Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises
TELLS SAFE, SIMPLE WAY TO TREAT AND RELIEVE AT HOME.

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises caused by catarrh, or if phlegm drops in your throat and has caused catarrh of the stomach or bowels you will be glad to know that these distressing symptoms may be entirely overcome in many instances by the following treatment which you can easily prepare in your own home at little cost. Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmit (Double Strength). Take of this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. An improvement is sometimes noted after the first day's treatment. Breathing should become easy, while the distressing head noises, headaches, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., should gradually disappear under the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell, taste, defective hearing and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms which suggest the presence of catarrh and which may often be overcome by this efficacious treatment. It is said that nearly ninety per cent. of all ear troubles are caused by catarrh and there must, therefore, be many people whose hearing will be restored by this simple, harmless, home treatment.

Good Night Stories

IF DREAMS CAME TRUE

Johnny Green Frog sat on the log and watched old Daddy Pike biting a worm, and he sighed so deeply that Daddy Pike laughed at him.
"You may laugh and make fun of you wish," croaked Johnny Green Frog, "but I guess it wouldn't be so funny if you were in my place."
"Well, now," snapped Daddy Pike, "I really didn't mean to be rude, but I can't for the life of me see why any one should sigh on such a lovely day as this."
"Pooh!" croaked Johnny Green Frog. "What has the weather to do with one's eating, I'd like to know? I guess if you hadn't a tooth in your head you'd feel slighted, too. It's no laughing matter."
"No teeth!" exclaimed Daddy Pike. "Why, really, Johnny, I didn't know that! What a terrible calamity! Indeed, I shouldn't know what to do without mine. Why, how in the world do you eat without teeth?"
"Easy enough after you get used to it," snapped Johnny Green Frog. Ever since he had been old enough to know other folks had them, Johnny Green Frog had longed for teeth.
"But, how do you catch your food without teeth?" asked Daddy Pike, swimming nearer to get a good look into his friend's mouth.
"Oh, I just run out my tongue this way!" and Johnny Green Frog's tongue shot out of his mouth and nipped up a fly. "Then I swallow it right down."
"Terrible!" cried Daddy Pike. "I never heard of such a thing! If I were in your place I'd go to old Perch Witch and demand a set of teeth," and making a great splash, Daddy Pike swam away.
Johnny Green Frog sat and thought a long, long time after Daddy Pike swam away. The sun was warm and it made him feel drowsy and lazy.
"I'll just run over to Perch Witch's place before I take my afternoon nap," he yawned.
Then he scrambled down the side of the log and swam to old Perch Witch's house.
She was glad to see Johnny and invited him into her funny little house under the stones.
Johnny Green Frog soon made known his wants. Perch Witch didn't seem to think it was a strange request, and right then and there she fashioned Johnny two lovely rows of teeth and fastened them inside his mouth.
"At first they'll feel queer," she laughed, "but you'll get used to them," and she bowed Johnny out of the place.
"My! How full his mouth felt!" He tried to swallow, but the teeth seemed in his way. He spied a fly, a beauty, but when he tried to pop his tongue out as he usually did, it became entangled in his teeth and he nearly tore his tongue. Then he tried to bite at the fly with his teeth, but he couldn't get near enough and the fly sailed away.
When Johnny Green Frog reached home, Daddy Pike was waiting for him. But when Johnny tried to speak to him he found his teeth took up so much room in his mouth he couldn't talk.

He was having a terrible time when his little sister, Sadie Green Frog, hopped upon the log and shoved him into the water.

Johnny Green Frog opened his eyes with a start.

He had been asleep and had dreamed the whole thing, but it all seemed so real he could hardly believe his eyes when he saw his reflection in the water and saw no teeth in his mouth.

"Really, sister, haven't I any teeth?" he asked, as he hopped upon the log again beside his sister.

"Teeth!" laughed Sadie. "Why, who ever heard of a frog with teeth? I should say not! I wouldn't change my long, snappy tongue for a set of teeth for anything," and she snapped up a fly who was basking in the sun.

Johnny Green Frog never said a word, but down in his heart he was certainly glad his wish had been only a dream.

Three Minute Journeys

Where Rags on Trees Proclaim a Man's Goodness.

In the strange and picturesque land of Algeria, goodness has for many generations been esteemed. So great is the reverence for a good man that when a person has lived a blameless life, notable for good deeds and charity, he not only wins the respect of his neighbors, but is given a title. He is called "Marabout."

During his lifetime a Marabout is believed to be a worker of miracles.

A Marabout Tree.

Even after his death his ability to perform miracles is thought not to be lessened, but increased. Therefore, the tomb of a Marabout is visited by friends and neighbors, and strangers as well, and their prayers are said and petitions made.

Strangely, however, the title of Marabout does not die with the man who has won it. It is handed down from father to son. This sometimes results in men who by no means live blameless lives bearing the most respected title Algerians can bestow.

But the custom of according such a reward to good men has its effects upon many who earnestly strive to win the reputation as well as the title. When a Marabout really tries to live the best life his conscience indicates, he orders his days along stern and simple lines.

Much of his time is spent in writing charms to be worn by those who believe him a miracle worker. These charms are sometimes worn in silver cases, and are supposed to protect the wearer from sickness, or to cure him if he is ill, and to bring him good luck.

The Marabout also is a giver of advice. He tells those who come to ask him what to do, the best way he knows of solving their problems. Thus, besides setting a good example to his neighbors, the Marabout also inculcates just ways of conduct in given instances. Thus his influence becomes far-reaching.

So esteemed are certain Marabouts that it is thought that merely to eat of the food in his house brings a blessing in the form of holiness taken with the food. The Marabout gives of what he has to every one who comes to him, but he is not above accepting gifts. Indeed, the giving of presents to a Marabout is thought to bring reward to the giver. Thus the Marabout receives from every one

HOW RHEUMATISM CAN BE OVERCOME

Not by Rubbing, But by Enriching the Blood.

Rheumatism is a disorder of the blood. It attacks people when the blood is overcharged with acid and impurities, thus setting up inflammation in the muscles and joints. Wet weather or cold weather may start the tortures of rheumatism, but it is not the cause. The cause is in the blood. Victims of this malady have every reason to fear the first dull ache in the limbs and joints, followed by sharp pains through the flesh and muscles; these are the symptoms of poison in the blood, which will shortly leave the victim pained and helpless. Inflammation, hot applications and rubbing may give temporary ease, but cannot possibly root the trouble out of the system. That can only be done by enriching the blood. This new blood drives out the poisonous impurities, and the rheumatism disappears. If you are a sufferer from this painful malady, begin the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and see how soon the pains and stiffness of the joints fade away. Among those who have benefited by the use of these pills is Mr. Freeman Irving, Baxter Harbor, N.S., who says: "Some time ago my blood was in a terrible condition, leaving me very much run down, and with boils breaking out on my body. To add to my misery rheumatism set in, and I not only suffered greatly from the pain, but could only get around with the greatest difficulty. After trying several medicines without much success, I decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, as they had been warmly recommended to me. I think I used nine boxes altogether, but the results were early expectation, as both the boils and the rheumatism disappeared. Naturally I feel that I cannot praise the pills too highly."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

What has become of the o. t. man who used to have to act as a dummy while his wife fitted her dresses on him?

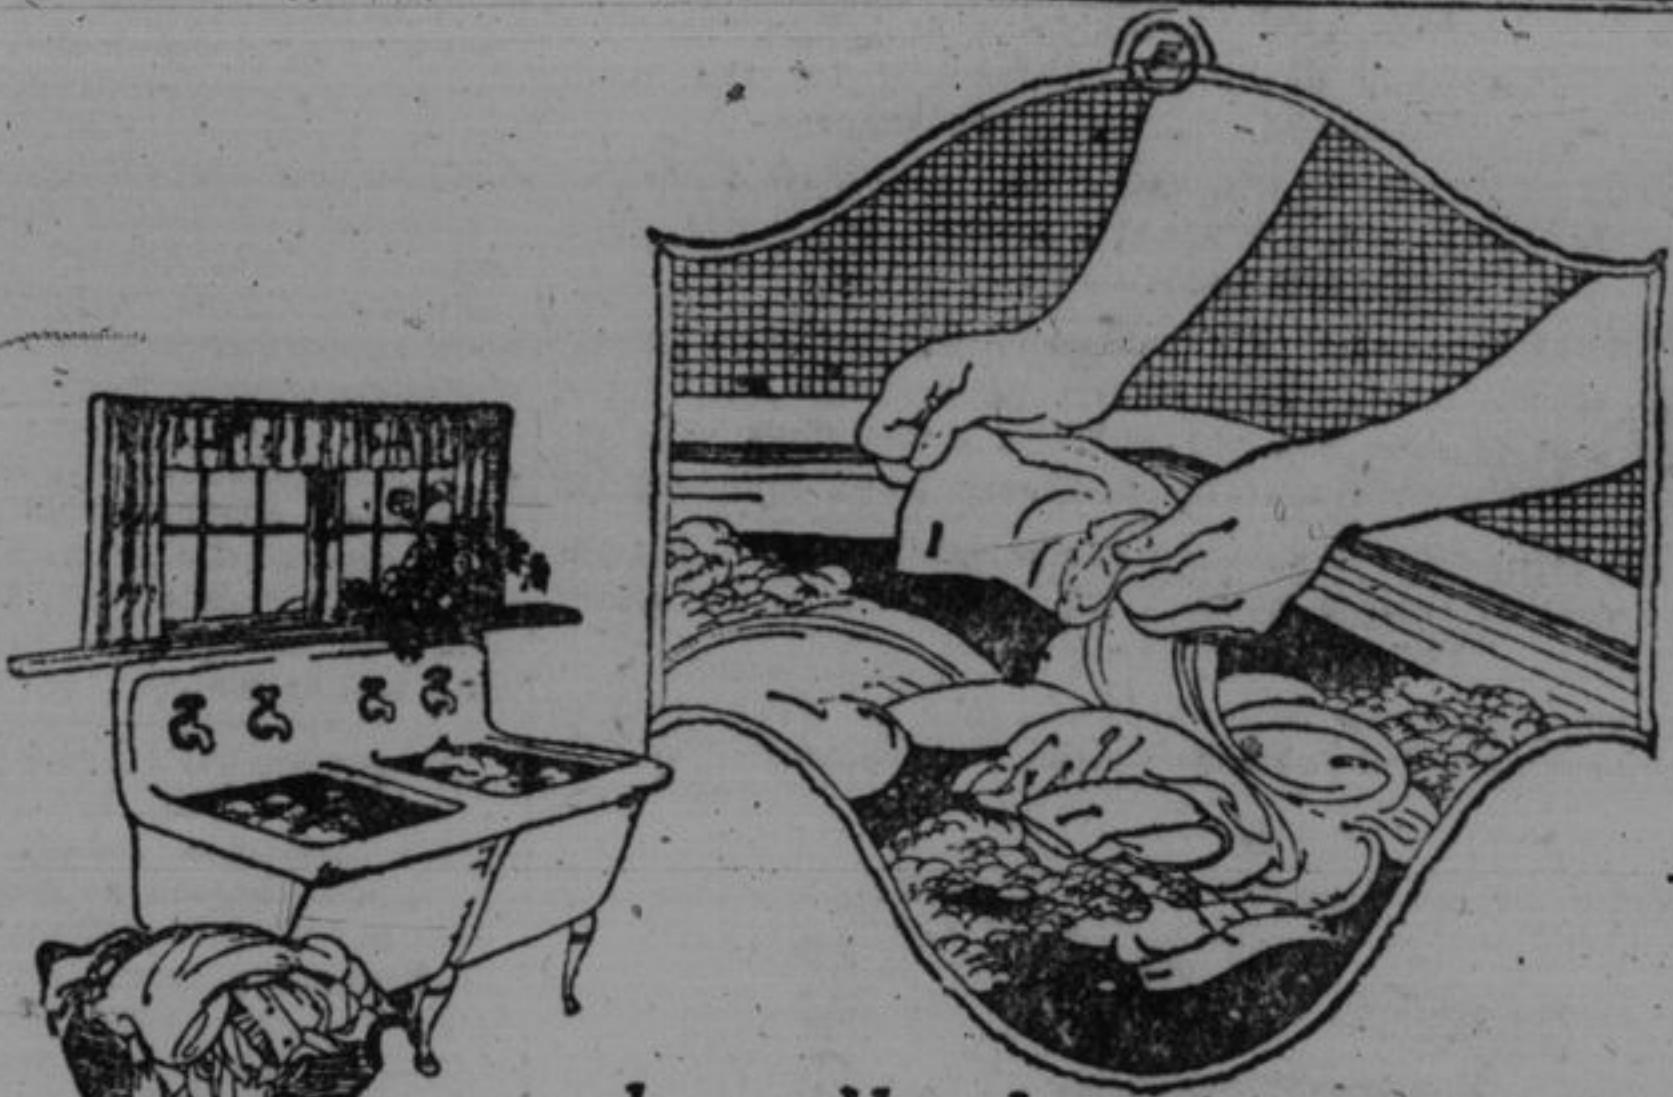

A lot of girls seem to have an idea that unless they are always talking they will be considered dull. And that goes for a lot of men, too.

who can afford to give, and gives to those who need.
In some sections of Algeria even a tree connected with the life of a Marabout is thought sacred. To these trees are attached rags by passers-by who wish to gain merit. Such a tree is called a "Marabout tree". And perhaps there is a certain symbolism in the fact that these trees sometimes look like beggars by the roadside, their rags flapping in the wind.
