lumber at the station.

A. E. Pletcher, manager of the Ore Chimney mines, has returned to oversee winter preparations for the large electric power house under construction. C. C. Thompson and H. Scruton spent a few days in the Denbigh district this week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Cassada were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ashton, Tweed. All seem greatly in favor of having J. L. Lloyd appointed police magistrate, as successor to J. M. Dafoe, as he is more centrally located.
