"If Off Your Route It Pays to Walk."

Told In Twilight

Teas and bridge parties have given place, during these wonderful April days, to long motor drives and picnics in the woods, where the open spaces are starred with hepaticas and adder's tongue, the rocks fringed with London Pride and baby ferns uncurling the fronds that have been sleeping in their hearts all winter, wild strawberries are in blossom, where the birds and squirrels are in great excitement over their housekeeping, and the fat bumble bees are booming as lazily as if it were June and clover time.

Miss Edith Carruthers was the hostess of a small bridge at "Annandale," on Thursday afternoon, when the souvenirs of the game went to Miss Harriet Gardiner, and Miss Doris Browne.

IN MEMORIAM.
In loving memory of Margaret Hall, wife of William J. Kennedy, who died the 30th April, 1920.

In a graveyard sweetly sleeping,
Where the flowers gently wave,
Lies the one I loved so dearly,
In her lonely silent grave.

She will never be forgotten,
Never shall her memory fade,
Sweetest thoughts will always linger,
Around the grave where Maggie is laid.
—Sadly missed by her aunt, Emma Boudry.
