DESERTED HIS FAMILY, SENTENCED TO JAIL

James Cunningham Given Six Months—Troubles Aired in Police Court.

Men who desert their wives and children, and run off with other women, had better take a warning, following a case that came before Magistrate Farrell on Thursday morning. The court certainly has no mercy for wife deserters.

James Cunningham, an able-bodied young man, was found guilty of neglecting to maintain his wife and five children, and was sentenced to six months in jail, at hard labor.

The charge was laid by the Children's Aid Society—that organization which is doing so much to help the women and children who are called upon to suffer so much through no fault of their own.

Cunningham pleaded "Not Guilty" to the charge, but his wife, who was called to testify against her husband, stated that she had five children, the oldest ten years, and the youngest four months. During the last two weeks her husband had given her $8, while it required at least $15 a week to meet the running expenses of her household.

Witness said her mother-in-law had been keeping her in food, while the rent had not been paid.

John Polie, agent for the Children's Aid Society, stated that Mrs. Cunningham had complained to the society, that she was in destitute circumstances. She said she owed the landlord $70, and asked for help to keep the ball off her door. Witness said that he appealed to the Kingston Poor Relief Association, on Mrs. Cunningham's behalf.

Cunningham's employer gave evidence to the fact that he was earning $19 a week.

Police Constable John Nayton said that a warrant had been issued some time ago, for the arrest of Cunningham. With Constable G. R. Hornbeck, witness on Wednesday last had visited a house near Westbrook, they having ascertained that Cunningham was there. On arrival at this house, they found Cunningham and a woman named Mrs. Agnes Daffern, in one of the rooms. The couple were placed under arrest, the woman being held on a charge of vagrancy.

"I find you guilty of the charge," said Magistrate Farrell to Cunningham. "You have been here before, and you have been warned, and yet you leave your wife and children, whom you are bound to support, and go away and live a life of shame with this woman. I will sentence you to six months in jail at hard labor."

"Thank you," was the comment Cunningham made as he was taken out of the court room by one of the constables.

Following the charge against Cunningham, Mrs. Daffern was arraigned on a charge of vagrancy. She pleaded "Not Guilty," but the evidence of Constable Nayton showed that the police had received complaints about her staying out late at nights and asking that she be locked up.

Thomas Dalern, the woman's husband, said that his wife stayed out very late at night, and that on some occasions she had stayed out all night. He admitted having asked the police to place her under arrest. Witness said he was engaged as a carter. Business was very slack, but in order to help out his business, he had a telephone placed in his home, but said that his wife would not even answer the telephone to give him a chance. Three weeks ago, his wife left home and did not return.

Mrs. Daffern then had her chance in the witness box. "This man has never properly provided for me," she said. "If I wanted to get a new suit of clothes, I had to sell the old suit to help pay for it. He never took me to a show or bought me any ice cream. I have had one new suit in nine years."

Magistrate Farrell then took a hand in the case, looking for the couple to come together again, but hubby stated positively that he did not want his wife to come back to him, and on the other hand, wife was just not going back. The magistrate did not make progress on this line, so after all had been said, he remanded the case of Mrs. Daffern on the charge of vagrancy for one day. The couple have no children.

Marshall Sedore was touched for $10 and costs, for hitting the high spots, following an order he secured for rye whiskey from a doctor. The option was one month in jail.

Edward Bradley was drinking lemon extract. "Eddie" was walking along the street the other day, when a man stopped him on the street and told him he was not looking very well. Bradley probably had an idea that his friend would produce a "crock," for he replied, "Well I don't feel any too good." The man who had taken such an interest in his health invited him to step into his car. The two drove off, and the "doctor" bought some lemon extract. The rest of the story will come later as the magistrate adjourned the case.

Death by drowning in the wilderness, two days' journey by canoe from civilization, was the fate of James E. Narraway, aged twenty-one, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Narraway, Ottawa.

The apple crop throughout the dominion, though seriously affected by recent drought, is still likely to average better than last year.

Hon. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, spoke at Aurora on Wednesday. He asked Burnaby to step out. Four masked and armed bandits robbed two young farmers' homes near St. Thomas.

TWO LAWYERS HONORED

A. B. Cunningham and T. J. Rigney Are Appointed King's Counsel.

Congratulations are being extended to A. B. Cunningham and T. J. Rigney on their appointment as K.C. by Attorney-General Rahey. Their names appear in the list issued at Toronto on Wednesday night.

Mr. Cunningham and Mr. Rigney have been prominent in legal circles in Kingston for some time, and their wide circle of friends will be pleased to learn of the honor conferred upon them. Both are graduates of Queen's University and Osgoode Hall. Mr. Cunningham graduated from Osgoode Hall in 1894 and Mr. Rigney in 1895.

The two new K.C.'s for Kingston have handled the bulk of the cases before the courts here during the past ten years, while the practice outside of the city has been quite extensive.

Mr. Cunningham was prominent for many years in military circles here, being in command of the 14th P.W.O.R. He is also a prominent curler and golfer, and a public-spirited citizen, who has at all times taken a keen interest in any movement put forth to help his native city.

Mr. Rigney's record is well-known to the public. He served as mayor for one term and was a member of the city council and Utilities Commission for several years. Like Mr. Cunningham, he too is an enthusiastic golfer, this being his favorite sport. He has at all times been an enthusiastic worker for Kingston and her interests.

The fair flowers we place above her, They soon wither and decay, But the love we always bore her, Will never never fade away. Sadly missed by husband and children.
