SAVE YOUR EYES

Younger people should have their eyes examined to make sure that their vision is not accomplished by a strain, which will lead to trouble later.

Older people should have their eyes examined because with increasing age the eyes lose their power to permit us to do close work or read with comfort.

Correct Glasses will relieve both these conditions if they exist, and our Optometrist will examine your eyes thoroughly and tell you whether you need Glasses or not.

THE SPIRIT OF THE WORLD Is the Thing God Wants Men to Resist and to Avoid.

Dr. J. F. McFadyen preached at Sydenham street church Sunday, and delivered forceful sermons morning and evening. At the morning service he spoke from the text in 1st John II:15—"Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world," pointing out that the text does not tell the people to stand aside from the physical world in any sense, nor the world of men and women. Neither does it mean the business world for there is a place for Christianity there when conditions of unemployment exist as the do. In Eastern countries these problems are, almost unnumberable but in this country it is certainly only a task for Christian people to undertake. Some have thought of the world as one of wickedness but the speaker showed it was God's world. The thought of the text was rather that, based on selfish motives, tends to make us place ourselves before our duty to God and our fellow men, and that is to be shunned. The temptation that is to yield to this is always with us but God is ever present to aid us resist.

Miss Dora Amey rendered a solo at the morning service.

Address on "New Korea."
A wonderful address on "New Korea" was given in Zion Presbyterian church Sunday evening, by Miss Ethel McEachren. Miss McEachren has been engaged in missionary work in Korea for some time, is a fluent speaker, and held the intense interest of the congregation throughout her address, in which she made a strong appeal for workers in Korea. During the service, Mrs. Prager rendered a solo, "My Task," very sweetly. Mrs. Lennox presiding at the organ.

In opening her address, Miss McEachren referred to certain fine characteristics of the Koreans, stating that they were a people of very fine character. She spoke especially of the great moral courage of the people; they possessed great love of learning, so much so that until recent years, it interfered with their industry. This had been one of their weak points. A scholar allowed his finger nails to grow to a great length, a sign that he was a scholar, not a worker. Sometimes working men also allowed their finger nails to grow, under the pretence that they too were scholars, but now, the Koreans are realizing that honest work is necessary and honorable. They are cutting off their long finger nails, and even the rich, are asking what work they can do. They want to bring Korea up to a high standard among the nations.

The speaker gave an interesting resume of certain events in relation to Japan and Korea, leading up to the present condition of things. She spoke of the base scheming and treachery of the Japanese, in their efforts to get possession of Korea. From the day of the armistice, in the great war, the Koreans gathered together, in crowds, waved little flags, and shouted for Korean independence. As a result of this, the Japanese threw many of them into the prisons, which became overcrowded, and those who were not Christians, and against whom there was no special charge, were allowed their freedom, but the Christians were kept in prison. As a result of this, great revivals broke out in all the prisons, among the ordinary prisoners, and much good was accomplished.

Miss McEachren also spoke of the religious character of the people. They knew their Bible well, and evidently from what one could judge, better than the people of Canada do. They were strong on faith, and looked very much for the leading of God in their lives.

The speaker told about persons going out of prisons forming. Little groups of Christians who were pleading for teachers.

The speaker also told about the Koreans leaving for Manchuria, to get away from the Japanese oppression. These people would first build a church and live in it until they were able to erect their houses, so that in some communities everyone was a Christian. A strong appeal was made for persons to volunteer to go out and help in the work in Korea.

HAS TAKEN ACTION.
Asks $2,000 Damages from T. I. Park Association.
The Thousand Island Park Association and Harry W. Kreuzburg, the president of the association, are defendants in an injunction action brought by Homer E. Ross, who for some years has had the exclusive right to sell ice cream on Thousand Island Park, now claiming that cream is being sold with permission of the Park Association by other parties.

In 1919 Ross entered into a contract with the 1000 Island Park Association through the then president, E. T. Shephard, for the exclusive right to sell cream there for a period of five years. Since then Shephard has sold out his interest in the association to Harvey Kreuzburg who has since become the president.

In his complaint the plaintiff asks for a permanent injunction and damages of $2,000. A temporary injunction has been granted by County Judge Conboy and has already been served which stays the sale of cream on the park by anyone but the plaintiff or his agents.

Another Warning Given.
Kingston, July 30—(To the Editor.)—Will you allow me a small space in your valuable paper regarding pasturing horses on Barrfield Commons, as I saw a remark in your Saturday issue of a local horseman visiting the commons. He was quite right when saying that the emaciated animal could not get enough to eat to keep it in shape. My idea is that if a horse is turned out there in good shape it will soon become poor, as there is nothing but starvation owing to such a dry season. Cows may be allowed on the commons as long as they are taken in at night and fed, but every horse must be taken off the commons at once, as the grounds are closed to all horses for this season, or the Humane Society will take steps to remove them. We are doing this for the benefit of the half-starved animals, as we already have had to destroy two horses on the commons. Trusting all owners who have horses over there will give this their attention and get them removed at once.

Inspector Humane Society
