MAJOR W. J. McMANUS RETIRES MARCH 31ST

He Has Seen Thirty Years'
Service in the Canadian Army.

Major W. J. McManus, instructor al cadre, M.D., No. 3, retires on Thursday next after thirty years of active military life. Major McManus began his career in the Duke of Cornwall's Own Rifles, Vancouver, B.C., but his most important service was rendered during the great war 1914-1918. He left Vancouver in August 1914, where he was an insurance broker, in charge of a draft for the Royal Canadian Regiment and in September went with the unit to Bermuda. When the unit was relieved for service in France, Major McManus was pronounced medically unfit, owing to defective vision and was sent to Halifax in November. Here he took up duty in the Royal School of Infantry as chief instructor until April 1916, when he was transferred to the instructional cadre, M.D., No. 3. He did splendid work during the duration of the war. Since the armistice, he has been employed on reorganization, and organized and carried on schools of instruction for the newly-organized active militia units.

Major McManus was a highly qualified officer, holding certificates from officers training schools in England, and his thorough knowledge of military law, and procedure, together with his zeal for the welfare of the service, made him a most valuable member of the district headquarters staff.

ABANDONS HER LEG TO ESCAPE THE MUD

Girl Caught in Mire Unstraps
Artificial Limb and Hops
Away.

Hamilton, March 28.—Proof of the impassable condition of roads in East Hamilton came to hand last night when the crew of a Belt Line car discovered a little crippled girl mired in the mud on Kenilworth avenue and appealing for help.

The brave little child in an effort to extricate herself had removed her artificial limb, and the street car motorman thought at first that the limb had been severed.

"No, I'm all right; it's only this old leg of mine that always gets stuck if there's any mud around," replied the little girl.

She was lifted aboard the car and taken to within one block of her home, where, with her artificial limb strapped on again, she left the car.

At Pembroke woollen mill quite a number of employees have been added to the staff during the past couple of weeks. A welcome revival of activity is being experienced.

CONSIDERABLE ACTIVITY

Was Shown in the Stock Market
Last Week.

A. J. Pattison, Jr., & Co., 106 Bay street, Toronto, in commenting on the unlisted market for the past week say that the general market showed considerable activity as compared with the last few weeks. Buyers were in the majority with the result that in most cases prices showed some improvement. The outstanding feature was the large demand for Imperial Oil which moved the stock up from the low of the week, closing 101-105 here. It is quite apparent that a number of buyers have been waiting for such a recession as that which recently occurred to obtain stock and did not hesitate to avail themselves of the first opportunity. Alberta Pacific Grain Common was offered quite freely at 150 with no bids in the market closer than 130; the preferred remains unchanged at 78½-84. Robert Simpson Preferred advanced to 77-82 on good investment buying—at the close many bids appeared in the market and only a small lot of stock was available at the offered price. Sterling Coal was dealt in to a limited extent, the market advancing to 21½-24 on a few transactions. Canadian Woollens Common displayed considerable weakness, the stock was offered down to 35 with no bid even at this level. Cocksfoot Plow Preferred was inactive; the stock was offered quite freely at 62½ the best bid being 60.

Last week two most successful euchre and dance parties were held in the G. W. V. A. assembly hall, the rooms being taxed to their capacity. The ladies prizes were won by Mrs. Rawley, Mrs. Rawlinson, Mrs. Dow and Mrs. Laundern and the gentlemen's by Mr. Wainwright, Mr. Tyson, Mr. Van de Walker and H. Saunders. Refreshments were served by the G. W. V. A. Ladies Auxiliary. Salsbury's orchestra supplied the music. The dances are a financial success leaving a surplus available for the relief of any comrade in distress.
