

Pictures of the Times—Hunting in Yukon

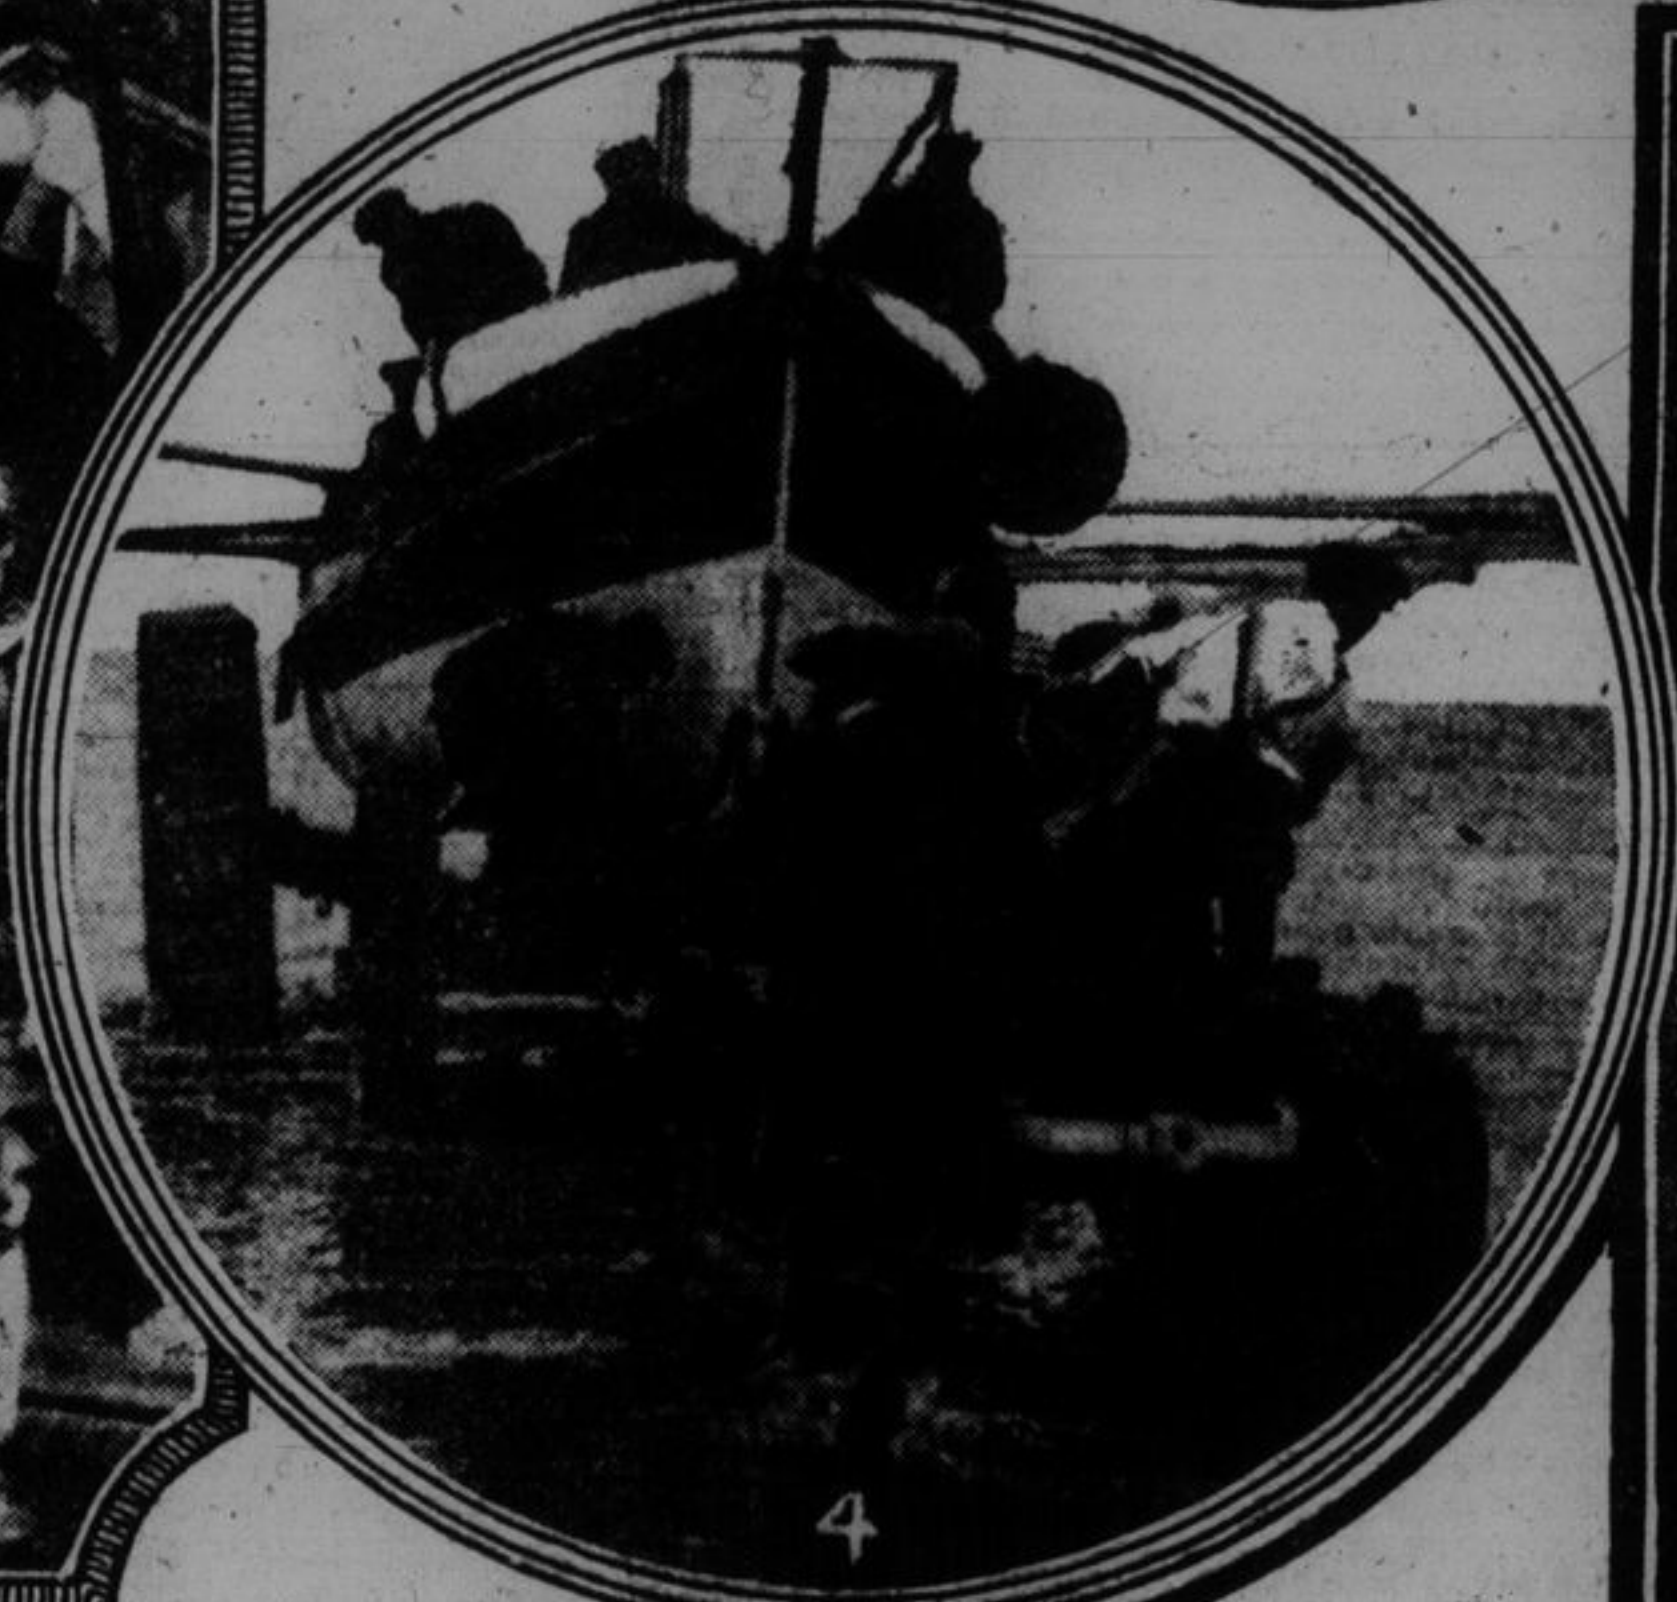

BY COURTESY OF C.P.R.

BY COURTESY OF C.P.R.

BY COURTESY OF C.P.R.

BY COURTESY OF C.P.R.

BY COURTESY OF C.P.R.

BY COURTESY OF C.P.R.

- (1) H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught at Poona. The Duke is seen seated between Lady Marshall and General Sir W. Marshall, Commander-in-Chief of Southern Army at Poona, India.
- (2) The R 36 ready for launching. The giant airship in its shed.
- (3) Changing the colors on the sentry houses at Dusseldorf, Germany, the seat of Gen. Desgottes, who is in charge of the army of occupation.
- (4) Lifeboat launched by motor tractor at Hunstanton.
- (5) Madame Curie, France, discoverer of radium, at work in her laboratory. She is on her way to United States.
- (6) The Prince of Wales waiting to weigh in after point to point races in England.
- (7) British navy's straw hats to disappear. They have been in use since the days of Nelson.
- (8) Windsor Races, England. Taking the water jump.

BY COURTESY OF C.P.R.

Big Game Hunters on Long Trail to Yukon

Are you planning to hunt big game in the Yukon this season? If so, have you engaged your guides? If you have not, lose no more time in doing so. Guides are none too plentiful in the far north and both guides and transportation are being booked by what promises to be the biggest bunch of hunters that have gone to the Yukon. A report has just come out from one of Yukon's best known guides, to the effect that caribou are more plentiful than heretofore known and are ranging in great droves. The two principal districts are the Klunne-White River and the McMillan River sections, the start for either is made from White Horse. McMillan district is reached by an all-water route, the White River wholly by land. Outfitting may be done at White Horse. Some hunters bring along their own ammunition and bedding, but this is unnecessary as Yukon outfitters know to a "T" just what is needed and are ready to furnish it. Both districts are governed by the same laws, and licenses, costing $100, are obtainable at White Horse. From fifty to sixty days must be allowed for the hunting trip. Anything under fifty days demands a pace that precludes choice of heads. In addition to caribou, moose, bear and sheep, goats may be had by making short side trips to the particular haunts they favor. Plenty of good fishing may be enjoyed on either trip. Yukon guides have no superiors, but like other choice things, their number is limited. Intending parties should contract for services as early as possible. Hunting in the Yukon is an expensive sport, but this makes it all the more attractive to the sportsmen who can afford it. The limited number of hunters who visit this vast, rich country are sure to get good bags. Head guides command from $15 to $15 per day, while second guides, cooks, canoe men and halibut get from $7 to $10 per day. The cost of a Yukon hunting trip will total from $3,500 to $5,000 for a fifty day trip. This sum is, of course, exclusive of cost of transportation in reaching the Yukon, which includes a three and one-half days' voyage by way of the Inside Passage along the coast of British Columbia from Vancouver to Skagway.

ON THE TRAIL TO YUKON'S BIG GAME COUNTRY
HE LOOKS LIKE A SLEEPY GUY BUT HE'S A HUNTER
THE SORT OF TARGET EVERY HUNTER HOPES TO MEET
THE CERTAINTY OF BAGGING BEARS LIKE THIS LURES HUNTERS TO THE YUKON