BUSINESS IN KINGSTON REPORTED FAIRLY GOOD

Those Dealing in Absolute Necessities Do Well—Advertising Aids Greatly.

Business is dull in some lines in Kingston, but in others there is a good, healthy activity although no rush is reported. The depression is felt most by dealers such as jewelers who are always among the first to experience the effects of tight money or a reduction in the buying power of the people occasioned by unemployment. But dealers in groceries, dry-goods and household articles, things that are absolute necessities, are doing a very good business. This they have been able to stimulate to some extent by extensive advertising of reduced prices, although the public continues to look for further reductions all along the line.

Never were people so critical of prices as they are today. A visitor in the city was known to have gone from one restaurant to another where he examined the price lists before he ordered. This may seem strange, but it is a fact nevertheless. There is a strong general tendency to study prices, and the merchant who is able to convince the people that he is selling at substantial reductions is the one who gets the trade. No class of people are keener for bargains than the transient American tourists. In the United States cutting of prices began in earnest last year, and Canadians hung on longer, with the result that many of them got left behind. These tourists know a good article and will buy it if prices are right.

In Kingston, the process was slow but the live merchants were the first to accept the inevitable and get what business there was. They are, consequently, in a better position to meet the period of slow buying.

It is just here where advertising comes in, for advertisements are read eagerly by buyers of all classes seeking reduced prices. This is a point upon which all are particularly sensitive, and the merchant who has something to announce is bound to focus attention and secure definite results.

AMHERST ISLAND MUD HOUSE.

R. C. Fowler, New Liskeard, Writes What He Knows.
R. C. Fowler, New Liskeard, Ont., writes as follows:

"I read with considerable interest your article on the mud house on Amherst Island.
"I can quite well remember my grandmother telling me how her uncle, Major Radoliff, had the house built for him by a man who came out from Ireland. As to his being brought out on purpose to build the house she did not say.

"She described the process as follows: There was a mixture of mud and straw put into troughs or boxes and the men got into these with their bare feet and tramped until the desired consistency was attained, then withes were imbedded in it as a reinforcement.
"She said she was quite a young girl when she went with her father to see the building of it. Judging from her age and from the reminiscences of an aunt, who is with me at the present time, I think you have the age of the house pretty well fixed at ninety years."

DECLINE IN MAKING.

Not Because of Price But Because of Patronage.
There has been a heavy falling off in the production of cheese in the Kingston district this year, little more than half that of last season having been produced so far. This was not due to any reduction in the prices but is due chiefly to the early drying up of the pastures during the prolonged drought. Not more than one refrigerator car was employed to send forward each week's output to Montreal, and often this car was not more than half full. The reason for this was that the cheese was not made. Last year two cars were frequently required to carry the week's output to Montreal.

Cases in Toronto.

These cases were in the judges chambers, Osgoode Hall, on Thursday:

Maguire v. Maguire.—A. B. Cunningham, K.C., for plaintiff, on motion (1) to commit, (2) for leave to appeal from order for examination. G. W. Mason, for defendant. By consent, motion dismissed without costs.
Rex v. Ferguson.—A. B. Cunningham, K.C., for defendant. Motion to quash conviction of defendant by Police Magistrate at Sharbot Lake for abuse of a horse. Obtained one week's enlargement.
In the weekly court before Judge Masten:
Maguire v. Maguire.—A. B. Cunningham, K.C., moved for appointment of receiver. G. W. Mason for defendant. Stands pending disposition of motion for security for costs.
In the Master's Chambers:
Maguire v. Maguire.—G. W. Mason, for defendant, moved for order for security for costs. A. B. Cunningham, K.C., for plaintiff. Order made for plaintiff to give security in $100.

Holidays Nearly Over.

The public schools will open after Labor Day, so the "kiddies" now have only two weeks' holidays left. They have had a great summer and no doubt will be in fine form for the opening of another term. This is the greatest summer they have had for swimming and out-of-door sports.

The Taxi Man Wants to Know

How people can buy coal when they cannot buy enough to eat. Who is the biggest liar in Kingston, now that the aid-timers have gone to their reward.
How many gallons of homebrew will be made by the Kingston housewives this coming fall.
How often Black Maria breaks the traffic rules which the cops make other people obey.
What Wolfe Island farmer worked a city man from 5 a.m. until 10 p.m. and gave him dinner consisting of two potatoes, a slice of bread and a cup of tea.
The destination of the young married lady who met a bachelor at Portsmouth and proceeded in an auto up the Forty-foot road.
If concrete walks could not have been eliminated from the market square.
What the workmen will do if potatoes keep going up in price, they being now seventy-five cents a peck.
Why the Wolfe Island council does not advertise the special trips of its steamboat and get more city patronage.
If people can really be stopped resting in Lake Ontario Park on the Sabbath.
If the fire department horses, including old grey Dobbin, are satisfactory to the humane society.
If the Kingston bowlers won any of the hearts of Belleville maidens besides all the silver cups they captured.
If the workmen on the market square found any money under the old stone walks.
If the ladies would kindly keep their fall hats and clothes in hiding till September is gone and let us enjoy a little more summer.
If the Canadian government would please allow the convicts of Portsmouth penitentiary their liberty for a few days to decide as to what further home rule Canada should have.

TWO SCHOOLMATES MET.

And They Had Two Hours of Real Good Talk.
One of Kingston's oldest residents, H. Crothers, Earl street, enjoyed a visit on Thursday, from a companion of his school days, going back as far as 1850 and 1851, in the person of Enoch Cronk. They spent two very interesting hours in reviewing events of their early days and now. It is of interest to note that in their childhood days there were no railroads in eastern Ontario, all transportation being by water alone. The early pioneers have all passed into the great beyond, and the beautiful homes and farms of long ago are now in the hands of the third generation and in some cases in the hands of strangers. In a limited circle, a few have risen to prominence. One became a cabinet minister, one a prominent banker in Los Angeles, Cal., and one of the third generation, a prominent financier in England, Col. Grant Morden, who visited Canada last year and addressed the Boards of Trade in Montreal and Toronto, in the steel manufacturing interests.

The tourist traffic through the city during the past week has not been as heavy as in preceding weeks. Those who have been keeping tabs say that the week-ends bring the crowds across the border.

ARRANGEMENTS ARE MADE

For the Opening of the Robert Meek School on Sept. 6th.
All the arrangements have been completed for the ceremonies in connection with the opening of the Robert Meek School on September 6th, at 2.30 p.m. A meeting of the property committee of the Board of Education was held on Friday, when the matter was attended to.
An effort was made to have Hon. Mr. Grant, Minister of Education, come to the city and officiate at the opening ceremonies but Mr. Grant will be away on his holidays at that time, and unable to come.
Trustee H. V. Moore, chairman of the property committee, will preside at the affair, and Rev. Mr. Brown, pastor of Calvary Congregational church, will offer prayer. Mr. Moore, as chairman of the property committee, will hand the new school over to the chairman of the board, Trustee Allan Lemmon, and the latter will deliver an address. Other speakers will include Mayor Nichol, Principal Taylor and Brigadier-General A. E. Ross.
Following the addresses, Principal MacDougall will be introduced, and H. Hill, of Galt, the newly-appointed singing master in the schools will favor with a solo. Following the proceedings, refreshments will be served by the Home and School Club.
