

BOILS SO BAD HAD TO GIVE UP WORK

From the days of Job, up to the present time, boils have been one of the afflictions of the human race. All the poulticing and lancing you may do will not prevent them from breaking out again. Boils are simply caused by the bad blood bursting out; and the bad blood must be made pure before the boils will disappear. Burdock Blood Bitters, which has been on the market for over forty years, is well known as the greatest blood medicine procurable. It purifies the blood, by removing every particle of foul matter from the system, and when this is done the boils vanish, and you should never be troubled again. Mr. James Fahy, Newport Island, Que., writes:—"I was troubled with boils on my back and neck, so bad that I was obliged to give up work. I tried several remedies, but got no relief. Finally I went to a doctor, and he treated me for several weeks, and all without benefit. At last a friend told me of Burdock Blood Bitters, so I decided to give it a trial. I got three bottles, but before I had taken two the boils were all gone. It is eight months now, and I have had no return of the old trouble, and have never felt so well."

THE SEA HATH CHARMS

The soft swish of waves, the sparkle of the blue, blue water, the infinite depth of the sky, the far reaches of the horizon, these with their colorful charm and mystery allure all who like to work or play beside the sounding sea.

But even more lovely may be the sparkle of blue, blue eyes when SHE beholds her beloved, or the depths which suddenly appear in deep-brown eyes at sight of him who alone has the power to awake in HER emotion as deep and abiding as the sea.

OLD BELIEF UPSET

Does Loss of Sight Dull Other Senses? There has always been a theory that nature compensates the individual in some other way for the loss of any one or more of the senses. It is believed that the others develop a greater alertness. But studies in France on this question seem to prove in the case of the blind, at least, this belief does not invariably hold good. As a proof of the statement there are on record certain tests made by Griesbach, who used the instrument called the ophthalmometer. This scientist declared that his blind subjects were slightly less sensitive to the sense of touch than were normal persons corresponding to them in age. Backing up these findings of Griesbach came those of Eward-maker, who used an instrument known as the olfactometer. This scientist discovered that blind individuals have a less keen sense of smell than those persons who are able to use their eyes. These conclusions, according to a writer in the Illustrated World, would seem to indicate that if a person lost the sense of sight, a corresponding loss of power in greater or less degree was developed among the remaining senses. But there are eminent scientists who do not agree with the findings of these two men. The fact is that different investigators have been looking at the question from different viewpoints. According to a French scientific writer, the act of seeing bright red, for example, is, after all, only a physiologic manifestation. It is not until this bright spot is interpreted by the mind as something different from a mere color spot, and possessing certain other properties, that the act of seeing comes to have any significance. While it is hardly likely that the physical sense can be made any keener, yet it is highly probable that the mind may be so trained as to have a quicker alertness and a quicker and more thorough understanding of that which is being perceived. Thus the brain may learn to organize and systematize itself. So two different individuals of the same normal eyesight may vary considerably in their intellectual apprehension of some given object that lies within their range of vision. Dr. Itseyko is a strong advocate of the theory here presented. He states that children who are born blind and who later, through a surgical operation, gain vision, must often be taught to see. This visual sense means nothing to them until they have been taught the meaning of what the eye takes in. An apple, for example, will be considered as a splash of red color until they have been taught that it is round, that it is good to eat, that it is hard to the touch, etc.

Silk Weaving in China Chekiang is famous for its silk manufacture in China. Brocades, satins, ningchow, pongee, mandarin gauze, reeled pongee, Hangchow low and thread gauze are manufactured there. Owing to the improved methods of manufacturing most of the goods produced are of a fine quality. The total amount sold in 1920 was $10,000,000. Following is a list of the quantity of goods produced and consumed in 1920: Satins and brocades, 125,000 pieces; pongee, 10,000 pieces; thread gauze and spring gauze, 50,000 pieces.

The Odor of Sanctity A Presbyterian soldier was dying and asked for a minister. No Presbyterian minister could be found, and he was asked if he would have an Anglican. He thought for a moment, sighed a bit, and then said: "Well, perhaps it is better. I have been leading an Anglican kind of life lately."

McNab township lost another of its fine old citizens on Sunday of last week when Edward Dillon passed away, aged eighty-eight years and six months. He was a splendid old gentleman, industrious, kind, an excellent farmer, whose honesty of word and purpose was respected everywhere.

Germans Talk Dr. Solf For Envoy to Washington

Berlin, May 26.—Dr. William Solf, at present German ambassador in Tokio, now is most prominently mentioned as the new German ambassador to the United States. Dr. Solf was minister for foreign affairs when the armistice was signed and belongs to the right wing of the Democratic party. He is a famous Orientalist, fifty-nine years old, and formerly was minister for the colonies. All the political parties apparently are pleased with the appointment of Dr. Friedrich Rosen as foreign minister in the Wirth cabinet. He is a non-party man of sixty years and has been in the diplomatic service for 32 years.

Seeks Treaty With Chinese. Berlin, May 26.—The agreement signed by representatives of Germany and China in Peking on Friday last, declaring an end to the state of war between the two countries and re-establishing diplomatic and commercial relations, probably will be presented to the reichstag within a week as soon as the reichstag and the Chinese parliament ratify it, which probably will be done immediately. Diplomatic and consular representatives will be exchanged and negotiations formally opened for a permanent treaty.

Advertising is Life

Life is a matter of advertising. It is so: consciously or unconsciously. Every act and word is an advertisement. In walking down the street, at luncheon at the club, in discussion, you advertise the fact that you are (at least) alive. Nowadays type and paper in the form of the local daily newspaper advertising can be used to present with conviction the most convenient facts about, or nature of, the goods you have to sell. The treatment is simple; the basic elements of the prescription are Persistence and Regularity. The formula is freely at the command of every one. The dose is a matter of individual judgment. The merchant who takes advantage of Daily Newspaper advertising can inform everyone every day—that his store is alive with opportunities for the buyer. Advertising is life—the steam coal of salesmanship. Issued by Canadian Daily Newspapers Association. Head Office, Toronto.

WHEN WOMAN HITS THE TRAIL IN THE CANADIAN ROCKIES

The outdoor girl—and her name is legion—knows almost as much about the trails, camps, mountains and fishing of the Canadian Pacific Rockies as mere man. Every summer Banff and Lake Louise are thronged with members of the fair sex who hit the trail to view the beauties of lakes and streams where the trout hide, climb mountains and camp for days near to Nature's heart. Safeguarded by expert guides they learn to ford streams, fish and shoot, while there are real Swiss guides from the Alps overseas to show the way to the summits of majestic mountains. When they ride, climb and camp they wear riding breeches just as well as their brothers, husbands or sweethearts and nobody thinks anything about it—not even Mrs. Grundy, because she has been wearing the shortest of short skirts herself to be in the mode. The way changed many things. It gave women the vote and made breeches for women conventional. Beauty appeals to the outdoor girl, and she loves the Canadian Rockies which rise a mile or more above Lake Louise and Banff because they are unequalled in beauty and majesty. The Alpine Club of Canada has many women members, the most expert of whom do not hesitate to attempt the conquest of any peak men have ascended. In 1901 Mount Assiniboine was ascended for the first time by Sir James Outram. Three years later Miss Gertrude Basmah, an English girl, was the first of her sex to reach the summit of this great peak, the Matterhorn of the Canadian Rockies. Both were assisted by Swiss guides. Several made the ascent during the camp of the Alpine Club last summer.

Pulp and Paper Exports Montreal, May 26.—Canadian exports of pulp and paper for the month of April, 1921, were given at $6,946,236, as compared with $8,173,336 for April, 1920, according to a special report issued today by the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association. On the other hand, included in above figures, the shipments of newsprint and other papers show a considerable increase in the month, being for newsprint $5,241,593, against $3,827,541. The decrease is in chemical pulp, mainly. Stephen Flagler and Harry Mattie, boys of seventeen, living in Belleville, were arrested as they were walking along the railway track near Foxboro by Provincial Officer A. H. Ward and Sgt. H. Harman. They were later remanded on a charge of theft of two bicycles.
