Almost everything has its ups and downs except taxes.

Prosperity never hits a man when he is down in the mouth.

Open discussion of the open door may avoid an open break.

Genius is one part inspiration and nine parts perspiration.

And yet a fat man doesn't appear as ridiculous in a bathing suit as he does in a rage.

The soviet authorities have decided to take a chance on letting some of the starving eat.

Picnic: An occasion when one takes out a few bites to eat and brings back many bites to scratch.

It was a remarkable war in many ways, and now even though peace has come the charge continues with unabated fury.

Better travel the road back to normalcy while you can. Ford is turning out a jitney every seven minutes.

The vacationist discovers that even among the most primitive scenes there is somebody who knows modern methods of charging.

A New York doctor says that as civilization progresses women grow uglier. Maybe that is why so many men persist in acting like heathens.

If the nations are to be content with "reductions of armaments," the conference will probably forbid the wearing of spurs and little tin swords.

Here's one married woman who will look up to her husband, anyway. We refer to the 5 feet 4 inch Fort Arthur girl who married a man 9 feet six inches tall.

Edison is said to worry along on four hours of sleep per night. Well, that's more than some of us get who live next door to neighbors who own one of his inventions.

When riches become only a mockery is testified by the man who has accumulated $60,000, and his wife started making him keep his shoes on in the evening.

The United States congress has decided that home brew is all right, but it will take more than an act of government to make a man with an educated throat agree that it's fit to drink.

Germany is concerned about whom the United States will send as ambassador when relations are resumed. Apparently they would like a man who holds that France overran Belgium in invading Germany.

Some of the bungalows which are being built here look as though they were arranged so that they could reach into the kitchen room without getting out of bed.—Ogdensburg Advance. So you've noticed it, too, friend?

Bolshevism will be responsible for the death, through starvation, of some 35,000,000 Russians, unless the civilized world pours food into that heilighed country. Anyone who preaches the gospel of Bolshevism in Canada should be sent to an insane asylum.

SANITY WHEN SWIMMING.

Scarcely a day passes without the announcement of the death of some one we know, while he or she is seeking pleasure in swimming. Summer days and the lure of the river and lake seem, in many cases, to break down these habits of caution and foresight that operate as protection at other times.

One would think that any mature bather would pause to learn about currents and depths, and ruminate on the sand, rather than dive into cold water immediately after a meal that perhaps was none too readily digested anyhow.

Across the editorial desk from some unforgotten source came a little bit of French allegory. A portrait painter sat in his favorite cafe sipping his wine.

"Hard times," said the landlord. "The wine is good, but I did not order a second bottle because hard times are coming and we must economize," explained the artist.

After receiving the letter the artist went again to his favorite cafe and ordered a small bottle of wine to soothe him.

NEW FORMS OF CRIME.

Never a day passes without the Whig recording in its news columns, from one to a dozen bold daylight burglaries, while nighttime holdups are of common occurrence.

These preparations, in some cases, are being made in response to a belief that law-abiding members of society must do something more than is being done now to protect themselves from their enemies.
