"Way Down East." Reserved seats will be placed off sale to-morrow for the engagement of D. W. Griffith's wonder spectacle, "Way Down East," which will be seen for the first time in this city at the Grand Opera House for a stay of three days beginning Monday, April 11th.

The "Maple Leafs." One of the most beautiful ensembles numbers in the "Maple Leafs" big musical comedy revue, "Camouflage," is the Colonial Ball, where all the boys are dressed as belles of 1860.

At the Strand. Situations teeming with choking suspense, unlimited in their potential possibilities, and yet practically devoid of physical action are presented in "Beau Revel," the latest Paramount-Ince picture story of New York society life which comes to the Strand Theatre to-morrow.

Many of the scenes of the fascinating drama, which embody a subtle charm, are the result of the deep psychological insight of the author, Louis Joseph Vance, one of America's leading novelists.

With such delicate psychological finesse has this powerful situation been approached—the father conscious that he has deceived his one close friend and confidant, the son knowing only that the girl's love has been taken from him, and the girl heartbroken and furious at being, as she supposes, the dupe of the two.

The extra added attraction to be shown in connection with this master attraction will be Mack Sennett's latest comedy, "Movie Fans," which is a riot and will chase away all the blues and make you happy with joy.

The usual short subjects will be screened, including a Snub Pollard comedy, the latest British News, Paramount Magazine, known as the educational delineator. The management begs to announce that starting to-morrow and on every Thursday, Friday and Saturday following that the latest Mutt and Jeff cartoon will be shown as an extra.

"Kismet" At The Strand. The most remarkable event in motion pictures will take place next week, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, when the miracle of photoplay art, "Kismet," will be shown at the Strand. Seldom do theatres so small as the Strand attempt such a big venture as to bring under such an enormous cost an attraction so stupendous as this marvelous ten reel super-photoplay.

Ranking next in importance to the selection of the cast was the matter of costuming. Julian Harrison, creator of raiment unique, was commissioned to design the costumes, which surpass in splendor anything ever before shown on the stage or screen.

And then there is—but one might go on forever and ever telling of the exotic charm of it all, for there are thousands of costumes provided for the "populace," all varied and different, more gorgeous in coloring than the rainbow. Suffice it to say that never before has there been offered to the public a production which embodies so much artistry in every phase as does "Kismet," which represents a tremendous outlay of money to obtain the results of the combined efforts of the best talent obtainable in America.

The price for this wonder event will be reserved seats, 50c, general admission, 35c, and these prices include the tax. Special matinee will be given every day at bargain prices so we impress upon those that can avail themselves the opportunity of attending the matinees to do so. Tickets are now on sale at the box office.—Adv.

At The Allen. James Whitcomb Riley's best known poem, "The Old Swimming Hole," tells itself in motion pictures—an achievement due to both the universal note of understanding which the verses strike, and to the manner in which Charles Ray has pictured them. When the filming was completed and the results was projected in the Ray studio, it was found that not one single subtitle was necessary to explain the action or the motive of the story.

Dress For The Matron. Here are a few things about dress which the average matron should remember, says a clothes expert: Long lines and soft draperies are becoming to her. The inclined-to-be-stout woman should avoid very short skirts, even if her ankles are slim. Dark dresses should always be relieved by a touch of ivory-white or cream—the touch of white must be spotless. The woman who is getting on in years should remember that unless she has a particularly good skin and complexion she cannot wear unrelieved dark colors successfully. They should always be brightened up by a touch of white or some bright color which is individually becoming. She will be wise, also, to shun short sleeves, whatever the fashion, as far as her day dress is concerned.

Tips to Housewives. Before washing greasy plates, rub with cornmeal, scrape off, and feed to chickens. Rub a rusty article with onion peel and allow juice to remain on for 24 hours. Polish with turpentine.

Bibby, Elmer Davis, J. H. Birkett, James Crawford, Dr. Bruce Taylor, Mayor Nickle, C. A. Macpherson, Francis King and W. F. Nickle.

The management committee acknowledged a communication from the Kiwanis Club stating that the club having heard that it desired to improve the system for heating water for baths, etc., would be very pleased to contribute the sum of $400 to be used towards this end.

It was stated that the graduating exercises in connection with the training school for nurses would be held early in May and the board left the arrangements connected with this event in the hands of the committee of management.

The committee report also that Miss Mason, Toronto, has been engaged as a masseuse to work in connection with the hospital. She is to give at present only half time, namely from one to five o'clock each day. A communication was read from the Nurses' Alumnae Association and after being freely discussed was referred to the committee of management and the medical staff for report at the next meeting.

W. F. Nickle brought up the matter of the new buildings. He called the attention of the board to the vacancies in the executive of the building committee caused by the death of Robert Richardson, and G. Y. Chown. The board afterwards elected Dr. J. C.
