"Blind Youth," pictured from the famous stage success by Lou Tellegen and Willard Mack comes to the Grand the first three days of next week. The struggles that beset the path of a young artist form the theme of this play...

achievement as a film star in this remarkable picture, which is being shown for the first time in Kingston. "Back to pre-war prices," a cheering announcement to those who love the movies and have to watch the smallest item of expenditure, blazes forth in many colors from the front of the Strand, in the advertisements of this popular theatre, and bulks large in the conversation of the street. Here are the re-opening charges at the Strand: Matinees—children ten cents, adults fifteen cents; evenings—children fifteen cents; adults, twenty cents.

Last Times To-day. If you haven't seen Fatty Arbuckle's latest and best photocomedy, "Brewster's Millions" which is on view at the Allen theatre, you'd better hurry. Last times to-day.

"The Golden Snare," declared by many to be James Oliver Curwood's best and most thrilling story of the far north, will be the screen attraction at the Allen theatre next week, beginning its engagement Monday.

Lewis S. Stone is the featured player. He will be seen once more in his favorite role—that of a Royal Northwest Mounted policeman. Ruth Renick has the feminine lead. Other well known players in the cast, in addition to Baby Esther Scott, are Wallace Berry, Melbourne MacDowell, Wellington Playter, and Francis MacDonald.

The scenes of this gripping story are laid among the picturesque wastes of the Arctic barrens. The plot involves the hunt for a madman of the north and the discovery of a golden-haired princess in the wilderness.

"The Golden Snare" was produced and directed by David Hartford. It is released by Associated First National Pictures, Inc.—Advt.

FOUR FARMERS FINED FOR WATERING MILK Seven Farmers Given Permission to Carry Firearms.

Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. George H. Hunter have been spending a pleasant vacation at their old home in Kingston, and are returning to Brooklyn, N.Y., on Monday. The well known justice of the peace was given some business while in the city, for during his stay here, he had four cases to deal with. Four farmers were accused of watering their milk. A fine of $50 and costs was imposed in each case.

Cool. Hunter also had requests from seven farmers in the back country for permission to carry revolvers, and the request in each case was granted. The farmers wanted the revolvers to protect themselves from highwaymen. In some parts of the county the farmers are quite stirred up over a series of thefts.

Getting Along Nicely. Philip Kane, the Montreal man who was stabbed in a field off Hickson avenue on Sunday night last, is still a patient at the Hotel Dieu, and it is stated that he is doing nicely. There are no new developments in the case so far as the police are concerned. Owing to the fact that Kane was unable to give any definite statement regarding the affair, the police have been handicapped in their work.

George H. Ham

The birthdays of Mr. George H. Ham, of the C. P. R., have for many years past been celebrated by some function or other. If it was not a home-like dinner with a score or so of close friends, or a public banquet or a presentation, or an operation in a hospital, or a trip on a railway train, it was something else. This year a radical departure is being made from the ordinary August 23rd proceedings with the Musson Book Company of Toronto as sponsors for the innovation. On that day, this boyhood friend of his, Mr. Ham, recalls incidents of his life from the infancy age of three down to the present day. The allotted three-score and ten of man is most interestingly covered. From his early boyhood, he recounts events which include the Fenian Raids and the second Riel Rebellion, of chasing and being chased by wild Indians, of the bustling early days of Winnipeg and the West, of the Governor-General's tea party, of the intrepid officers of the Hudson's Bay Company, of the Mormons with whom he mingled accompanied by the Canadian Women's Press Club of which he is the only male member, and he writes entertainingly of banquets and banquets. He tells into the mysteries of Oujia and Planchette, and gives instances of telepathic communication and other psychological subjects. He has some previously unpublished stories of his old friend, Mark Twain, and an excellent article on Brother Andre, the Miracle Man of Montreal, and his great work. Under the caption of "Scarlet and Gold" he tells of the gallant men of the Northwest Mounted Police in its early days. In "When Toronto was Young," he gives a graphic description of the Queen City in the past, and his stories of politics and politicians give the reader a hitherto unknown insight into the life of many of the grand old men of Canada, when Sir John Macdonald, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir Richard Cartwright and their confederates held sway. The "C. P. R." of which Mr. Ham has been part and parcel for nearly a third of a century, is presented in a way that it only could be by one intimately with its workings and the brainy men who inaugurated and ably managed it from its infancy until it became perhaps the greatest transportation company in the world. Running through the whole book, which are several articles which did not appear in Maclean's, is a vein of quaint humour and tender pathos which charms and delights the reader. So on his 74th birthday, the "boy" author bestows, rather than receives, a fitting gift from his facile pen to his vast army of friends and acquaintances who are to be found in the four quarters of the globe.

If This is Magic There is a Wizard at Your Own Elbow

There is this magic about daily newspaper advertising. It is a straight method of making the facts known about the things you have to sell, to the greatest number of people in the shortest possible time, for the lowest unit of cost.

Successful daily newspaper advertisers rarely adopt spectacular tactics. They use slogans and catch phrases with discretion. They use plain, every-day horse-sense, and talk in their advertising copy the way they would do to a customer who came in to buy.

Their experts unite advertising and distribution into sales; selecting markets, routing advertising, writing copy under one clear plan to reach the ultimate customer. There is service at your elbow now to aid you to lasting success at less than the price of one misguided experiment.

Hope's Aeroplane Everyone likes to indulge in "day dreams" and to construct mental pictures of vessels laden with hope's riches. These visions constitute a big share in the fun of living. And just think how much more quickly a golden cargo can come in an aeroplane than in one of the ships of which our fathers dreamed so happily.
