Some men never let an opportunity slip. They make the most of every chance, as, for instance, a certain organ-grinder who once played his organ outside the house of Mascagni, the famous composer. Mascagni is often driven wild by hearing his music "murdered" on piano-organs, and on this occasion he left his house and interviewed the street musician. He did not send him away. He merely took the handle of the instrument, turned it around faster, and quickened the time. The organ-grinder smiled his thanks. Next day he again appeared in the street. This time his organ bore a large placard on which was inscribed: "Pupil of Mascagni."

OBITUARY

The Late Mrs. Yellowley

Mrs. Jane Archbold Yellowley passed away at her residence, 69 Lower Union street, on Thursday at 5:45 p. m., after an illness extending over a period of several months. The deceased was the widow of the late William Yellowley, superintendent of the Canadian Locomotive Company for many years and prominent in Kingston business circles. She was born in Dublin county, Ireland, August 26th, 1861. During the past twenty-one years she was a resident of Kingston and was a devout member of the congregation of St. Mary's cathedral and was widely acquainted throughout the city, where she was held in affectionate regard for her kindly and sympathetic disposition.

Five sons and three daughters survive: Thomas F., Elizabeth, N. J.; William J., Robert B., Walter M., Charles E., Annie E., Dorothy J., and Emily M., all of Kingston.

The funeral took place from her late residence at 9 a. m. Saturday to St. Mary's cathedral, where a solemn requiem was sung by Rev. Father Keane for the repose of her soul. The casket was banked with beautiful floral and spiritual offerings, expressing the esteem and affection in which she was held. The pallbearers were J. B. Ahearn, Edward Nugent, Thomas Nicholson, Joseph Doyle, George Reid, T. J. Thompson. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends. Interment took place at Catarqui cemetery.

Remains Unchanged.
At the meeting of the finance committee of the county council at J. W. Bradshaw's office in the court house, on Thursday, the assessment and the tax rate of ten and one-half mills remained unchanged. The items in the budget presented were satisfactory to the committee.

Mr. and Mrs. James Burt, Aultsville, announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Eva Mary, to Walter James Hickey, son of the late Dr. Hickey and Mrs. John Taylor, Lachine, Que., the marriage to take place the middle of June.
