Sold a Farm.
Mrs. George Farrell has sold her farm at Demorestville, to Alex. Anderson, Northport.

Oh! Why?
Oh why, pray tell,
In this blistering heat, Do all the gay flappers Parade on the street?

Appointed to Office.
D. L. Bongard has been appointed clerk of the First Division Court of the County of Prince Edward, succeeding Fred Slaven.

New Letter Boxes Installed.
A number of letter boxes have been placed at convenient places throughout the city. Princess street is now well supplied with receptacles for mail.

Saving Their Apples.
Boys will be boys, and Kingston's are no exception. Some owners of apple trees are said to be picking the fruit before it is ripe so as to keep the boys from stealing them.

Extensions Being Made.
Work is progressing rapidly on the extensions to St. Vincent's Academy on William street. Class rooms are being installed in the brick residence next to the academy.

Many Picnic Parties.
Automobile picnic parties are all the go now. The warm weather is driving the people out of the city, and nearly every night auto picnic parties leave the city for favorite resorts a few miles from the city.

Swat These Boys, Please.
Some of the children at the bathing houses are complaining of the actions of one of the older boys who frequently the place and grabs the children by the feet as they are attempting to swim.

Celebrated 84th Birthday.
Congratulations are extended to Rev. Dr. Gracey, Gananoque, who on Tuesday last celebrated his eighty-fourth birthday.

In Critical State.
John Conlin, Marquette, Mich., who has been confined to his bed for some time at the home of his sister, Mrs.
Mary Johnson of Tweed, is still in a very critical condition.

Married in Brockville.
A quiet wedding took place when Mabel Grace Barr, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Barr, Fairfield, was united by marriage to Lloyd J.
Wellington Hayes, Athens. The ceremony took place in Brockville.

Keep Ladder Wagon on Street.
The paving gang are working in front of the fire station on Brock street, and in order to make a quick getaway in case of fire, the ladder wagon is kept on the south east corner of Brock and Barrie streets.

Holding Swimming Classes.
The class for boys in Frontenac park under the direction of Capt. H.
E. Law, is proving popular for the lads of the district. Swimming classes are being held at the George Richardson bathing house, and the girls are also receiving swimming in-

Dr. Connell's Movement.
The many friends of Dr. Willis Connell, a former resident of Prescott, will be interested in knowing that he has been transferred from Jerusalem, where he has been engaged in government work for some time, to the service in India. His wife and child, who have been residing in England, will join Dr. Connell in September.

After the Judgeship.
Lewis H. Ford, Clayton, N.Y., is candidate for the Republican nomination as county judge. Jasper W. Cornaire, Cape Vincent, is also included.
Mr. Cornaire was supposed to have the backing of the organization last winter when it appeared that the election of Justice Alverston to supreme court bench might throw the appointment of his successor to Governor Miller.

Mrs. W. T. Halliday Dead.
The death occurred in Kingston general hospital of Mrs. W. T. Halliday. Six weeks ago deceased was taken to Kingston to undergo a serious operation from the effects of which she never recovered. Deceased was formerly Miss Florence Shocker, and was born in England. Besides her husband eight children are left to mourn her loss. She also leaves her parents and one sister in Toronto.

Boom in Real Estate Sales.
Cape Vincent, N.Y., is enjoying a boom in real estate values as a result of the demand for homes bordering the St. Lawrence river as summer residences for vacationists. During the last year many wealthy citizens of New York and the middle west who pass the summer at Cape Vincent have purchased properties for summer homes instead of patronizing the hotels and boarding houses. The result has been to increase values beyond war prices in Cape Vincent.

Thirteen Cattle Slaughtered.
Some huckle-berry pickers motoring to the mountains upset down a steep embankment near Hungerford.
Not being able to get out of a field into which they landed at the place where they entered, they went to another place, threw down the fence, and went away leaving it thus. The land belonged to Dolphus Bosley, his cattle went astray, got on the railroad tracks, and a freight train came along and killed them. The killing happened about one mile east of Sulphide at Oliver's Crossing. This is indeed a very serious loss for Mr.
Bosley, however he knows who left the fence down and it is up to these to help Mr. Bosley.

Daniel Wilson, Adamston, Dead
The death occurred suddenly on July 17th, of Daniel Wilson, Adams-ton, at the age of eighty-one years.
Mr. Wilson, who lived with his son, Robert, on the old homestead, had been going about as usual on Sunday, and had eaten a hearty dinner at home. In the afternoon Robert drove him over to Northcote to the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. R.
Crozier. While eating supper he complained of sickness, and Dr. Mc-Kinnon was sent for, but he died a few minutes after the arrival of the doctor. The late Mr. Wilson was born in 1840 in Edinburgh, Scotland.

Comes Back Home.
Michael Hennessy, of North Dakota, is spending a few weeks about Renfrew, having driven over from Pembroke with his sister, Mrs. Leacy. Mr. Hennessy was born and brought up on the farm of his father, one of the pioneers of Adams-ton, now known as the D. Stewart farm at McGee's Creek. Mr. Hennessy left Adams-ton thirty-three years ago and settled in North Dakota, farming for many years. He has lat-terly been running a grain elevator.
It is about twenty-two years since he was home. He is returning soon to Dakota.

'OUT IN THE WOODS
By CHARLES GRANT MILLER
(Copyright, 1921. All Rights Reserved by United Feature Syndicate.)

Come for a moment out into the good green country—out into the woods.
Come for a week, or a month, if you can; but anyway come for a moment.

Out of the dirt and rattle and confusion of the city come out into the greater world that is clean, sweet, odorless, sunny with welcome, silent with peace.
A moment out in the solitude and silence may refresh you, may help you to get a new grip on yourself, to draw yourself together, to forget a little of the everyday greed and grind, to give you a clearer look at yourself and a better conception of what you are trying to do with this life of yours that is slipping like sand through your fingers.
A moment in the woods, with your ear close to Mother Nature's heart and your eyes finding vistas up into the blue eternal mystery, may teach you that your little selfish strivings, your little vanities, your little hatreds and jealousies, that make up so large a part of your daily living and your nightly worrying, are of no more worth to the world or you than are the nameless little gnats that so foolingly zigzag in the sunshine.

A moment with yourself and solitude may teach you that the world is wide and its life is multifarious; that the universe does not nicely fit down around your little office in the city; that in the great plan you, with all your big bundle of self, are of only a little more importance than the foolish zigzagging gnats.
It is good to get away, from the hurly-burly and take a little while to dream, to form ideals, to shape and direct purpose, to realize what the noisy striving is all for.
Ideals—they may be visionary but they are never gain. They are to us what the star of Bethlehem was to the three wise men of the East. They lure to the fuller life.
As in approaching a too near a mountain we lose sight of its shape, so in the close application to the detail of our work we are apt to lose the perspective of our purposes. We are apt to plod on through habit and forget our aims—Maybe some of us never have any. God pity us then. Men without definite aims and purposes, beyond mere means of existence are animals on two legs with nothing to compensate the loss of the tail.

A moment in the woods may be a moment of transformation. Anyway, it is bound to be a moment of rejuvenation. A whole week alone in the woods will make a new man of anyone.

GIANT EDIBLE CRABS.
Photo shows an Alaskan fisherman with two giant crabs, one of which measures forty-eight inches from tip to tip. Alaskan waters abound with these crabs, which make delicious eating. They are being canned in large numbers this year.
