CHAMBERS ON SCREEN

Lavish Scenes in Film Version of "The Restless Sex." Those who have enjoyed reading Robert W. Chambers' society stories as they appear in magazine and subsequently in book form will welcome the news that his recent brilliant story, "The Restless Sex," has been pictured and will be seen at the Strand theatre for three days commencing Monday. Pretty Marion Davies is the star.

"The Restless Sex" centers around Stephanie Cleland, a vivacious society girl with an ambition to experience life to the full. Her love of excitement leads her into several thrilling adventures and an unfortunate marriage. However, true romance finally asserts itself, and the ending is a happy one.

The story centers round Stephanie Cleland, adopted daughter of a rich New Yorker, who has had from birth a craving for excitement. Her restlessness leads her into a loveless marriage, from which a real romance and a turn of fate extricates her. Ralph Kellard and Carlyle Blackwell have the chief male roles supporting Miss Davies. Robert Z. Leonard directed the picture, which was produced by Cosmopolitan for Paramount release.

As an added attraction Buster Keaton will be shown in his latest comedy "One Week" which is one of the biggest laughs of the year. The latest News Reel and also the Topics of the Day will be shown. A special arranged musical programme will be rendered by the famous Strand orchestra, under the direction of Miss Mignon Teigmann. Sid Grant, baritone, will render his latest song revue. The attraction announced for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Jan. 27-29th, is "To Please One Woman," a Lois Weber production.—Adv.

SHOULD VISIT CANADA

London Times' Suggestion for Winston Churchill.

London, Jan. 22.—Discussing the appointment of Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill as colonial secretary, the Times says that, while he has made mistakes, the dominions would sooner have a man of impetuosity and energy at the colonial office than the type of British politician who cannot mention the empire without lapsing into prosy platitudes. The Times, however, suggests that Mr. Churchill should have far more recent knowledge of the dominions than he now possesses, and says a flying visit to the dominions, preferably before the dominion premiers meet here in June, would be of value to him. The Times adds that if at the June meeting the dominion premiers show a decided preference for having the formal charge of the affairs of their country in London taken from the colonial office, there is little doubt that their views in the matter will be met; but it is at that time Mr. Churchill has shown conspicuousness as the British minister in constant touch with the dominions they may very possibly be content to maintain the present relations, and leave well enough alone.
