WRONG TO ABUSE POWER GUEST OF CANADIAN CLUB

Rotarian George W. Matthews, Toronto, Speaks at Rotary Club Luncheon.

The principles of Rotary were set forth in a strong address to the Kingston Rotary Club by Rotarian George W. Matthews, Toronto, at the luncheon of the Kingston Rotary Club at the British American hotel on Thursday. He declared that Rotary stood for co-operation of the highest order, and that it stood for the members conforming their lives to God's form of living, as set down in His commandments. Rotary stood for the improving of mankind.

"One of the lessons to be drawn from the life of our Saviour," said the speaker, "is that it is wrong to abuse power in any way. The abuse of power has been the curse of the world."

The speaker congratulated the local club on its formation and the advancement it had made under the able guidance of President "Joe" Stewart. He predicted for the club great success judging by the rulings of the president and the manner in which the money rolled in.

In the work of Rotary, the speaker said that each member should begin with himself. There were many opportunities for service. One must not work in a narrow channel, but seek the path which to Rotary work on which would lead to the sea of earnest endeavor. We should do our utmost to improve our own community. No matter how small the community, we should do our best to improve it. Better communities brought about better townships, better counties and finally better provinces.

The address of Rotarian Matthews was a most inspiring one, and was listened to with keen interest, and at the close the speaker was tendered a hearty vote of thanks.

Following out the instructions given him at last week's meeting, Rotarian Harry Richardson had a piano on hand for the "session." H. J. Singleton presided at the instrument, and the Rotary club's songs were rendered with a swing that was most refreshing. The singing was good, several of the numbers making a big hit.

President "Joe" was right on the job every minute, and as a result a good sum of money was collected in fines from members who disregarded rules and regulations. In the absence of Sergeant-at-arms Graham, Rotarian "Jack" Phillips was appointed to act in his place, and he collected the fines like an old timer at the game.

H. Breathwaite and J. D. Bankier were introduced as new members and were given a warm welcome.

Secretary "Roy" Ward read a communication regarding the big convention of Rotarians to be held in Edinburgh, Scotland, but no action was taken for the present.

Resign Hospital Positions.

Misses Murdock and Guild have resigned their positions on the nursing staff of the Kingston General Hospital, and leave on the 18th of April for Philadelphia, Pa. where they have received hospital appointments. Both have rendered excellent service in the General Hospital here.

TAKE CARE OF THAT COUGH

Some people get a nasty cough and don't pay much attention to it, saying, "Oh, it will wear away in a short time," but while it may wear off, serious injury may have been done to the lungs and respiratory organs by the prolonged, harsh, racking coughing.

On the first sign of a cough or cold get a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It will stop that nasty, troublesome cough, ease the tightness across the chest, and loosen the phlegm.

Mrs. Wm. Earnshaw, Apsley, Ont., writes:—"Last winter I caught a bad cold, had a sore throat and a terrible hacking cough that I could not get rid of. I could not sleep at night. I tried quite a few remedies, but they did not do me much good until I got Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. By the time I had taken two bottles, my cough was all gone. I feel that "Dr. Wood's has no equal."

When you get Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, you are not experimenting with new and untried remedies, but one that has a reputation extending over thirty years.

Put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 35c. and 60c. a bottle, manufactured only by The T. Millburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Sir Charles Stuart, K.B.C., to Visit Kingston Some-time in May.

Sir Campbell Stuart, K.B.E., managing director of the London Times, a native of Montreal, is to pay Canada a visit next month. He is coming to Kingston to visit the family plot in St. Paul's churchyard in which are buried the Canadian founder of his family and other members of it. He is a great great grandson of the Rev. John Stuart, D.D., the first rector of Kingston and the first school master in the province of Ontario.

The distinguished Canadian raised the Duchess of Connaught Rangers in Montreal for service in the recent war, did important diplomatic work and wrote "The Secrets of Crewe House" to tell of British propaganda in enemy countries.

It is fully expected in his arrival in Kingston he will be the guest of the Canadian Club, that organization having invited him to dine with its members and to address them on some timely theme.

ANOTHER CRITIC OF YOUTH

Things Are Not Nearly As Bad As Professor Believes.

London Advertiser.

Prof. J. L. Morison, of Queen's University, took a rather gloomy view of the reading of Canadian youth in an address before one of the sections of the Ontario Educational Association meeting in Toronto. Prof. Morison expressed regret that the average young Canadian cared nothing for books. He said: "The disease of the Bible today is a disaster to education. Organized amusement, the automobile and the moving picture show are challenging the reading of books. The garage has displaced the library; golf clubs have taken the place of books."

Prof. Morison's viewpoint is somewhat like that of a London clergyman who recently expressed the view that the average young person today "knows more about Fatty Arbuckle than about Abraham, more about Mary Pickford than about Rebecca." But, after all, perhaps it isn't quite as bad as that. In Toronto, where Prof. Morison was speaking, the public library last year loaned over a million and a half of books, and Toronto boys and girls borrowed over 400,000 of these. London Public Library for a couple of years past has loaned out over 300,000 books, which is an average of at least five per head of population. Many thousands more were read or consulted within the library, and not taken to the homes. More than any other influence today it is the public library which conserves and develops the public taste. As Dr. Locke of the Toronto Public Library said in a recent address: "Without the library there is comparatively little protection in any community against the cheap, the common, the trashy, not to mention the vulgar and nasty in literature. Its very catholicity in taste and democracy in administration make it the representative public social institution of any community—and out Ontario communities are commencing to realize it."

No, things are not nearly as bad as Prof. Morison would have us believe. The boys and girls of today are reading more books and better books than the boys of fifteen years ago were reading. They are learning the use of libraries, and it will stick with them. The reading tastes of older folks, Prof. Morison's contemporaries, are usually worse than those of the younger generation, as every librarian knows. The young folk of today are not perfect, far from it, but as one writer recently put it: "If they were very much worse they would be getting almost as bad as their parents were before them." It is the weakness of age to forget its own youth.

DECIDEDLY INTERESTING
Was The Movies of a Newspaper in The Making.

One of the features in the film bill at the Allen the last three days of this week was interesting from the newspaper's point of view and would have been vastly more interesting had there been more of it. During the screening of Canadian news subjects scenes were shown of the production of one of the large Toronto newspapers. As practically all newspapers of any size use the same methods now, it serves to give the people an idea of the various operations necessary in turning out the newspaper they read. For the sake of brevity it was necessary to cut out many of the details in the operations, but a good general idea may be obtained
