TO DO MORE STREET WORK

Macadam Road For Upper Johnson Street and Walk For Earl Street.

The Board of Works met Wednesday afternoon to clean up its business before the city council adjourns next week for the summer months.

Isaac Cohen wrote asking for permission to erect a septic tank so as to drain six houses he is erecting on Montreal street. It is impossible for the city to construct a sewer for this sparsely settled locality as the cost would be $50,000. The difficulty confronting Mr. Cohen is in disposing of the overflow, which would have to pass under the roadway and onto some vacant city property. The matter was referred to the city engineer and the city solicitor for report.

The city engineer stated that F. R. Bailey, Princess street, had informed him he was issuing a writ against the city for damage done to his cellar through street overflows after heavy rains. At the last meeting of council, on recommendation of the engineer and the Board of Works, and it was decided to try and overcome Mr. Bailey's grievance by building a concrete curbing outside his walk so as to carry the overflow away. This curbing is to be built in a few days.

Ald. Sargent raised such a holler about the frightful condition of Johnson street, between Victoria and Macdonell streets, that the board decided to build under the local improvement plan, a macadam roadway there this summer. Ald. Sargent said he would be satisfied with almost anything in the way of a decent roadway. It is hoped to get some stone from the penitentiary for the foundation of this new road.

A petition was received for the construction of a concrete walk on the south side of Earl street between Albert and Collingwood, and it was decided to have this walk constructed.

In attendance were Aids. Graham, who acted as chairman, O'Connor, Couper, Sargent and Smith; also Mayor Nickle, who is watching all the civic committee work.

LUMBER SALES QUIET WITH BETTER OUTLOOK

The Sawmills Are Operating With the Wages Much Reduced.

There is not much change in the general conditions so far as the sale of lumber is concerned, says Canada Lumberman. The tone of the market is distinctly quiet, although a better feeling prevails on the part of both wholesalers and retailers than was evidenced some time ago. It is felt that the worst of the depression is now over, and, while the stagnant period may remain for some time, still the increasing number of building permits in the larger cities and the various housing schemes that are getting under way give evidence that 1921 will be a fair year in certain centres, and would be much better if it were not for the exactions of labor.

Sawmills in various parts of the country are now operating, although a number have been late in starting, due, it is said, to the fact that no great haste is urgent, as stocks on hand are ample to supply all requirements for some time. There is an abundance of labor and very few protests over the matter of wages. Ordinary unskilled labor around the mill and in the yards now receives from 30c to 35c an hour, whereas last year similar service was awarded by at least 20c to 30c more.

It is not likely that the cut in any district will be as large as last year unless there should be a radical change in conditions. Wages in the bush are likely to run from $30 to $40 during the coming season, and one concern, which has been conducting a summer operation in the woods in Northern Ontario, has been obtaining all the men required for $20 to $40 a month and board. Last fall wages were just double this figure.

Eyes Light at News of the Coming of John Robinson's Big Circus

Circus comin'. And what a circus. It's John Robinson's, and that name arouses the light of fond memories in eyes somewhat dimmed by advancing years, for John Robinson's circus is on its ninety-eighth annual tour of the United States and Canada. The circus of our grandfathers, our fathers—the oldest white top organization in the world—is coming to town on four trains on Saturday, June 11th.

With more elephants, more jungle beasts, more clowns, more spangled folk, a three ring-two stage performance and a longer parade—so read the posters—the old favorite, in new garb and with an entirely new offering of arctic and aerial displays, will be with us soon.

Throughout the city and adjacent towns and countryside, gay posters meet the eye, for the one hundred agents and billers have done their work well. All is arranged for the gala day activities under the big top—railroad accommodations for the long trains, supplies for twelve hundred people, five hundred horses and the big menagerie and the thousand and one details that go into trail blazing for arrival, parade and performances.

Few people realize the work that must be done before the 12 acres of canvas that house the John Robinson circus each day is hoisted into the air. For five weeks before the day of exhibition men are constantly passing through the city—general agents, railroad contractors, local contracting agents, special agents, advertising car agents, brigade agents, billers, lithographers, bannermen, press agents and twenty-four hour men. Each has a certain task to do, and the result of their labors is that the show moves into the town and onto the circus lot without hitch.

THE FIRE ALARM BELL FOR WEDDING CHIMES

Fireman Victor Brightman and Bride Carried Off on Fire Truck.

Fire alarm bells supplanted wedding chimes after a member of the fire brigade, Victor Brightman, was married to Pearl Robinson, Pittsburg, on Wednesday evening. Shortly after eight o'clock the firemen had a call to the corner of Princess and Albert streets, and after ripping the street at forty miles an hour all they could find was a huge bonfire. Casting their eyes around, the gallant fire-fighters espied Rev. G. A. Bell and the newlyweds hurrying to taxi.

With a toot of the horn, the motor truck dashed forward and before the newly-wedded fireman had a chance to collect his thoughts, he and his bride were dashing down the main street on the front seat of the truck with Chief Armstrong standing guard. They were taken to the fire station on Brock street where Mr. Brightman is employed, and there the happy couple were tendered the congratulations of the members of the force, who had not known that the happy event was to take place in the city.

Not Officially Notified

J. C. Strange, local postoffice inspector, stated on Thursday morning he had had no official word concerning the impending transfer of the department to Ottawa. The post office employees at Ottawa, had not furnished him with the names of the employees at the local office who were to move, and he has no idea when the transfer, if any, will be made. The matter has been under discussion for some time.
