"Queen Zephra."

"Queen Zephra" last night was even more than any advance notices had claimed for it. Everything went off smoothly and in such a beautiful manner as to astound the audience. The work of the amateurs in this fine production is nothing short of won-derful, considering the very short time in which they prepared for it. It is one of the largest and most gorgeously staged extravaganzas ever seen in Kingston and possesses the added attraction that the whole company is composed of Kingston people.

This production is being staged under the auspices of the Amnandale Chapter, Daughters of the Empire, for the purpose of raising funds for a memorial, and deserves the support of all who can possibly attend. In that it is an amateur production it also deserves encouragement. Too much praise cannot be given to Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Drake and the cast for the hard and careful work they have expended to make the play a success or to those who have given their time and labour to promoting the play and working on its behalf.

"Queen Zephra" is being produced again this afternoon and this evening and those who have not seen it should do so if they possibly can. Tonight is "Military Night" and the boxes will be filled with the military officials of the district. This is a splendid opportunity of witnessing a super-production at prices which are extremely low.—Adv't.

Trans-Canada English Players.

Trans-Canada's all-star English Players, a company of the foremost English dramatic actors, headed by Henry Lonsdale, Norman B. Cannon, Frederick Ross, Vernon Fortesque, Dorothy Reeve, Peggy Bryett, and a dozen other players of exceptional ability will present Henry Arthur Jones' great success, "The Silver King," at the Grand Opera House, Friday, April 22nd, and Saturday night, April 23rd and at the same time, "East Lynne," at the Saturday matinee, April 23rd, by special request.

This company was organized in England by Trans-Canada Theatres, Limited, Percy Hutchinson and Walter Howard with a view of giving theatre-goers of Canada a series of the foremost English stage successes at pre-war prices.

Their initial engagement in Canada at His Majesty's Theatre, Montreal, where they played two weeks to crowded houses, after which they duplicated their success in Toronto for a season of five weeks, and are now playing a short season on the road prior to their return to His Majesty's Theatre, Montreal.

It is the intention of Trans-Canada Theatres, Limited, to make this organization a permanent feature of each theatrical season in Canada, and their offering will include a repertoire of some thirty or forty standard dramas which they will present here from time to time.—Adv't.

At the Griffin.

Louise Glaum, the famous emotional artist, in J. Parker Read, Jr.'s soul-stirring drama, "The Lone Wolf's Daughter," a W. W. Hodgkinson release from the powerful pen of Louis Joseph Vance, is the attraction at the Griffin Theatre, beginning Monday. The star's tremendous following is certain to find it every bit as interest-compelling and thrilling as her recent triumph, "Sahara," acclaimed everywhere as one of the most popular productions of the year.

Louise Glaum plays the role of Sonia, a beautiful young Londoner reared by a stranger in ignorance of the fact that she is the daughter of the Lone Wolf, and now the victim of a band of desperate plunderers, because of an ancient feud between the prince and the Lone Wolf over her mother, one-time wife of the prince. At the prince's home she finds a good friend in Roger Karslake, posing as a secretary but in reality a Scotland Yard man seeking to trap the bandit chieftain and his followers. Karslake has brought Sonia to the home of the prince, who claims to be her father in his scheme to ensnare the Lone Wolf. Through the aid of Karslake, who has grown to love Sonia, the prince's crafty enemy is installed in Victor's home as the butler.

That night the prince is summoned to the Limehouse rendezvous of the band, and Sonia, disguised as a Chinese maid, accompanies him as messenger. There she learns of Victor's plottings to enable Karslake to assemble his men for a round-up.

This is accomplished but not until after a series of thrilling gun fights in which Prince Victor is killed and a battle with flames in which Sonia, trapped on the roof of the fire-swept structure, is rescued by Karslake with the aid of a derrick from a passing steamer.

In addition to the above big production another surprise is in store for Kingston's movie fans. Bert Caldwell, who created quite a furor here last season, will again appear this time at the Griffin, and will give you some real singing. He has a fine programme to offer of the very latest songs. Bert Caldwell will appear at matinee and evening performances. All lovers of good singing should make it a point of coming to hear this popular singer. The Griffin concert orchestra of ten pieces, under the leadership of Gerald Radcliffe, will render a musical scale second to none in the city. A two-reel Mack Sennett comedy will round out a programme that has not been seen in this city for some time. Popular prices are the rule: Matinee: Adults, 20c; children, 15c. Evening: Adults, 35c; Children, 25c. Manager Wilson has pleasure in announcing that the above programme is the first of his own book- ing. Try his menu.—Adv't.

At the Strand.

The big attraction, "Black Beauty," opens at the Strand for a three-day run Monday. Harry Pomeroy, the energetic manager of the Strand, returned from Toronto last night, after witnessing a private screening of this tremendous attraction. "I can only say it's great," remarked Mr. Pomeroy, "I could never start to tell you the merit of this attraction." Still popular after running through scores of huge editions since its first mighty bid for enduring fame more than forty years ago, "Black Beauty," by Anna Sewell, is establishing a record in another field of human interest. After forty years, "Black Beauty" ranks eighth in popularity among the world's books. At the beginning of his career in motion pictures he was even stronger than the one it made through the printed page.

"Black Beauty," a Vitaphone all-star special production, will be shown at the Strand theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Extraordinary difficulties were faced and overcome in visualizing "Black Beauty," but those which at first were looked upon as the greatest turned out to be the least. The first question raised was, "Can horses be trained to perform exactly the action of Anna Sewell's book, so that the story in pictures can be accurately and faithfully told?"

After long continued and patient experiments, it was found that for the most part no training would be necessary, as all the action of horses in the wonderful book is natural to them at certain times under certain circumstances. The fact that the action is natural, spontaneous, is an important part in the greatness of Anna Sewell's immortal work. The filming of this action, therefore, became largely a matter of time and patience, and complete success was attained at last.

The problem of presenting "Black Beauty" as a screen drama of the strongest possible appeal, with a gripping thrilling story, was more baffling. Mr. and Mrs. George Randolph Chester, who prepared the screen version, were unwilling to take any liberties in altering the text or changing the form of a work regarded with reverence by millions of readers. The problem was pondered for weeks before the inspiration came.

"Black Beauty" is being presented with an atmospheric prologue. Special music has been arranged for this masterpiece and the usual short subjects will be screened.—Adv't.

At the Allen.

"Nothing that within you lies can change the plan of which you are a tiny part. Choose any road you east, go west, or north or south and meet the thing from which you ran away." That is the substance of "Roads of Destiny," one of O. Henry's masterpieces of short fiction, a screen adaptation of which will come to this theatre on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. Rose Merritt, death and disillusion wherever she turns. The genius of O. Henry found a means to show that no matter what she did or where she went, Rose Merritt could not escape the fell clutch of Destiny. In the four episodes of the film she is four different persons—though but one and the same essentially—a crozier at a roulette wheel in an Alaskan gambling den; a courted society favorite on fashionable Long Island, and her own self,

KINGSTON GARRISON RIFLE ASSOCIATION

City to Have One Strong Organization—Lieut.-Col. Hodgins President.

A meeting was held Thursday evening for the purpose of organizing a rifle association in the Kingston garrison, open to members of the permanent and non-permanent active militia units, also to the staff and gentlemen cadets of the Royal Military College, representatives from all units being present.

The main object in organizing under one head was to have a strong association, instead of the several smaller ones. It was also felt that greater encouragement should be given to younger members.

It is proposed to classify the members under two or three groups, so as to give each a fair chance of winning trophies given for competition, and it is anticipated that Kingston will produce some excellent shooting this year, as it did last, in the Ontario and Dominion competitions.

Two cups have already been donated for annual competition, and it is anticipated several others, together with spoons, will be given in the near future. Cups have been given by Brig-Gen. W. B. M. King, C.M.G., D.S.O., known as the King Cup, and by R. J. Rodger, known as the Aggregate Cup.

The following officers were appointed: President, Lt.-Col. F. O. Hodgins, D.S.O.; Hon. President, Brig-Gen. W. B. M. King; Hon. Vice-Presidents, Sir A. C. Macdonnell, K.C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O.; Lt.-Col.
