

Theatrical

At Griffin's.

There is an extra big bill at Griffin's for the balance of this week. Elaine Hammerstein, one of the most popular screen stars of to-day and who is always a favorite in Kingston, is appearing in S. Jay Kaufman's, "Greater Than Fame," and the audience was greatly pleased with its initial presentation last night. There is also being shown a comedy of the kind that pleases everyone and a picture showing a number of the most prominent "movie" stars that is worthy of special mention. As an extra attraction this theatre has something that pleases the old as well as the young in Murray's trained dogs a troupe of canine actors who go through a number of acts that are amazing to the audience. It is an entirely new dog show, as the animals perform stunts which have never before been shown on the stage. Their work brought forth rounds of applause last night.

In "Greater Than Fame," Miss Hammerstein has a role that gives her ample scope for her talents. Miss Hammerstein possesses that particular quality of interpreting girlish types who have to battle against the world, winning their way through sheer pluck and ability. Her appeal in pictures of this class is unquestionable and she gives a charming performance as Margaret Brooke, a country girl who found that a happy heart was greater than the fame for which she worked so untiringly and against such odds. There are many dramatic moments in the picture, and Miss Hammerstein's talents as an emotional actress are brought into play in a manner that leaves no room for doubt as to her ability to portray roles of this character. In fact, it is the best picture she has appeared in, and will add new laurels to those she has already won.

Prizes at Griffin's. For the last half of this week the management of Griffin's has made special efforts to provide entertainment particularly adapted to the children. Murray's Dogs will prove "a gold-mine of fun" to the "kiddies."

With a view to stimulating the interest of the "kiddies" the management has arranged a special contest for next Saturday afternoon. Every child purchasing a ticket will have on that ticket a duplicate number, and a number, announced from the stage, will admit the fortunate bearer to any performance next week. In all more than one dozen of these duplicate tickets will be provided, so there will be plenty of opportunity for the fortunate ones to win a prize.—Adv't.

At The Strand. "That's the greatest I ever saw," remarked a patron of the Strand last night after seeing William S. Hart in "The Cradle of Courage," the thrilling crook story of the underworld, and you can rest assured he knew what he was talking about. This attraction is one of the best seen here this season and should not be missed by anyone that is fond of a real thrill. There is plenty of action, suspense and romance, and just enough of a sprinkle of comedy to keep you in the best of humor; in fact it is one rattling good picture. Alice Howell certainly did make them howl with delight for she kept the large audience in a roar from the start of the feature comedy until the end.

Phyllis Devlin sang in her usual good voice and was received with a rousing applause. The famous Strand orchestra under the direction of Migon Teilmann played their way into the hearts of the big crowd and received a real ovation. The usual subjects completed an excellent bill. Big week of joy all next week, Charlie Chaplin in his greatest comedy, "The Kid." Coming soon, Cecile DeMille's famous photoplay, "Forbidden Fruit." By special request, to-night, the presentation of

"When All My Little Ships Come In"—Adv't.

At The Allen.

On the stage of the Biograph studio in New York, an elaborate breakfast room "set" was prepared for Margaret Clark's present vehicle, "Scrambled Wives," just released by Associated First National and booked by the Allen theatre for an engagement of three days, beginning Monday, next week.

Director Griffith decided that in order to give the scene proper realism, a real breakfast would be served. He instructed the players to come to the studio without having partaken of food.

When everyone was seated at the table the next morning, the colored chef, who had been commissioned, rushed onto the set. "Beg pardon, Miss Clark, but Ah didn't get youah ordah," he said. "Oh, I'll have some eggs," said the piquant star of "Scrambled Wives." "How you all like youah aigs, Missey?" was the next inquiry. "Scrambled, of course," replied Miss Clark. "We must have harmony in this picture."—Adv't.

SPORTING NEWS

Baseball at the Collegiate.

Thursday afternoon "A's" defeated "B's" by the score of 19-8, out-playing them in all departments. Ada pitched for "A's" in the first two innings, and "B's" led by the score of 7-2. Higgins went in the box and held "B's" practically scoreless for the rest of the game, while his team ran up nineteen runs. Calvert and Ada did good work in the field, while Higgins shone in the box. "Fred" Morris starred on second for the losers. "Ed" Wilson, catcher for the winners, is a comer as a backstop, for he has a good throw to second and never loses his head. The teams:

"A's"—Wilson, c.; Higgins, p.; Francis, 1b.; Donnelly, 2b.; Foster, s.s.; Leggett, 3b.; Beld, 1f.; Gardner, c.f.; Ada, r.f.

"B's"—Leman, c.; Godwin, p.; Mackay, 1b.; Morris, 2b.; Crawford, s.s.; McKelvey, 3b.; Calvert, 1f.; O'Connell, c.f.; Hambrook, r.f.

Another Senior Team

At a meeting held last night in the Frontenac Hotel by local baseball enthusiasts, it was decided to form another senior team for the city. This news is welcome to the fans as the Ponies could not be expected to stage enough games here to keep the crowds on edge all the time. Last year's quota of two and three games a week set a high standard and the fans would not appreciate a slump this year following such a live season.

The final details of this new club have not been arranged yet but it has been definitely decided to organize a team and to play in senior company. Another meeting will be held on Monday to gather in the stragglers and to set things on a good working basis. There is plenty of material around the city for another senior team and this move on the part of several promoters of sport is very welcome.

Queen's Seeks Marriott.

A Hamilton despatch says:—Queen's University has not been a contender in the Intercollegiate Rugby union for a number of years, but the Presbyterians promise to be heard from this year.

Walter Marriott, the local football expert, has a good offer from the university to coach the team next fall, and while he has not yet accepted, it is likely that he will be found in Kingston when the time comes for kicking the pigskin about. Marriott has gained a place among the best coaches in the Dominion, and if he can arrange his business matters here, he will accept the offer.

Queen's will have some excellent material for this year's team. No less than three of the Ottawa interprovincial team's players of last season will attend the Kingston college. The Senators slated for the knowledge factory are Tubman, half-back;

Baker, middle wing; and Thomas, outside wing. Walker, the Hamilton lad, who was one of the stars of the collegiate team last season, will also attend Queen's, and is counted on to catch a place.

Marriott claims that there will be other men with a reputation attending the Kingston college, and he feels that if he should accept the offer, he will be able to put the Presbyterians up in the race for the first time in many years. He figures that Thomas is one of the best outside wings playing football.

Queen's would make no mistake if Marriott is secured. He first became prominent as a coach when he took charge of the Alerts, and in two seasons made them Dominion champions.

"IF I WERE KING" SHOWN AT THE GRAND

A Wonderful Historical Picture of Days of Louis XI. of France.

"If I Were King," the second big feature of the week at the Grand Opera House, scored a hit on Thursday evening. It is a William Fox production from the great historical romance, by Justin Huntley McCarthy, that was such a stage success, with E. H. Sothern as Francois Villon in the title role. Here William Farnum is seen in his greatest screen effort which has enhanced his well-earned popularity. "If I Were King" is one of the most elaborate and costly historical reproductions. The plot has its setting in the reign of Louis XI. of France, when feudal lords made and unmade monarchs, and in detail of costume, furniture, court scenes and architecture it is regarded as being absolutely correct. The play is full of action and the interpretation of the historical incidents is faithfully carried out by artists of the highest talent.

"If I Were King" is a truly wonderful production. William Farnum, in the character of Francois Villon, and the lord high constable, is seen at his best. Fritz Leiber is King Louis; Bett Rose Clarke, Katherine; Walter Law, Thibault; Henry Carroll, Triestian; Claud Payton, Montigny, and Renita Johnston, Hugette.

"If I Were King" will be shown at the Grand, Friday and Saturday, matinee and evening.
