When a Wise Shipper Charters a Ship, He Looks Up Lloyds Register

He vants to know more than actual tonnage. The condition of the ship, her record, the reputation of her owner and skipper are all factors in his choice of a carrier.

His mental attitude is the same as that of the Scientific Space Selector who wants to know more about publications than a mere statement of "Net Paid Circulation."

The wise Space-Buyer keeps his copy of "Scientific Space Selection" handy and digs deep into the facts set forth in A.B.C. reports so that he can obtain authentic data on where the publication goes, and to whom it goes.

He also wants to know about the influence, stability and character of the publication in which he is going to buy white space.

All these facts can be obtained from A.B.C. reports. You'll find a carefully audited statement about circulation on the first page and, if you read pages two, three and four, you'll be able to visualize the character of the publication and to answer the question, "Will this medium help to sell my goods?" The capacity for taking infinite pains becomes, every year, more applicable to Space Buying. I :aggerated claims, misleading figures, general statements are looked upon with critical eyes. Dec ctive reasoning dominates space selection, as it does every other business proposition.

That is why A. B.C. reports represent the back bone of space buying. They are correct, informative, and clearly set forth

-but to reap the full benefit of A.B.C. reports they must be studied for more than the mere statement of "Net Paid Circulation."

Be sure to get your copy of "Scientific Space Selection," the new A. B. C. book. A guide to every advertiser, space-buyer and publisher who is interested in the sale or purchase of white space. Price, two dollars and a half.
