TEA SERVICE PRESENTED TO ROBERT R. F. HARVEY

By St. George's Congregation
—Organist of Cathedral
Twenty-five Years.

In St. George's cathedral on Sunday, Rev. W. E. Kidd, in the absence of the dean of Ontario, offered the congratulations and good wishes of the congregation to R. R. F. Harvey, who during the week celebrated his twenty-fifth anniversary as organist of the cathedral. Mr. Kidd said he was sure the congregation would wish to express their good wishes to Mr. Harvey.

After evensong the congregation adjourned to St. George's hall and after Mr. Harvey had received many good wishes, Rev. Mr. Kidd called upon R. J. Carson, one of the church wardens who congratulated Mr. Harvey, and spoke of his ability as an organist and choirmaster and his long and faithful service, expressing the hope that he would long continue at his present post, asking him to accept, not from the congregation at large, but from the choir and such members of the parish as had been hurriedly reached a silver tea service. Mr. Carson called upon P. D. Lyman, the people's warden, to present it to the organist.

R. Baston Burns, the oldest member of the cathedral choir, then spoke, referring to Mr. Harvey's work, and to the many changes which had taken place in the parish and choir in the last quarter of a century. Many imposing services, grave or bright, had been held within the walls of the cathedral. A queen was mourned, two kings were proclaimed, bishops consecrated, great military services, weddings, funerals and for all the cathedral organist was ready, always punctual and prepared to see that the best possible service was rendered. On behalf of the choir he congratulated him.

Mr. Harvey, who was completely taken by surprise, thanked the congregation for their good wishes and beautiful gift, saying the years he had spent as cathedral organist had been in many ways happy ones. The death of the late Dean Buxton B. Smith, who was rector when he came to the cathedral, and a dear friend, was one of the sad events to look back on. Mr. Harvey said he had had a letter from Dean Starr, on the exact date of his coming to the cathedral as organist, conveying his blessing and good wishes, a letter which he greatly appreciated coming from one who was so very far from well. He thanked the large gathering for coming to give him their good wishes as well as the handsome gift, and the flowers that had decked the organ, given by one of the choir.

Col. P. G. C. Campbell said that now was the time to sing "For He is a Jolly Good Fellow" which was lustily sung, the choir boys' sweetest as leading.

The tea service is of sterling silver, engraved with the monogram, "R. R. F. H.," and the words "Presented to R. R. F. Harvey on this his 25th anniversary as organist of St. George's cathedral, 1896-1921."

A PRACTICAL SUGGESTION

As to Upholding "Dignity of Medicine and Majesty of Justice."

Hon. W. E. Raney, attorney-general, told the meeting of the Ontario Neuro-Psychiatric Association at the Ontario hospital, Mimico, that if the association formed a committee to prepare legislation improving medico-legal jurisprudence, he would see that a legal adviser to the committee was supplied and would undertake the expenses of such a committee. If legislation was prepared, he said, he would go on with it at the next session of the house.

This promise from the attorney-general followed a paper read by the president of the association, Edward Ryan, M.D., Kingston, in which he suggested that the attorney-general should, by legal enactments, bring it to pass that in all trials where the question of insanity was raised a body of professional psychiatrists should be appointed by the crown, a permanent body if possible, which, after careful and extensive study, would advise the crown, having in mind but one ideal, "the dignity of medicine and the majesty of justice."

Dr. Ryan's whole paper was a review of several cases in the law courts where the accused were not of sound mind, and he advocated a change in methods so as to get absolute justice for the man appearing before a court, when there was any question as to his sanity.
