"French Leave" To-Night.
 "French Leave," according to Webster, means "hasty or secret departure." The popular modern equivalent of this bit of slang, for it is slang, is "beat it while the beating's good." In other words, skeddaddle. The uproariously funny comedy, "French Leave," which Marc Klaw, Inc., Charles Coburn and Trans-Canada Theatres, Ltd., are presenting at Grand Opera House to-night has kept London laughing for six months at the new fashions in slang it has made. Reginald Berkeley, England's great new humorist, who is its author, has made even the chief actors of the English presentation, gasp at the fun in the language. When the heroine of the play tries to get her husband back of the lines on French leave, she upsets all the traditions of an old general. He "clicked" when he saw her. That is, he fell for her. She was dolled up as a beautiful French dame, and she vamped six men into a stew. But the general came through and everything was all to the merry at the grand finale. Mr. Berkeley, an Englishman, who has spent a good part of his life in Australia, is a lawyer by profession. His first play was written in New Zealand, and his first published work was "The Oil-skin Jacket," which he says he may turn into a play some day. Amateur setting and stage directing in his boyhood gave him, he declares, his first active desire to become a playwright.—Advt.

"The Skin Game."
 One of the most interesting productions of the present season will be John Galsworthy's tragic comedy in three acts, "The Skin Game," which comes to the Grand Opera House on Wednesday, Sept. 28th, matinee and night. William A. Brady in association with Readman Ltd., London, is bringing an all-English company of players rehearsed under the eye of Galsworthy himself. The play depicts life in a remote shire in England, as this author is so well able to do, where a fight to the finish develops after the old squire's realm has been invaded by a newly rich plebeian. Herein all the refinements and conservatism of the one is contrasted with the bitter vulgarity and coarse ambitions of the other. As the Hillier family, the family of the local aristocracy, refuse to permit the assimilation of the newcomer, Hornblower, the intruder, opens war on the Hillier family, and threatens by buying up all the property around and erecting factories to smoke the old family out. Hillierist declares it is a skin game, and that brutality describes the nature of the play. The distinguished cast includes: Reginald Dance, Alice Wyse, Audrey Cameron, Matthew Boulton, Stephanie O'Keefe, Russell Sedgwick, Francis Roberts, Arthur C. Cross, Lester Williams, Walter Jackman, Frank Snell, Nora Nicholson, Lindon Lang and Ullie Collins.—Advt.

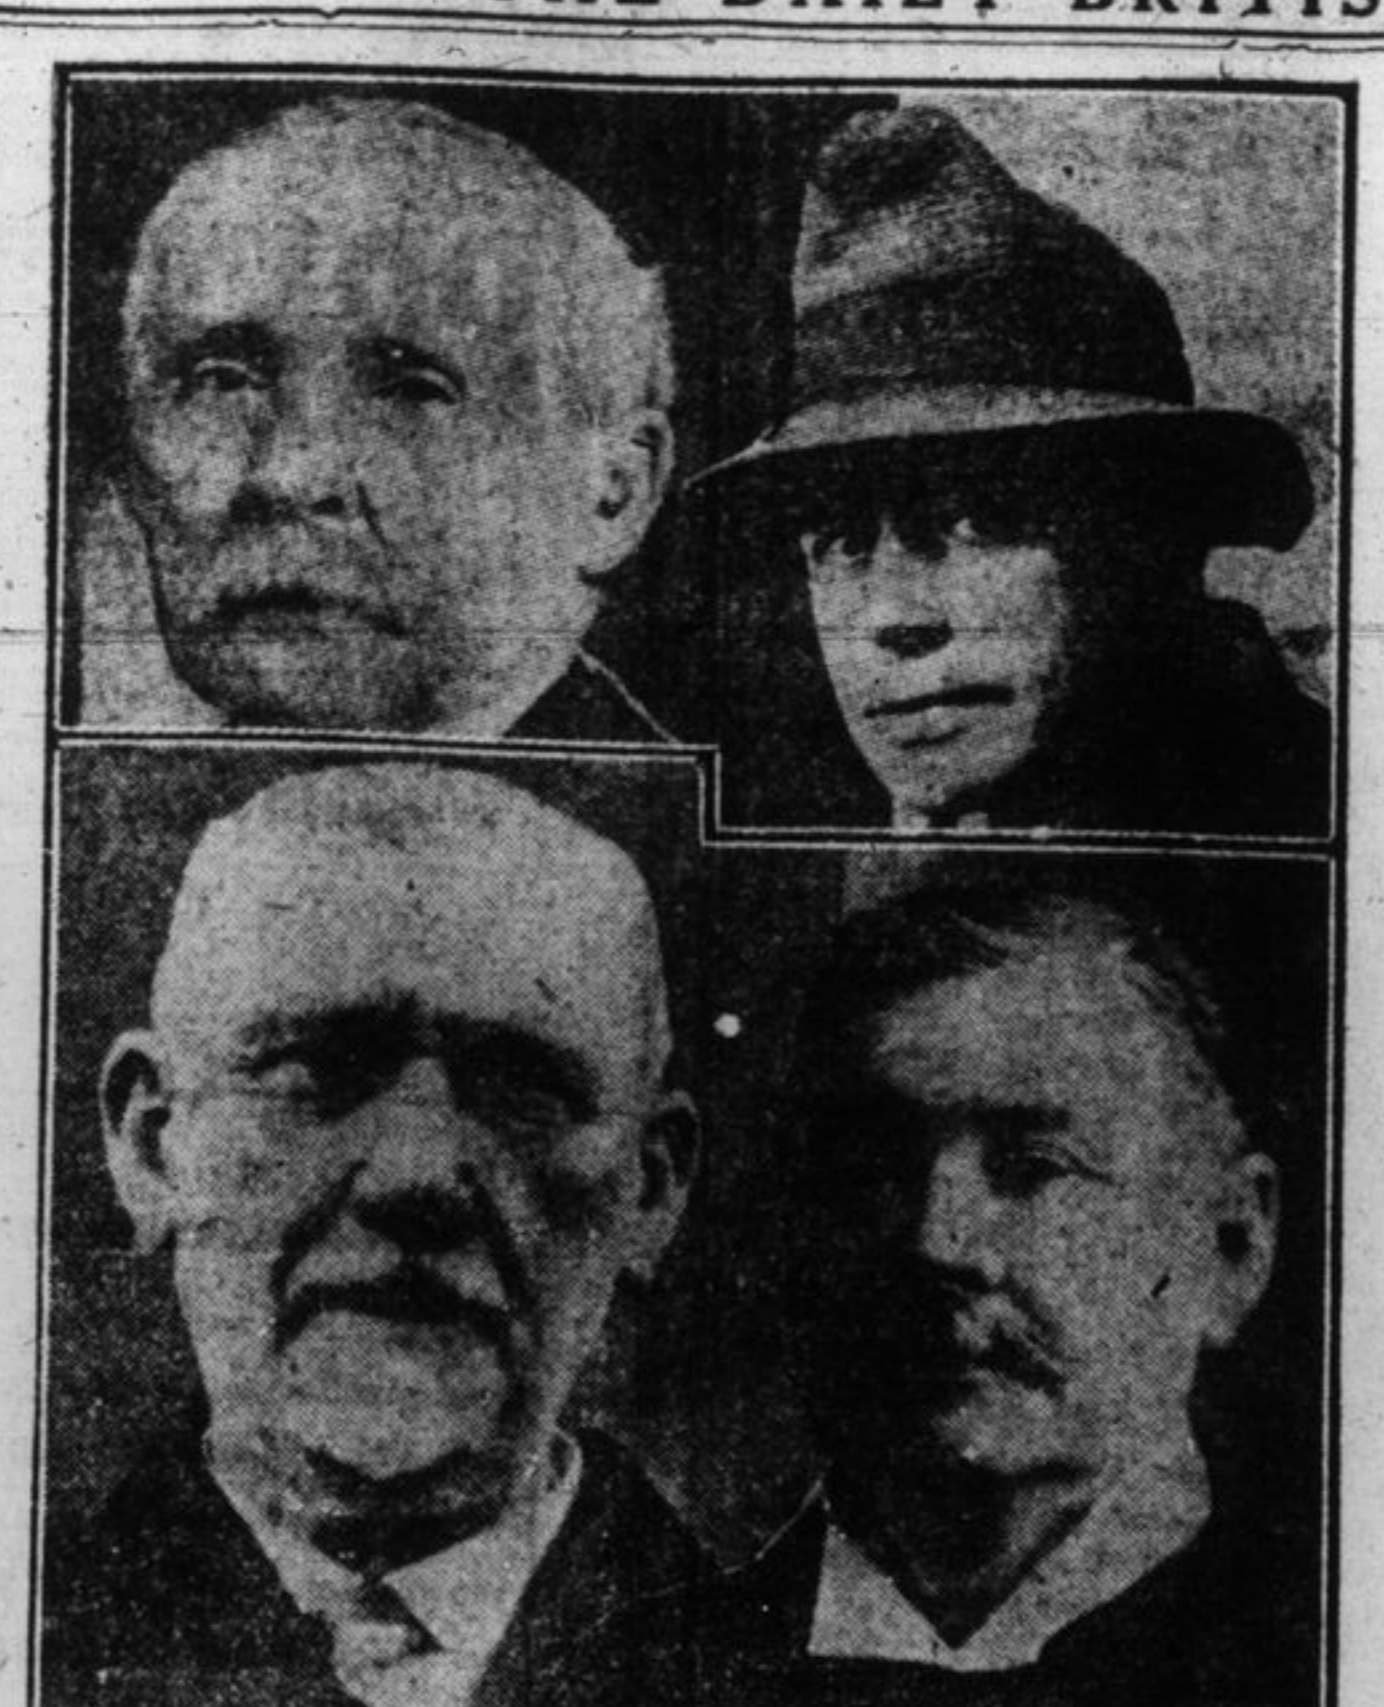

At The Strand.
 "The girl who wouldn't and the man who did." There are the "two pivotal personalities" in "Ducks and Drakes," starring inimitable Bebe Daniels, the feature at the Strand for to-day, to-morrow and Wednesday. By the way, the girl wouldn't stop flirting—especially by phone, but her fiancée—puzzled yet undaunted, did stop her. The story of how she persisted in her mischievous ways, how he persevered till he cured her—with the aid of a few chums and by means of some hair-raising stunts, makes it its picturized form an absorbing photoplay with Bebe Daniels as the central figure, fascinating folks every minute and making them wonder what the deuce she'll be up to next.
 Teddy, the good little bad girl of this story, was a restless bird in a very much gilded cage. The bousoir, bath, drawing room and other interior scenes are very gilded, indeed. Women patrons of the theatre are going to be especially delighted with the smart interior decorations of Teddy's private apartments. Her Roman bath would make them gasp in admiration, even if the fair heroine did not come into the picture for her morning dip.
 Miss Daniels' many beautiful costumes are all that could be desired by the most capricious little rich girl. This lovely young star, famous the world over for her chic as well as her beauty, has some sensational sensations to offer in this picture, and presents a complete fashion show all by herself.—Advt.

"Deep Waters" A Thriller.
 Few scenes in recent pictures on any Kingston photoplay sheet have been more thrilling than the one in "Deep Waters," where the hero, a deep-sea diver, is rescuing victims from a wrecked steamer and brings up the half-drowned body of the young wife. "Deep Waters" is the feature attraction at Griffin's to-night on Wednesday, with the usual popular daily matinee and is Maurice Tourneur's latest Paramount production. The picture was adapted from F. Hopkinson Smith's well-known novel, "Caleb West, Master Diver." The story centers around the romance of West and his girl-wife, Betty, and is packed with stirring scenes on and below the Atlantic. Barbara Bedford, Jack Gilbert, and Brooklin Christians are included in the cast. Other varied attractions including an original and highly amusing comedy are being exhibited on the same programme.
 Commencing to-day a change of prices goes into effect at Griffin's of 10c and 15c at the matinee and 10c and 20c in the evening, plus tax.—Advt.

At the Allen.
 What mother love will do to prevent the blight of the underworld from alighting upon her child forms a powerful and appealing part of the Goldwyn photoplay, "The Invisible Power," by Charles Kenyon, which comes to the Allen theatre to-day. House Priests plays the part of a crook who wants to go straight because of his love for a village school teacher. She forgives him his past record and together they strive to go straight.
 But the police think the ex-convict knows the whereabouts of a pearl necklace stolen by the gang and he is sent up again for an old offence. Then the wife, fearing to have her child born into such an atmosphere, flees, gives the child out for adoption and fakes up a record for herself as a receiver of stolen goods to put the police off the track. How the man and the woman and their child are finally reunited forms a touching story of human hearts as well as a thrilling crook drama. Frank Lloyd directed. Besides House Priests, others in the cast are Irene Rich, Sydney Ainsworth, De Witt C. Jennings, etc.—Advt.

THE YACHT SYLVIA IS BADLY DAMAGED
Broke From Moorings During Gale and Pounded Against Booth's Wharf.
 Much uneasiness has been felt around the Yacht Club the last few days, owing to the severe wind-rage and early Sunday, and most of the members who have boats there, hurried down early to see what damage had been done. Although several of the yachts have been taken out of the water and put in cribs, there are still a number in use yet. Some time during Saturday night, W. Casey's yacht Sylvia broke away from her moorings at the outer dock and was discovered early next morning by the club steward being beaten against Booth's old wharf by the high waves. Help she was finally landed on the club yard. A broken spar, most of the railing gone, and a hole in the starboard side, was the damage done, but it was only a miracle that this splendid mahogany yacht was not completely destroyed.

A SILVER FOX FARM TO BE ESTABLISHED
Near the City of Kingston—The Company Organized on Monday.
 An important new industry is to be established here at once in a fox farm, which will have a capital of $100,000. It is known as the Alaska Silver Fox Company, Limited, and at a meeting held Monday morning in the offices of Messrs. Cunningham & Smith, the charter, which has been issued, was presented.
 The Alaska Silver Fox Company will establish a large fox farm in Frontenac near to the city and it will be stocked in the first instance with twenty pairs of Alaska silver foxes imported from the farm of Fred M. Lee, a director of the company and secretary-treasurer. The climate of Frontenac is peculiarly adapted to fox breeding and the farm will be under the management of an experienced man from the Edmonton farm. The Alaska silver fox holds a high place in the fur trade and the supply cannot meet the demand.
 The following officers were elected: President and managing director, W. R. Givens; secretary-treasurer, Fred M. Lee; directors, A. E. Cunningham, J. F. Sowards, B. N. Steacy, W. R. Givens, Hon. Dr. A. E. Ross, Fred M. Lee.

WHIG SCORES AGAIN
 George A. Palmer, the well-known proprietor of Palmer's Garage and Used Car Market, on the corner of Bagot and Queen streets, reports that during the fair week he disposed of five cars, all advertised in the Whig's columns during that time.
 Mr. Palmer says that the sales were the direct outcome of his advertisement in the Whig and is, needless to say, very pleased with his results.
 This is just one more evidence of the Whig's ability as a sure-fire result-getter for advertisers.

The New Laws on teeth cleaning—five of them

Dental science has adopted new laws on teeth cleaning. They mean whiter, cleaner, stronger teeth to those who follow them.
 Millions employ these new methods, largely by dental advice. Now this ten-day test is offered to show every home the results.
1—Fight the film
 The first law is to fight film—that viscous coat you feel. It dims the teeth and causes most tooth troubles.
 Film clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Old ways of brushing do not end it. So few have escaped some form of film attack.
 Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.
 Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.
Two methods now
 Two ways are now known to fight film. Able authorities have proved their efficiency. Leading dentists everywhere now advise their daily use.
 Both are embodied in Pepsodent—a scientific tooth paste. They keep the teeth uniquely clean and also highly polished.
Three other laws
 Modern starched diet also calls for other helps to Nature. So every use of Pepsodent brings these three desired results.
1—A multiplied salivary flow.
2—Multiplied starch digestant in the saliva, to digest starch deposits that cling.
2—Multiplied alkalinity of the saliva, to neutralize mouth acids which cause tooth decay.
Thus Pepsodent fights two deposits—film and starch—which may do great harm to teeth. Also the destroying acids, and in Nature's way.
Brings a new era
 These mean vast improvements on old methods. In fact, old methods brought the opposite effects. Pepsodent has introduced a new era in teeth cleaning, and millions now enjoy it.
 Now we urge that you send for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Feel the other good effects.
 Then decide by what you own and feel. Do this for your own sake. Cut out the coupon now.

GANANOQUE
 Sept. 26.—Although the weather conditions were threatening and a drizzling rain falling, the residents of this town turned out en masse to pay their last respects to the memory of the late Samuel McCammon at 2.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Headed by the Citizens' band, members and officers of Leeds Lodge No. 201, A.F. & A.M., the mayor, reeve, deputy reeve and members of the town council and other civic employees, the funeral cortege wended its way from the family residence on Main street to St. Andrew's church, where Rev. Charles E. Kidd, pastor, assisted by Rev. Dr. Henry Gracey, conducted an impressive service. Afterwards the cortege, headed by the band, proceeded to Willowbank cemetery, where the remains were laid to rest under the ritual ceremony of Leeds Lodge No. 201.
 Arrangements have been made by the committee in charge of the night classes in connection with the local high school, for the resumption of these classes on October 4th, when it is confidently expected there will be a larger attendance than last term. Classes will be conducted in the same lines as last year and if any new subjects be desired by a sufficient number to warrant it, efforts will be made to give instruction in that line. Those desirous of availing themselves of the privilege of these classes may register at any time with members of the committee or may enroll with T. C. Smith, any time before the above mentioned date.
 The question of an independent labor candidate in this riding is not yet definitely settled. The U.F.O. of the riding were to have given notice of what action they propose taking, but as yet have not done so and so the matter stands.
 Rev. T. A. Halpern, Toronto, filled the pulpit of Grace church at the morning service and that of St. Andrew's church in the evening. On both occasions he was greeted by goodly congregations.

The Writing on the Wall
 Those who have followed the course of the investment market in the past year cannot fail to have been impressed by the fact that in the world depression of security prices, Canadian Government and Municipal Bonds have maintained a remarkably high principal value.
 Some securities are at a very low-price and might now be considered good speculative investments, but we believe that Dominion Government, Provincial Government and Municipal Bonds warrant the first consideration of investors for whom safety of principal, reasonable income and freedom from anxiety is desirable.
 Just how attractive these investments are is shown in our list of offerings. Write for this list.

 Moundsville, W. Va.—"I had taken doctor's medicine for nearly two years because my periods were irregular, came every two weeks, and I would suffer with bearing-down pains. A lady told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and how much good it had done her daughter, so I took it and now I am regular every month and have no pain at all. I recommend you medicine to everyone and you may publish my testimonial, hoping that the Vegetable Compound does some other girl the good it has done me."
 Mrs. GEORGE TEGARDEN, 912 Third Street, Moundsville, W. Va.
 How many young girls suffer as Mrs. Tegarden did and do not know where to turn for advice or help. They often are obliged to earn their living by toiling day in and day out no matter how hard the pain they have to bear. Every girl who suffers in this way should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and if she does not get prompt relief write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., about their health.
