QUEEN'S INTERMEDIATES ALSO SHOWING UP WELL

Keep the Seniors Moving in Practices—Fine Prospects for the Second Squad.

In the excitement attendant upon the activities of the senior rugby team, and particularly a winning senior team, the intermediates have so far received scant thought from the rugby enthusiasts at Queen's. The Athletic Director, however, has been paying just as much attention to them as possible and they are rapidly shaping into a unit which will be a big factor in the intermediate C.I.R.F.U. this season.

Manager Roy Blacklock has returned to college and is looking after all the wants of the boys, doing a little coaching, but leaving the biggest part of that end of the work to Professor Bruce who has kindly taken a great interest in the second squad again this year. Last year's intermediates put Queen's on the rugby map and almost got away with a championship, losing it by a very narrow margin. At the end of the season it is questionable if Queen's seniors would have been able to withstand them.

The same high record will be maintained this year and there is nothing to keep the intermediate rugby championship from Queen's University. On Tuesday afternoon the first and second teams practised together as usual, and the second squad made an even better showing than usual. Their work was featured by the tackling of Abernethy, Jerow and Heisman, and the speedy back division work of Ryan, Nickle and others. "Eddie" Ryan is a player of first team calibre but may be retained to strengthen the second squad, as the first team back division is well filled up. Heisman and Jerow are well-known to the rugbyists as speedy wings, and Nickle formed part of last year's second back division.

For quarter the seconds can depend on Graham, who played that position last year, or on "Eddie" Dolan, third team quarter of last season. Both these men have proved that they have the ability to handle the position. McKay, Minnes, Whitton, Shaeffer, and many other stalwarts are in good form for line positions, along with several now carried as substitutes on the first squad. All the players, of course, are still aspiring for senior honors, and, if they show the ability their chances are as good as they were at the beginning of the year. The first team will soon be apparent, however, and then the real body of the second team will be working together, and it will be a crack second team.

LITTLE BITS

"Bill" Muirhead got a nasty crack in the practise of the tri-color on Tuesday, but being pretty tough was soon on his feet again, with a few remarks to make to the world in general about the occurrence.

Interest in the world's baseball series, locally at any rate, is very weak this year. Perhaps the exposure, or attempted exposure of the "Black Sox" can account for some of it, or perhaps the fact that both competing teams are representing the same city.

One day's gate receipts at the world's series games would make a nice little donation to start off a fund for the unemployed.

Yuh betcha, Foxy Grandpa is a wise bird, wise enough to know that when people start ridiculing him he has them worried.

We might also add that Foxy Grandpa is not that dashing young man who received a tie from the local undertakers last Christmas. No, he is well up in years, though still unmarried, praise be.

And one of the Montreal papers says that Varsity was playing with a very weakened team. Of course it was not because Queen's was playing with a strong one.

Funny thing, too, about one of the papers that contained an account of the Queen's-Varsity game last Saturday. The issue in which the account appeared was all bought out before it was run off—sure, advance orders and everything—several hundred more had to be printed in a hurry—police reserves out to keep the crowds back and all that sort of thing—all because of the fame of its sporting writers. Gee, ain't it a grand and glorious feeling to be such a famous journalist as that?

Even though the world's series is drawing to a close, Arthur's famous cup has not yet an owner.

One lady remarked to another on a Kingston street car the other day that "she wasn't sure, but she thought that "Babe" Ruth was the youthful wonder who invented the toddle top."

Recipe for becoming a famous Kingstonian; walk down Princess street with a member of Queen's senior rugby team. If possible get him to call you by your first name in a public place.

How Varsity Feels.
The Toronto players report that Queen's University fielded a strong team that played like wildfire from beginning to end, but they are loath to admit that the Tricolor is stronger than the Blue and White. They are looking forward with confidence to the return game in Toronto, when they hope to even accounts with the Limestone city team, and they are also hoping that Queen's will stop McGill in the final game of the series at Kingston. However, that is a long way to look ahead and the locals are not forgetting that they have the battle of the season on their hands at Montreal next Saturday. George Duncan will be back at flying wing, and it is likely that "Red" Murray will replace Harry Hobbs at quarterback. Murray played well in that position last year, and it is thought that he deserves another chance.

FUNNY THINGS!

ABOUT THE BAMBINO

Toronto Mail and Empire.
"Babe" Ruth is a strange fellow. He is a man of contraries. A man, we add, of complex and contraries, a man who is apt to do the thing you don't expect him to do. A man who is a great man to have around when the psychological moment arrives as it arrived in the affairs of the Yankees in the fourth inning of Monday's game, when his unexpected bunt caught the Giants flat-footed, and started the Yankees on their 3 to 1 victory.

But, as we have said, Ruth is a man of contraries.

He struck out three times Monday, apparently dazed by the slashing cross-fire of the Giants' left-handed star.

He has struck out eight times in five games of the series, which is a record number of strike-out for five games.

Billy Sullivan, the great backstop of the "Hitless Wonders," the Chicago White Sox, fanned eight times in the 1906 series of six games. The breezy little Josh Devore fanned eight times in the 1911 series of six games between the Giants and the Athletics.

Ruth has established his mark in five games. Ruth always goes the other fellow a bit better.

One out-of-town paper has some interesting names in its account of Saturday's rugby match. Many of the spectators will be sorry that they failed to notice the performance of these stars. "Vallees," was one for Varsity; "Clarke," another for Queen's. According to reports both turned in wonderful playing.

"Jerry" Jerow is back on the rugby field again with that same deadly tackle for which he was known last year.

In the first two hours after last Saturday's game "Billy" Hughes had but two expressions in his vocabulary; "Gee, whizz!" and "Say—"
