DEATH OF DR. E. H. YOUNG INCIDENTS OF THE DAY

Well-Known Alienist Passes Away at London, Ont., Monday Afternoon.

The sad news reached Kingston Monday afternoon of the death at London, Ont., of Dr. Ernest H. Young, assistant superintendent of the Ontario Hospital of that city. Dr. Young had been in ill-health ever since returning from France, where he served with the Canadian Army Medical Corps. Like many another medical officer and nurse who did duty in an overseas hospital, he received an infection which resulted fatally. While serving as officer commanding the Cobourg military hospital a year and a half ago, Major Young had relinquish his duties for a time and undergo treatment in Kingston General Hospital. His ailment puzzled the specialists. He left Kingston, however, a great deal better, and after closing the work at Cobourg, he resumed his former position at the provincial hospital in London. Two months ago he was at Rockwood hospital, of which he was assistant superintendent for several years, holding examinations for the nurses-in-training. Two weeks ago he was taken seriously ill, and was under care of Dr. Fisher, a former colleague. Death ensued at 1.30 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Dr. Young was a distinguished graduate of Toronto medical college. He entered the Ontario government service and was appointed to Rockwood hospital. While here he was a member of Queen's medical college staff, lecturing on insane diseases. Early in 1915 he was transferred to the hospital at London, and later that year he went overseas with the London hospital corps as captain. Returning to Canada in 1918 he was appointed in command of the military hospital at Cobourg, and this institution under his expert management, became probably the most noted of all hospitals for the treatment of shell-shocked soldiers. Under his direction, many soldiers who came from England were at once freed of their strait-jackets and given the attention of kindly nurses. Cases sent back to Canada from the seat of war and regarded over there as high helpless, were in a few weeks sent to their homes almost well. A keen knowledge of psychology enabled Major Young to quickly determine the treatment cases of this kind should have and he would have none of the strait-jacket. Ex-soldiers, who have been under his care, and his nursing staff have told of his success and the pen of Dr. C. K. Clarke, the eminent Canadian alienist, at Cobourg hospital, in an article in Toronto Saturday Night, told a wonderful story of what he had done for the shell-shocked men. His success at Rockwood and London was also very marked. The provincial hospital department has lost one of its best alienists through the passing of Dr. Young.

The deceased was married in 1912 to Miss Florence Williamson, of Kingston, who survives, together with two children, Elizabeth and Billy.

AT EASTVIEW CAMP.

The "Kiddies" Were Royally Entertained Monday Night. There was a jolly gathering at Eastview Park, on Monday night, when Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hall entertained the "kiddies" of the camp in royal fashion. They had a great time. Ald. J. W. Litton and Dr. J. W. Edwards, M.P., are fighting it out for the honors in fishing. Both are good followers of Isaac Walton and are giving the funny tribe a great run. Last week Ald. Litton hooked on to a couple of fine pike, one weighing eight pounds and the other nine. The doctor is confident that he can beat this record, and interesting developments are looked for. Dr. G. W. Ryks has taken up baseball, and is being congratulated on all sides on his ability as a "pinch hitter." Babe Ruth and Ty Cobb have nothing on some of the "stunts" pulled off in the matches played at this camp.

Mrs. Knight and baby, who have been visiting with Mrs. Knight's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Breathwaite, left on Monday for their home in Sault Ste. Marie, after a very pleasant stay of six weeks at the camp. Mrs. Breathwaite went as far as Toronto with them.

IN MARINE CIRCLES

The steamer City of New York, bound from Gananoque to Oswego, was forced to put in at Kingston on Monday, on account of the storm, and cleared on Tuesday. The schooner Mary Daryau cleared on Tuesday for Oswego to load coal. The steamer Winona passed up from Montreal to Port Colborne on Monday afternoon. The steamer Beaverton passed up from Montreal to Fort William on Monday afternoon.

Died Very Suddenly. Mrs. Anna Flood, wife of the late Michael Flood, passed away suddenly at her home, Wolfe Island, on Monday. It appears that Mrs. Flood, who was a most industrious woman, did a large washing in the morning and at noon partook of a hearty meal. Shortly after the meal she was taken violently ill and passed away. She deceased was a daughter of the late Phillip Ryan and resided on the island all her life. She was sixty-seven years of age.

Everything was quiet in police circles on Tuesday morning. There was but one case before the magistrate, that of a citizen-charged with being intoxicated. He was fined ten dollars and costs.

George Pringle, Shannonville, was on Saturday evening the victim of an auto mix up. His horse attached to a buggy had both hind legs broken, the buggy was considerably damaged and Mr. Pringle thrown out. He fortunately escaped serious injuries.

The Ladies' Auxiliary, of the Hotel Dieu, held a meeting on Monday, and disposed of a great quantity of the various reports showing that the ladies had been quite active in the interests of the organization. Arrangements were completed for a garden party.

The Belleville Rotary Club has been asked to take to the water, and to get a yacht to put into the Lake Yacht Racing Association. Rotarian Bill Schuster, back from the fine yacht races at Kingston, is aglow over the prospects of reviving the Belleville Yacht Club.

An Automobile Was Stolen; Located on Redan Street.

Automobile thieves are still at work in the city. A citizen who parked his car on Sydenham st. early Saturday night, came back a few hours later to find that it had been stolen. The matter was reported to the police, and on Sunday morning the car was found on Redan street, where it had been deserted by the thief or thieves.

As in many other cases, the car was taken for joy riding purposes, the guilty parties deserting the car after they had a night's enjoyment with it.

A man may always take home with him three priceless treasures—a loving heart, a pleasant countenance, and kind words. The best of it is, they cost nothing.
