Ireland Proposed Registrar of University of Cork.

Cork, Feb. 26 .- An original scheme of government for Ireland, proposed by Professor Alfred O'Rahilly, registrar of the University of Cork, is arousing great interest in Ireland. The correspondent has been informed that the plan has been indorsed by many men prominent in the Sinn Fein movement, in which Professor O'Rahilly is a recognized leader.

Briefly, the scheme calls for an Irish confederation and, according to Professor O'Rahilly, who discussed it at length in an interview with the correspondent, it provides the only solution of the northeast Ulster ques-

Professor O'Rahilly is not opposed to the idea of partition. "Our proper attitude," he said, "should be to insist on more partition. Ireland should be divided not into two but into 40 regions.
