Told in the Twilight

Mrs. W. T. Minnes asked a few people to come out to "Hillcroft" on Wednesday at the tea hour to meet some of the out-of-town guests at her daughter's wedding. The charming decorations of the morning were still in place on the tennis court and the drawing room and dining room were lovely with blue flags, roses and peonies and the syringa, our Canadian orange blossom, that blooms in time for our June brides, all from the "Hillcroft" gardens. Mrs. James Minnes made tea at the dining table, still in its wedding finery of roses and sweet peas, assisted by the bridesmaids, Miss Veta Minnes and Miss Maud Chalmers, Sudbury, wearing their pretty ruffled frocks of pink taffeta. Mrs. W. G. Minnes in rose organdy. Miss Anna Minnes frocked in apricot and mauve georgette and Miss Nora Minnes in blue organdy. Mrs. Griffin and Mrs. Watrous, Brookville, grand-aunts of the bride, were present, and a little chat with them was one of the pleasures of the afternoon. The lovely wedding gifts were on view in the large hall upstairs, where the visitors were allowed to see and to admire.

Miss Nora Macnee gave a very smart luncheon at the Country Club on Thursday for Miss Margaret Cundell, New York, who is the guest of Mrs. W. K. Macnee. The table was decked with pale green tulle and lovely white roses and besides the guest of honor and her hostess, those present were Miss Hugh Ryan, Mrs. Everett Birdsell, Mrs. Hober Lafferty, Mrs. Hamilton Roberts, Mrs. J. Gordon Mackenzie (Toronto), Mrs. R. J. Leach, Mrs. W. G. Beeman, Miss How (Toronto), Miss Helen Strange and Miss Lucy Waddell.

Mrs. L. W. Murphy, Sydenham street, gave a jolly birthday party on Thursday for her daughter, Miss Dorothy Murphy, when sixteen little people had a truly delightful time. The table was decorated with pink, white and green streamers, caught from the light overhead to dainty baskets of sweets at each place, forming a dome, and centred with peonies. Here Mrs. Ambrose Shea poured cocoa and cut the ices, Miss Bessie Dolan assisting her. Games and dancing followed, making fun for the guests.

Mrs. A. P. Knight, Alice street, was the hostess of a bright little tea on Thursday for Miss Phyllis and Miss Phoebe Lewis, Galt, Mrs. Knight poured tea at the prettily arranged table, and the bright frocks of the girls added a charming touch of color.

Miss Lily Murray, Frontenac street, was the hostess of a bright little tea on Thursday for the visitors in town for the MacKay-Minnes wedding, when Mrs. Murray made the tea at the flower-decked table, assisted by her daughter and some of the guests.

TO-DAYS FASHION

This Summer Evening Wrap is Made of Wide Ribbon in Two Tones of Yellow.

The uses of ribbon are manifold this season and there are many fascinating patterns among the wide ribbons. These are particularly well adapted to the fashioning of evening gowns and wraps.

A delightful model is illustrated. This summer wrap is made of wide ribbons in two tones of yellow which are even more effective than the printed ribbons. Dark and light alternate and there is a huge bow at the neck.

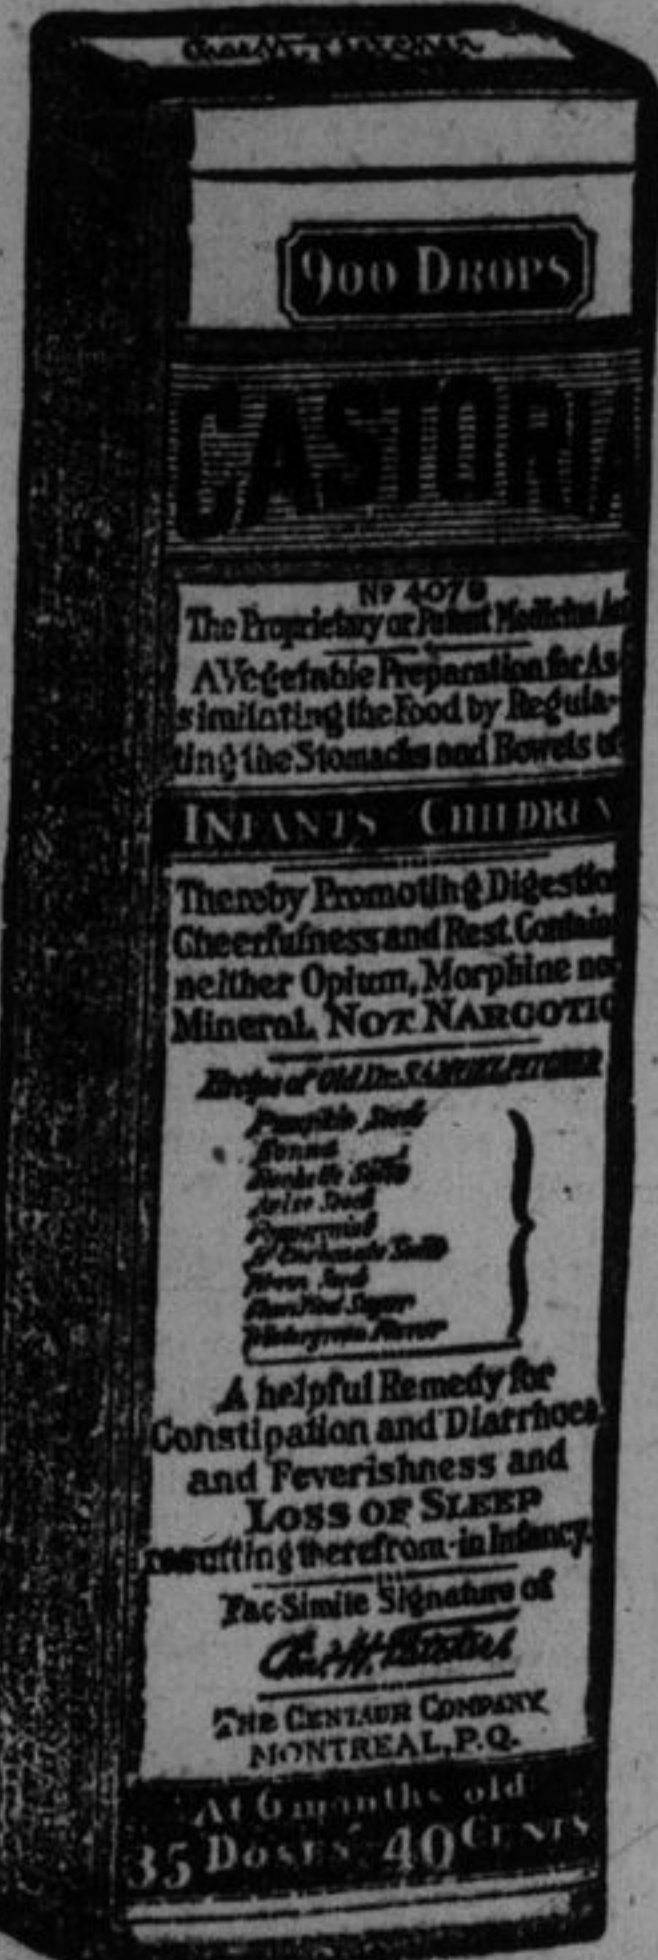

A quaint bouquet of yellow and blue flowers is placed near the fastening while the lining—a deep flounce of black lace—accentuates the beauty of the cape.

Why Castoria?

YEARS ago Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups were the remedies in common use for Infants and Children; Castor Oil so nauseating as to be almost impossible and the others all containing Opium in one form or another, but so disguised as to make them pleasant to the taste, yet really to stupefy the child and give the appearance of relief from pain.

It required years of research to find a purely vegetable combination that would take the place of these disagreeable, unpleasant and vicious remedies that from habit had become almost universal. This was the inception of, and the reason for, the introduction of Fletcher's Castoria, and for over 30 years it has proven its worth, received the praise of Physicians everywhere and become a household word among mothers.

A remedy ESPECIALLY prepared for Infants and Children and no mother would think of giving to her baby a remedy that she would use for herself without consulting a physician.

STORY ABOUT LORD BYNG

Who Talked Over With Sir Arthur Currie A Proposed Canadian Attack.

Toronto, June 18.—Here is a little story about Lord Byng, the new Governor-General, and Sir Arthur Currie, who after the Battle of Vimy succeeded Sir Julian, as he was then, in command of the Canadian Corps. They are close personal friends and Sir Arthur, in public and private, always gave full credit to Byng for the work he did in knitting the Canadian Corps into the formidable fighting machine it became, animated by a keen corps spirit and a just pride in its achievements.

It was towards the end of September, 1918, when the corps after storming the famous Drocourt-Queant line, part of the Hindenburg system, on September 2nd, had been since long entrenched facing the Canal du Nord and exposed to a constant harassing fire from the other, or east side of the canal. First Army wanted the corps to make a frontal attack but this the corps commander regarded as a useless waste of life. Instead, as is well known, he proposed that the corps should "sid-slip" to the south or corps right to where at Inch-en-Artois there was a dry stretch of canal of about 2,500 yards, after storming this the corps was to spread out fanwise on the other side of the canal, our left taking the German defenders to the north in rear and our right pushing on up over the entrenched slopes against the crowning position of Bourbon Wood, on the far side of which lay the city of Cambrai. All this programme, by the way, was carried out successfully on September 27th, and the days following, resulting in the fall of Cambrai and retreat of the enemy.

Byng was in command of the Third Army on the immediate right of the corps, and in the previous November had himself undertaken his celebrated surprise attack on Cambrai, pushing up from the south, and just failing to consolidate his notable victory through lack of proper support. On September 23rd he came over to Canadian corps headquarters at Neuville Vitasse, in the heart of No Man's Land, lunched with Sir Arthur and talked the plan over. He was immensely struck with its audacity and brilliance, but he warned his old friend of the terrible result of failure, when the corps cooped on a narrow frontage would be cut to pieces. "In my opinion," he said, "you are planning the most difficult manoeuvre yet attempted on a battlefield in this war. But you know your men—I know them too. If any troops in the world can do it it is the Canadian corps. Good luck to you." And after the battle he was the first to telegraph his congratulations. "Byng's Boys" had once more made good.

Why Physicians Use Sign. Because the letter "R" represents the Latin word "recipe," the imperative of which means "take," and the little dart (originally a thunderbolt) is the symbol of Jove or the Latin god Jupiter, which invests the writer with authority. The sign, therefore, means, "By my authority, take this," but properly translated is, "By Jupiter, take this."

A coward is a man who knows he is wrong, but refuses to admit it.
