THE GRADING OF CHEESE

Makers' Class Addressed by L. A. Zufelt and G. G. Publow.

Prof. L. A. Zufelt, superintendent of the Eastern Ontario Dairy School, and G. G. Publow, chief dairy inspector for eastern Ontario, gave lectures and demonstrations before the cheesemakers' class on cheese grading Thursday afternoon. This grading is necessary because of the commercial demands, the competition with on foreign markets and the desire of the Canadian government to maintain the highest standard for Canadian cheese in order that our reputation for high class cheese might secure a preference over that offered by other countries. In the past ten years there has been a great advance made in the cheese industry in Ontario, in quality as well as in financial returns and this is due, in a large measure, to the thoroughness of the instruction given in the dairy schools and the vigilance exercised over the manufacture by the chief inspector and his staff of instructors.

The chief cause of low grade cheese lies with the factory, although inferior milk or milk that has not been properly handled is an important factor, but, as pointed out by Mr. Publow, clean methods in the factory and the use of pure culture will generally overcome some conditions in milk, but an impure culture will invariably bring the best milk and result in inferior cheese. This was shown in the samples of cheese exhibited. The high grade cheese is distinguished by clean flavor, close texture and high mechanical finish, flavor being given 40 per cent. of the number of points required. Color, odor, acidity, openness, flavor and finish all are important indications of the future marketability of the cheese.

Mr. Publow endeavored to impress the class with the importance of arriving at accurate knowledge that would enable them, as makers, to overcome the conditions that resulted in defective output. Lax methods were the cause, and it was the aim of the school to see that every maker should know what were the requirements of the export and domestic trade, the standard set for high grade cheese and the methods adopted by government graders. While the grading took place after the cheese left the factory, the maker should always keep back a sample of his output for testing in order that he might know what changes occurred during the process of curing and be prepared to remedy anything he found not exactly right, and to check up reports of the graders. He stated that the requirements of grades Nos. 1, 2, 3 and specials. Specials were nothing more than ordinary fine cheese in perfect finish, showing the importance of the mechanical work performed in the factory.

Grading as carried on was the result of market experience on the part of the buyers who would meet with heavy losses if there was incompetence in the factories and in the methods employed in judging for classification. He pointed out the difficulties to be overcome at different seasons of the year and the character of cheese made in the summer, late fall and winter. In eastern Canada only high grade cheese will be accepted. Samples of cheese made in September, October and January were all inferior to cheese made in the summer. One sample made from the sour milk starter often resorted to by makers, showed unmistakable evidence of the results invariably following such a course. While the cheese was beautifully finished, nothing could overcome the rank flavor which made it unsaleable.

Mr. Zufelt gave a lecture along technical lines and pointed out important points that should never be overlooked. He introduced Mr. Forster, buyer for Messrs. Lovell and Christmas, Montreal, who attended the demonstration. The latter congratulated Mr. Zufelt and Mr. Publow for their intense interest shown in the technical and commercial features of their work. They had by their zeal and energy raised the dairy industry to a high place in eastern Ontario and made a most important contribution to the agricultural wealth of the province. He related some of his experience, and expressed the hope that the cheese industry might continue to be a great asset to the farmers.

A NOVEL CONDITION AT VERMONT JAIL

Prisoner Temporarily Became Keeper When Jailer Was Taken Ill.

Newfane, Vt., Feb. 25.—A prisoner's objecting to having another prisoner as his keeper has called attention to a novel condition at Newfane jail. When Jailer H. M. Burke was taken to a hospital for treatment the institution was left without a head. John Corcoran, one of the prisoners, sent word to a Brattleboro newspaper that Samuel Boyd, a fellow prisoner, had been placed in charge, and that prisoners had gone on strike to obtain food. High Sheriff P. L. Wellman, of Brattleboro, said that while Boyd in the emergency had been given certain responsibilities, he was never in charge.

A substitute and later a successor to Burke have been on duty, the sheriff said, but he added that Boyd had performed duties of which he would not have approved. The prisoner was given the keys to the cells, released and confined other prisoners, took them out on working parties and in other ways helped out. At one time the prisoner-keeper ordered prisoners working on the wood pile to turn to shovelling snow. They went on strike and were returned to their cells by Boyd, refusing to work for a time. This was probably the strike referred to by Corcoran, Sheriff Wellman thought. He added that Boyd had committed no crime, being at the jail under a civil procedure, and was the best man available to help out in the emergency.

SCIENTISTS FORM ANOTHER CHURCH

A Group Organize Independent Christian Science Church.

New York, Feb. 25.—A group of men and women who describe themselves as loyal Christian Scientists, but who say they are unable to take sides in the litigation within the church, have formed the first independent Christian Science church of New York City and will meet for the first time at the Hotel Astor on Sunday at 11 a.m. So far as could be learned, the formation of this church is the first actual breaking away in considerable numbers from the Mother Church of any of the Christian Scientists in the country. Much resentment, however, of acts which they considered infringed the teachings of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy has been expressed in various churches.

The break between the followers of the independent church and the Mother Church is believed to be irreparable as evidenced by the reported intention of the secessionists to build up instead of a central ecclesiastical organization a church whose earthly manifestation is made up of free and independent congregations each entirely self-governed, not only in theory, but in all respects. There will be no Mother Church, no central authority.

Million Germans Are Public Charges.

Berlin, Feb. 25.—That ten per cent. of the entire population of Germany are wholly or partially without employment, was a semi-official statement published.

For January and February the figures show that 422,000 men are receiving unemployment support from the government or municipalities, while 495,000 members of families received financial aid. This makes close to one million people whom the tax payers are supporting. Another million unemployed are not entitled to support, while four millions are working only part time and need some assistance.
