In the interior of China natives hatch both hen and duck eggs by burying them in lukewarm rice which they reheat daily.

"NEAR SIGHTEDNESS"

In all cases this should be attended to at once, and more especially in children.

If you find your child holding his or her books too close to the face or peering to see some more distant object, have their eyes examined at once, because delay in having the proper Glasses fitted will increase the defect and cause more serious trouble.

STEAMER WAUBIC ARRIVES

The Vessel for the Cape Route Reached Here Tuesday Evening.

The steamer Waubic, formerly owned by the Canada Steamship Lines, which was recently purchased by the Rockport Navigation Company for service on the Kingston-Cape Vincent route, arrived here at a late hour on Tuesday evening.

The steamer, which is steel, is 135 feet long, and has a 25-foot beam. She is up-to-date in every respect. She has a carrying capacity of about five hundred. The cabin on the second deck is beautifully fitted out with lounge chairs. On the main deck there is a cafeteria, but the new owners intend to move this to the second deck and use the room on the first deck for storing automobiles. When the repairs are made, there will be sufficient room for twelve automobiles. It is expected that the steamer will be put into service about the middle of May.

The steamer was built by the Collingwood Shipbuilding Company in 1909 and has been running on the Thirty Thousand Island route for some time. She was on the same run as the steamer Thousand Islander, which formerly ran out of Kingston.

Capt. R. H. Carnegie, who will command the steamer, brought her from Sarnia. Capt. James Dix, who has sailed the lakes for years, piloted the steamer. The Waubic left Sarnia on Thursday last, but on account of the heavy wind she took shelter at Burrow Point, in Lake Erie, for two days. She was one of the first steamers to pass through the Welland canal this season.

James Gillies, who for years was chief engineer of the Thousand Island Steamboat Company, was in charge of the engines on the trip down.

Hundreds of citizens had the privilege of inspecting the steamer on Wednesday.

DIED AT SAULT STE. MARIE.

Funeral of Late Mrs. Charles J. O'Neill.

There passed away in Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, on April 3rd, at the age of sixty-five years, after a lingering illness of three years, Teresa Carroll, beloved wife of the Charles J. O'Neill, former residents of Kingston. For the past twenty-one years deceased has been a resident of Sault Ste. Besides her husband she leaves to mourn her loss five sons and one daughter, Melville and George, Hamilton; Howard, Milwaukee, Wis.; Norman and Sidney, Sault Ste. Marie, and Mrs. D. Dewar, Sault Ste. Marie, also seventy-five grandchildren.

The funeral, largely attended, took place on Wednesday following her decease from the family residence to St. Ignatius church where a requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Meador and proceeded to St. Ignatius cemetery. The pall bearers were her five sons and one son-in-law. The spiritual and floral offerings were numerous and beautiful.

"DAMAGED GOODS" ON LAST TIME TO-NIGHT

The Picture at the Grand Has Been Warmly Commended.

"An excellent picture, and one that every adult should see," was the remark a Whig representative heard one in the audience at the Grand remark last night make after witnessing "Damaged Goods."

This was the verdict of all who had the pleasure of witnessing this fine picture, which deals with a subject that every grown up should understand.

The picture was presented before two good audiences on Tuesday. In addition to its educational value, the picture also carries with it a most entertaining story, and with the special music rendered by the orchestra provides a most interesting photo play.

"Damaged Goods" is a wonderful picture, and no person can witness it without coming away with a feeling that he or she has been given something to think over and something that will help to strengthen one. It is a powerful plea for the single code of morality. The picture should be of great benefit to the young man who believes that it is necessary for him to sow his wild oats", while father and mother will have clearly brought home to them the importance of knowing the young man who is to wed their daughter.

The Whig has heard many warm words of commendation for Mr. Branigan, for his having been able to secure this much-talked of production.

"Damaged Goods" will be given its final presentation at the Grand Opera House tonight.
