LABOR SITUATION GOOD

Kingston Men Are Lucky—Ice Cutting and Vessel Repairs to Come.

"Taking all things into consideration, the labor situation in Kingston so far this winter has been very good," was the statement of A. W. Stroud, local agent for the Ontario government labor employment bureau. Mr. Stroud says it is true that a very large number of men have applied for work, but he had been fortunate in securing jobs for a large number of the applicants. His records show that up until Saturday evening every married man with children, who had applied for work on the Macdonnell street sewer or the drain work at Barrieffield hutments, had been given a position.

It is stated that at the present time about thirty-five men are busy tearing up the water pipe on the Barrieffield commons. This pipe will be used in Macdonnell street. The workmen who are doing the excavation on Macdonnell street have removed most of the loose material, so from now on most of their time will be spent in drilling rock.

About one hundred returned men are at work tearing down the old hutments at Barrieffield commons. The men expect that the work will not last very long.

When one reads the labor reports sent out by the different cities in the province, it is found that Kingston is in very good shape. In many places hundreds of men are out of employment and there is no sign of them getting any work.

During the past week many farmers living in the Kingston district have applied for hired help. In practically every case the farmers demand experienced help, which is almost impossible to get. There are many men who know something about farm work but they could not be classed as experienced help, and for that reason cannot go to work in the country. The wages paid on the farm range from $20 to $25 a month.

The local employment office reports that things have brightened up during the past one week or ten days. The Dominion Textile mill, which was closed up for some weeks, is now working three days a week, while the Canadian Locomotive Works, which is looked upon as Kingston's leading industry, is running on full time. It is stated that this company has enough orders on hand to keep the men busy for some time. The Collingwood Shipbuilding is busy finishing up a government steamer and will also repair five or six steamers which are due to dock this winter. It is hoped that the work of repairing the steamers owned by the Canada steamship lines, which are wintering in Kingston, will commence very soon. A survey has been made of all the work necessary.

Some of the men who are out of work are waiting for the cold weather when the harbor will freeze up good and thick and the work of cutting ice for storage will commence. Once the ice is thick enough the work of cutting will have to be pushed along.

A Whig representative, who calls at the office of Mr. Stroud, has been impressed with the service offered to the men out of work. Those in charge do everything in their power to help them. In some other cities men have to stand for hours out in the cold waiting for positions, but at the Kingston office the place is warm and has a good seating arrangement.

On Monday morning A. W. Stroud announced that there are 700 men employed at the Canadian Locomotive Works; 275 at the Collingwood Dominion Textile company's mill; the Dominion Textile company mill; 50 men on Macdonnell street sewer and 40 at work digging up the water pipes at the Barrieffield hutments.

HE WAS BOUND OVER TO KEEP THE PEACE

Complainant Not Anxious to Press Charge Against Daniel Bates.

Daniel Bates is a lucky man. A week ago, while intoxicated, he made an attack on one, William Abbott. Abbott had his shoulder dislocated, but in spite of all this, he was quite willing to give Bates a chance, for the sake of his wife and family.

And in police court, on Monday morning, the case having been remanded for week, Magistrate Farrell allowed Bates to go on suspended sentence and had him bound over in the sum of $500 to keep the peace. Magistrate Farrell pointed out to Bates that he came near having to answer to a far more serious charge. He had attacked Abbott and had he gone a little farther, a tragedy might have occurred.

Rev. E. D. Silcox, Aged 72, Gave Address and Solo

Rev. E. D. Silcox, editor of The Congregationalist, and a veteran in temperance ranks, having been identified with the Dominion Alliance ever since it was organized, preached in Bethel church, on Sunday evening, and in addition to a most inspiring address, he sang a solo, "Since Jesus Came Into My Soul," in fine voice. Mr. Silcox, who is seventy-two years of age, is always a welcome visitor to Kingston, and his addresses are always listened to with keen interest. Mr. Silcox gave an address on Wolfe Island, on Sunday morning.

The inaugural meeting of the county council is to be held at the court house on Tuesday afternoon. It is not known who is likely to be elected warden, but the choice will be likely be made from Charles McGregor, John Taylor and J. A. B. Clarke.
