Kingston Horses Win.
An exhibit of special note at the Cebourg horse show was Lady Ethel, owned by Capt. H. F. Bray, Kingston, a horse that was ridden by Brig.-Gen. A. E. Ross during the war.
In spectacular events it surpassed other years, with tent pegging, double tent pegging, and fire jumps put on by a military squad from the R.
C.H.A., Kingston. Capt. H. F. Bray's Dollie McGuire won first prize in the officers' open performance.

Going to Oxford University.
Of interest to Kingstonians is the announcement that Gjems Fraser, son of Oliver Mowat Fraser, Grafton, North Dakota, has been awarded the 1921 Rhodes scholarship from the University of North Dakota. Mr.
Fraser's father was born in Kingston, and lived on Earl street between Sydenham and Clergy streets for a number of years. He is a nephew of the late Sir Oliver Mowat and is remembered by many persons in the city. His son is an expert tennis player, and besides winning the championship of the University of North Dakota, was a participant in the games for the state championship.

A Dangerous Point.
The situation of the street car line where it crosses the highway near the Kingston Junction has been the cause of much comment by the residents of that part of Montreal street.
Before the new pavement was laid the car tracks hugged the east side of the road right to the junction, but when the new pavement was put down, the tracks were laid so that they cross from the east to the west side of the roadway. At the point of crossing the road takes a slight turn so that any north-bound street car is right in the highway before a motor car coming from the depot has warning. The people have seen two cars struck at this place this summer, and consider it dangerous to the traveling public.

WAS TERROR TO FAMILY.
George Brown Wanted on Charge of Beating Half Sister.
Alexandria Bay, N.Y., Aug. 18.— George Brown, wanted in this village for a warrant sworn out by his brother-in-law, J. M. Peters, is still at large and is believed to be hiding somewhere in Canada. Brown, who resided with his parents in Holland street, was arrested by Patrolman Jack Hibbard last Thursday night following after a warrant had been sworn out by Peters charging that Brown beat the latter's wife, who is Brown's half sister, and made conditions in general unbearable about the house.
Brown was arraigned before Justice Keeler Thursday night and was let go on his own recognizance until Saturday night at 8 p.m. He was paroled in the custody of his attorney, John Delaney. He failed to appear Saturday and it was later learned that he had skipped town.
Brown, who is about twenty-five years old, is a familiar figure in the village court. He is one of nine boys of the family and although the third from the youngest is feared by all. Brothers of the man, who is sought, claim that they were in constant fear of their bigger and stronger brother and very often when he came home under the influence of liquor, he would beat them into submission. Things became too uncomfortable around the Brown home and It is for this reason that Peters swore out the warrant for his brother-in-law's arrest. Authorities in Canada have been notified.

The old-fashioned boy who was crazy to go barefooted now has a daughter who is crazy to go barefooted.

MORE HEART
By CHARLES GRANT MILLER
(Copyright, 1921. All Rights Reserved by United Feature Syndicate.)

The one who is loved is the one who loves. The language best understood is that of the heart.
However admirable is a capable or brilliant mind, however enviable a skilled or art-kissed hand, something still more good and beautiful lies in a true and generous heart.
For while the head may be lacking of appreciation, and the hands underpaid for their dexterity, because of varying standards by which they are judged, the heart has the larger chance of being understood.
The main thing to be wished for is more heart—more heart in our work, more heart in our plans, more heart in our hopes, more heart in our play, and in our intercourse with the world around. There can never be too much. There is, alas, too little.
The tendency of the age is to make us hard-hearted. We live in a whirl. We can find little time for anything but our material interests.
And so we overlook the most practical thing of all. We haven't time for the real treasures of life.
The need of these days is not greater opportunities for commerce and trade in dead matter, so much as larger realizations of the possibilities latent in the fellowship of all mankind.
Material needs shape their own remedies. When commerce must be greatened it is. When waterways must be opened, they are. These are the world's appetite, and, when hungry and thirsty, food and drink are sought and found.
The higher and gentler side of human nature is more modest and less insistent in its demands. To make it part of our daily duty, that no seeking of this kind remains unfulfilled is a nobler endeavor, than the continual and overriding race for anything that can be classed as material riches.
The more heart we put into our daily dealings, the more true satisfaction and lasting reward do we obtain.
The wider our sphere of influence, the more care should we take that only good is reflected in it. The narrower our sphere of life, the more heart we need to widen it.
