SHARE OF MISSING MAN GOES TO TWO OTHERS
Charles E. Grass Is Practically Declared Dead by Justice Orde.

Justice Orde is presiding at the sessions of the Supreme Court of Ontario, which opened at 2 o'clock, on Tuesday afternoon.
This marked the first visit to Kingston of his lordship as a presiding judge since his elevation to bench. His lordship was warmly greeted by members of the bar who were present.
Three jury and four non jury cases were on the docket when it was made out a few days ago, but when court opened it was announced that two of the jury and one of the non-jury cases had been settled out of court, leaving but the one jury case, three non-jury cases and two motions to be disposed of.
There are no criminal cases on the docket.
It was announced that the jury case would be taken up at 10 o'clock on Wednesday morning.
Among the members of the legal profession present when the sessions opened were J. L. Whiting, K.C., J. B. Walkem, K.C., A. B. Cunningham, K.C., T. J. Rigney, K.C., W. F. Nickle, K.C., W. M. Nickle, William Mundell and C. M. Smith.
In view of the fact that there were no criminal cases on the docket, there was a very slim attendance of spectators.
In his charge to the grand jury, Justice Orde expressed his personal pleasure over his presiding for the first time at a session of the supreme court in Kingston since his appointment to the bench.
"This is not my first visit to Kingston, however," added his lordship. "I have visited Kingston on many occasions, and it is a pleasure to come, and I trust that I may come frequently in the future. You are fortunate on this occasion, in not having any criminal cases to try. The cessation of crime is largely due to the fact that the county general sessions of the peace have more jurisdiction in trying many cases, which in former years had to come before the supreme court. Only the more serious charges, that of murder and manslaughter, come before the supreme court now, the lesser crimes, including theft, coming before the county judges.

"At the same time it is a matter of congratulation that you have not at the present time to deal with one of the more serious crimes."
His lordship added that between September of last year and June of this year he had presided at seven murder trials. This was somewhat of a unique experience in the first year for a judge on the bench. The only duty before the jury was that of making an inspection of the public institutions. His lordship felt that this was a matter that the jury should go into very carefully, as representatives of the people. The jury should investigate and see that the requirements of the law were carried out.
John A. Kennedy is forman of the grand jury.
The first case taken up was that in the matter of the estate of William E. Grass, deceased, and in the matter of the Trustee Act. The motion of the sole executor was for an order directing him to divide the residue of the estate irrespective of the share of Charles E. Grass, whose whereabouts are unknown, or for an alternative order declaring the said Charles E. Grass to be dead, as he has not been heard from for seven years.
Mr. Walkem, K.C., appeared for the executor in person and J. L. Whiting for an infant involved.
The late Mr. Grass lived at Le-moine's Point. He died in the year 1919, and the son, Charles Grass, has been missing since 1909. Mr. Walkem has made a search through newspapers and otherwise all over the world, in an endeavor to locate Charles Grass, but with no success.
Justice Orde found that the executor had done his utmost to find the missing man, and as the latter had not turned up to claim his share within the time usually allowed for proving claim, that the executor is

Barr-Gendron Wedding.
The home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gendron, Arden, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Sept. 21st, when their second daughter, Annie Florence, was united in matrimony to Robert Melville Barr, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Barr, Mountain Grove. Rev. Mr. Poston officiating. The drawing room was tastefully decorated for the occasion with chrysanthemums, asters and ferns. The bride, who entered the drawing room on the arm of her father, looked charming in shell pink satin and georgette embroidered in pearls. Her veil of fine net and lace was caught with pearls and orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and orchids. Miss Lillian Barr, sister of the groom, who acted as bridesmaid, was gowned in white crepe de chine embroidered in blue beads and wore a large white mohair hat and carried a bouquet of mauve asters. Stewart Gendron, Smith's Falls, brother of the bride, acted as groomsman. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful necklace of pearls and diamonds, to the bridesmaid a pearl brooch and to the groomsman gold cuff links. After the ceremony a dainty wedding breakfast was served after which the happy couple left on the noon train for British Columbia and other western points, the bride travelling in a navy tricotine suit and feathered hat. The number of beautiful and costly gifts which the bride received shows the high esteem in which she was held by her many friends. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Barr will reside in Kingston where he will resume his work as C.P.R. brakeman.
