GETS MEDAL FOR ACTION

Aaron Higgins 'Descended Steam-Filled Room on Dollar Steamer.

Vancouver Province, Aug. 6. The Royal Albert bronze medal was presented to Aaron E. Higgins (formerly of Kingston) this morning by Hon. Walter C. Nichol in recognition of the gallant conduct of Mr. Higgins on August 27th, 1919, when an explosion took place in the engine room of the steamer Melville Dollar.

The presentation was one of the first official acts performed by His Honor in Vancouver, and he took the opportunity of referring to the heroism displayed by Mr. Higgins, who was third engineer. He expressed the view that the plucky engineer had worthily upheld the traditions of the British merchant service and offered his heartiest congratulations.

Recognition of Mr. Higgins' gallantry was accorded by the Royal Albert Society on receipt of reports of Captain Basil Taylor, R.N., harbor master at Hong Kong, and Captain William Wright, master of the Melville Dollar. Presentation of the medal has been delayed, as Mr. Higgins has been absent from port for long intervals. He is now employed on a towboat of the Hastings Mill fleet.

The official description of the act which won the medal for Mr. Higgins follows:

"At 6.25 a.m. on the 27th August, 1919, the main steam pipe burst just above the engine room bulkhead, killing the second engineer and five Chinese firemen. Attempts were immediately made to get down into the engine room to rescue the injured and to shut off steam from the boilers. The chief engineer, David Fraser, tried first, but was not able to get beyond the fiddley door, being badly scalded about the arms, throat and face. The master and mates fitted up two large tarpaulins as wind-sails, to force as much air as possible down the skylights into the engine and boiler rooms.

"Meanwhile Mr. Higgins, third engineer, having wrapped himself in coverings as a protection against the still escaping steam, made several attempts to get to the valves but was driven back each time by the high pressure steam which filled the engine room. The master then descended with him, and put a bowline around him as a life line, and Mr. Higgins made another attempt, this time reaching the burst part of the steam pipe, but found it impossible to get to the valves, through exhaustion, and he had to be pulled back by the life line. I cannot understand how he managed to get as far as he did for the atmosphere was principally superheated steam.

"It was not until 8 a.m. that the pressure in the boiler fell sufficiently to permit of descent, when the bodies were removed and the fires drawn and the steam shut off, which was done by Mr. Higgins."

GAVE AMERICAN BILL BUT RETURNED FOR IT

Tourist Changed His Mind About Payment in American Money.

American tourists in the city do not like to use any of their American money, if they do not get exchange for it. On Monday morning, an American was in a local barber shop, and after getting "dolled" up, he handed the barber a crisp $20 American bill.

The barber grabbed the bill and put it in his jeans to use on his next trip across the border, but he was given quite a surprise, when the American walked into the shop again and asked for the bill, handing the barber Canadian money for the job. He said he was going to stay in Montreal a day or so, and then would go to the States, and that he wanted to keep his American money. The barber was kind enough to make the exchange.

Poultry judging will start at the Canadian National Exhibition Friday, Sept. 2nd.

MANY BIG FEATURES

Will Mark the Central Canada Exhibition at Ottawa This Fall. The Central Canada Exhibition at Ottawa this year will be one of remarkable proportions. The many features will include a musical ride by the mounted police and a great floral parade in Lord Byng's honor. Thirty-five mounted men will take part in the musical ride, which will be given every afternoon and evening. The dates for the fair are September 9th to 19th. The feature of the opening day will be the opening of the Exhibition by Lord Byng, the Governor-General. It is expected that the official opening of Lord Byng will give the fair one of the most auspicious commencements it has ever had.

Associated with the event will be the great floral parade in Lord Byng's honor, in which the participation of the Great War Veterans will be a signal feature. The headquarters of the C.W.V.A. has given approval of the plans for the parade and senior officials are taking part in the preparations which are being made for it. The floral parade will undoubtedly be the finest spectacle of its kind that the Capital has witnessed. The climax of the event will be Lord Byng's reception of the veterans who served under his command in the war.

A glance over the preparatory work in connection with the Exhibition reveals the manner in which the fair is growing and gives indication of what is in store. The Dairy building will be full of interesting and novel features. Included in these will be a daily exhibition of sculpture work in butter by an artist who attracted outstanding attention at the recent Panama-Pacific Exposition. Butter-making demonstrations, put on by the National Dairy Council will rival in interest the domestic science demonstration to be given by the Provincial Department of Agriculture. In this building also there will be a demonstration in the increasing popular science of bee culture.

While the staple displays in the horticultural building are being arranged for on an improved scale, one of the novel features of the exhibition will be located there. This will be an orchestra of fifty singing canaries imported from England and Switzerland.

A very successful baby show, under the supervision of Dr. Lomer, medical officer of health for Ottawa, will be held.

The management is authority for the statement that the show that has been provided for the grandstand is the best the exhibition has ever presented. The special attractions committee has booked a number of the most successful outdoor performances to be had in the United States. One of these will come to Canada from Coney Island, New York, especially to play before the exhibition grandstand. A new feature of the grand stand show will be the whippet races.

Agents for the special bargain strip tickets report a ready sale. People buying these tickets save 75c. on a dollar's expenditure. Five regular 35c. tickets may be had for $1 by buying them before the exhibition opens. They are for admission to the grandstand in the afternoon as well as to the grounds.

UPHOLDS ROSS.

Decision in Thousand Island Park Case—Soft Drink Privilege. That Homer E. Ross, under his contract with the Thousand Island Park Association made in 1919, has the exclusive right to sell ice cream, soft drinks, peanuts, etc., at Thousand Island Park, N.Y., until 1923, and that it must not be sold by others except when served with regular meals during regular hours in hotels, restaurants and boarding houses, was the ruling made by Justice Claude B. Alverson in the action brought by Mr. Ross against the Thousand Island Park Association and its president, Harvey W. Krueger, to restrain them from competing with him or granting others to compete with him.
