Fish and Birds and Big Game

AWAITING THE COOK'S CALL

The duck hunt season has commenced and will continue until Dec. 15, in Ontario.

Grouse, prairie fowl, partridge, pheasants, woodcock, plover, geese, brant, rails, yellow legs and other feather folk keep the duck company and tempt the man with a gun.

Patience and aptitude in choosing a strategic position are the duck hunter's best assets, outside of ability to shoot straight. The chap, who rambles about all day long does not that you are away from their regular channel.

September in the Ontario wilds is a time of genuine delight. The days have a pleasant warmth, the nights are invigoratingly cool; one awakens refreshed and ready to attack the camp breakfast. The popularity of the Ontario hunting grounds north of Minnesota and Lake Superior, is attested by the annually increasing number of sportsmen who make it their goal.

CHAMBERON FALLS ON NIPIGON RIVER

THIS IS WHAT THE DUCK HUNTERS FIND IN ONTARIO

Nipigon in western Ontario is not only a fish and bird country, it is also a land of big game. Some of the finest moose heads are brought down hereabouts while deer are every big game hunter's portion.

A large new camp, opened this season at Nipigon, fills a long felt need for more abundant accommodation at that point, and Bass Lake, a few miles distant by easy portage, offers many fine camping sites and exceptional fishing.
