Independence on a Fruit Farm

In the heart of the small-fruit country on the north side of the Fraser River in British Columbia, where every landowner has his commercial patch of raspberries, small or large, one of the best examples of a perfectly developed, well-tended fruit farm on a small acreage can be seen in the Maple Crest Farm at Hatzic belonging to Mr. A. E. Dann. Mr. Dann is an Old Country gardener and was brought up on his father's fruit farm of 200 acres in Kent; as the conditions for fruit-growing are much the same in British Columbia as in England, his experience is his greatest asset and he will give to her parents to visit and have also taken in the Toronto fair. Mrs. Percy Thornton and family, Toronto, visited her father here last week. Uncle Sam is well represented around the shores of Beaver Lake.

Gathering Raspberries.

There is an acre of loganberries and though these do not bring in such good prices as raspberries, the crop is much longer and pickers can reach the amount in a day, so the Logan growers are very anxious to see a plant for bottling loganberries started in the Province and to hope this will come ere long.

Over an acre of "Thornless" blackberries are grown as there are considered better than "Scudder" which are too seedy or "Evergreen" which are too late. They do not bring in such good prices as the other fruits but the crop is heavier, lasts longer and the expense are less, so that a good $600 is cleared on these alone. There are about one and a quarter acres of red and black currants, some of the red currant bushes reaching the prodigious size of 9 ft in diameter and producing over 50 lbs of fruit. These bring in a gross return of $700-$800 per acre.

Mr. Dann has also fifty Bushnell pear trees which invariably yield a good crop and are a variety particularly free from disease. This district has learnt the importance of co-operation in handling their fruit. The area of production has assumed such vast proportions in the last few years that unless the produce had been handled on business lines nothing about the district could have occurred, both for the individual and for this industry in the Province.

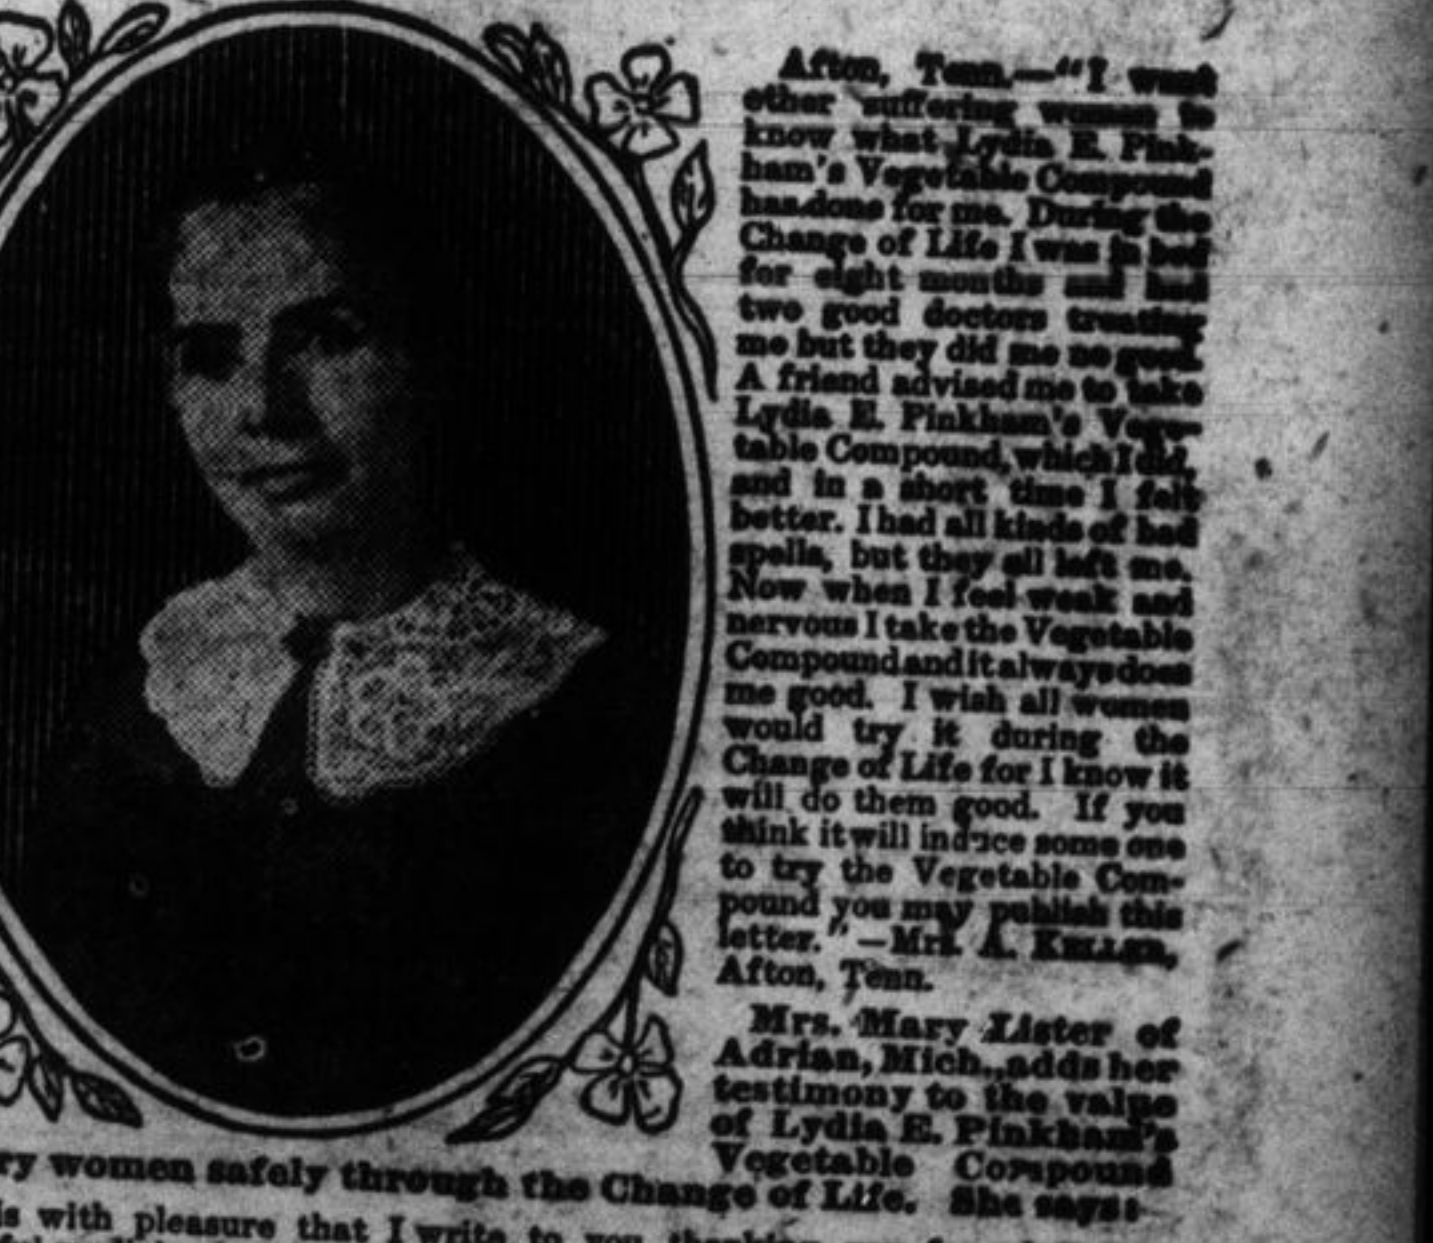

Cold storage facilities are absolutely necessary and the expense of this can only be met by every grower joining the exchange in his district. Last year the Hatzic Fruit and Mercantile Exchange shipped six carloads of pears to Winnipeg and not one crate was spoiled. A traveller from the East told Mr. Dann that he saw several crates of pears from the Hatzic district, summer in Fort William and they were all in perfect shape.

This year the Exchange expects to ship over 500 crates of fruit and the strawberry yield alone is expected to be 800 crates for which the lowest price is $4 per crate, so it will be under $,500 acres in British Columbia. Last year's crop was approximately a million dollars.—H. G. W.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE LIFE

A Dangerous Period Through Which Every Woman Must Pass

Practical Suggestions Given by the Women Who's Letters Follow

"It is with pleasure that I write to you thanking you for what your wonderful medicine has done for me. I was passing through the Change of Life and had a displacement and weakness so that I could not stand on my feet any longer. I had all kinds of bad spells, but they all went away. Now when I feel weak and nervous I take the Vegetable Compound and it always does me good. I wish all women would try it during Change of Life for I know it will do them good. If you think it will induce some one to try the Vegetable Compound you may wish to send me this letter."—Mrs. A. Kellan, Afton, Tenn.

It is said that middle age is the most trying period in a woman's life, and owing to modern methods of living not one woman in a thousand passes through the head until it seems as though it would burst, and the faint feeling that follows, as if the heart were going to stop, these sinking or dizzy spells are all symptoms of a nervous condition, and indicate the need for a special medicine. Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound is a root and herb medicine especially adapted to act upon the feminine system. It acts as a tonic to build up the weakened nervous system and enables a woman to pass this trying period with the least possible annoying symptoms.

Women everywhere should remember that most of the commoner ailments of women are not the surgical ones—they are not caused by serious displacements or growths, although the symptoms may be the same, and that is why so many apparently serious ailments readily yield to Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound, as it acts as a natural restorative and often prevents
