

NEWS AND VIEWS FOR WOMEN READERS

Life's Social Side

On Friday evening the reception and initiation of the freshettes, so long looked forward to with mingled feelings by ninety girls, took place in Grant Hall. Mrs. W. E. MacNeill, Organ of Women, and Miss Flossie Gray, president of the Levana Society, received the guests, who included many of the wives of the staff. An orchestra of Queen's girls, in costume, played delightfully, and the stunts that the freshettes were called upon to perform were fearful and wonderful indeed. A take-off on the rugby game, "the movie camera," the girls with pig tails, eight in number, tied with green ribbon, the green cake decorated with pickles, were a few of the features of this original performance. Then the lights were lowered, the new girls knelt in a line encircling the hall with the seniors standing behind them, the "Levana Bear," whose home was once in the Polar seas, was brought forth and Miss Dorothy Brown, a graduate of 1921, standing by a table holding candles that shed a dim light on the impressive scene, administered the oath of allegiance to the College and Levana, for which the big white bear stood, and the kneeling girls swore to keep it faithfully. Their seniors put their gowns on their shoulders, crowned them with their mortar boards, and they were admitted as undergraduates of Queen's. Songs, yells, etc., gave an added college flavor, and refreshments and a dance between the girls brought the merry evening to a close. Mrs. Harold Davis, King street, entertained at bridge on Friday afternoon, when five tables were in play. At the tea hour Mrs. H. C. Nickle and Mrs. H. E. Richards presided over the dainty tea table centered with fragrant blossoms. HOW TO MAKE MONEY.

Few women are averse to making pin money. It doesn't matter whether they need it or not. There is special pleasure in spending money one has made through one's own initiative and resources. Each day there will appear on this page one of a series of suggestions on making money. Each article will give women readers of The Whig an idea that may be turned into a moneymaker.

No. 8—The Corset Hospital.

A Chicago woman who was employed for some time as a corset demonstrator by a well known firm, has opened up a unique shop known as the "Corset Hospital." The advertisement exploiting this new concern, states: "We copy, clean, repair or alter corsets of any make. Moderate prices. Mail your corset for estimate."

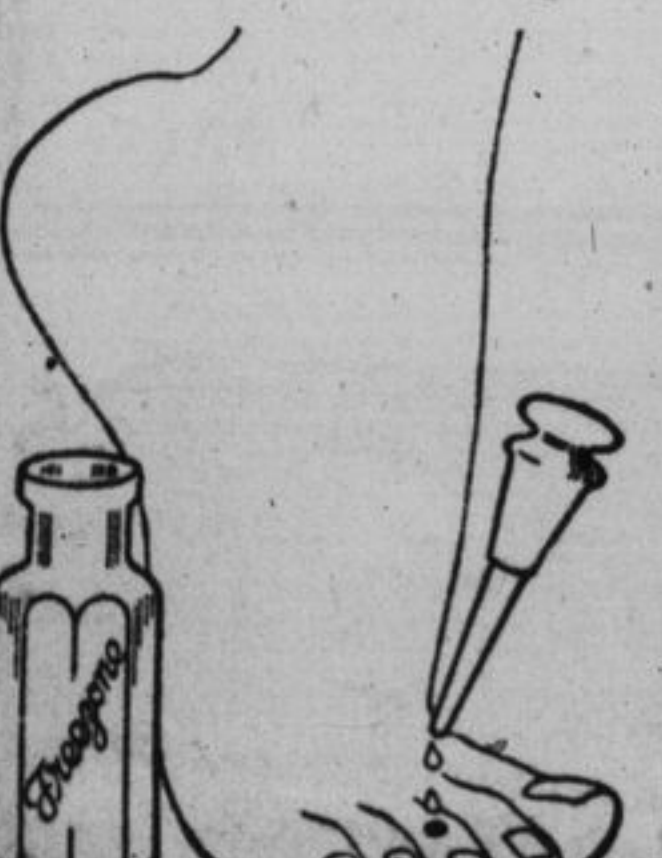

As may be judged from the foregoing, a large part of the business of the "Corset Hospital" is done by mail. An expert seamstress is employed to mass upon all corsets which are sent in for duplication, repairs, cleaning, etc. His several assistants carry out directions for such alterations as may be necessary, or, in case a new corset is required, an order is placed with the manufacturer. Many women who have found a corset which "just fits" them have the experience of going to the shop for a duplicate and being told, "we are not carrying that model now. We can give you the lower model, number so-and-so," etc. The newer model does not, of course, answer requirements, and if the earlier one has to be ordered from the manufacturer, there are usually delays and ten chances to one when it arrives it is the wrong size or it is made on slightly different lines from the original. Then, too, if a good price is paid for the corset, it is annoying to find that there is no provision for such alterations or, later on, such slight repairs as may be necessary. It will, therefore, be seen that the woman who thought of a Singer's Wonderful Experience. Miss Bertha Crawford, the Canadian prima donna, who will first be heard in Canada at the opening concert of the Queen's series, has had an experience that reads like a story. Soloist in the Metropolitan church, Toronto; going to England in 1915, studying in London with Madam Novsky, singing in Albert Hall; crossing to Milan, Italy, to study the music of the great operas, where the lovely quality of her voice at once attracted the attention of the Italian managers; making her debut in Venice as Glida in "Rigoletto" with pronounced success, were "the first steps on the ladder of fame for this Toronto girl, who during the war, sang in Petrograd and Moscow, going back to Poland after the armistice where she delighted the music loving Poles until she returned to Canada recently. In Kingston she will be assisted by Adaski, a violinist, a member of the Toronto string quartette from the Academy of Music, von Kuentz's pupil; and Douglas Stanbury, who has a baritone voice worthy to be heard with the prima donna. Dr. Harvey Robb will be the accompanist.

Story of Greater Love. A story of "greater love" was told at a meeting this week of the management of the Home for Friendless Women, Ottawa. One of those living in the home became seriously ill and was sent to a local hospital. The only hope for her recovery was by transfusion of blood. Every one of the 35 women living in the home volunteered and the first transfusion was made yesterday.

A Salvation Lassie

Major Mary Booth, the second daughter of General Brauwell Booth and a granddaughter of the founder of the Salvation Army is now in Toronto and is described as a dainty little dark haired, dark eyed girl, the last person you would expect to bear such a high-sounding title. Miss Booth is the Divisional Commander of the southern division of the Salvation Army in England, and has been an officer for twelve years, ever since she was old enough to leave home. She served for four years in France as second in command of the Salvation Army, which was one of the greatest sources of comfort to the men who were fighting for the empire. I don't care to talk much about it, said Miss Booth. It was all very harrowing and there is much that I hope I will forget. Speaking of the work of the Salvation Army at the front, she said they had not as many centres as some other organizations, but on the whole the result was satisfactory, a statement that every returned man will bear her out in.

Washing Vegetables

Children should be drilled in the practice of washing fruits and vegetables before eating. All market products need washing to remove dirt and dust, bacteria and sometimes particles of spray residue. The best of fruits and usually the best-looking fruits are those from trees which have been properly sprayed while the fruit was in its early stages, and sometimes the spray may not have weathered off the fruit before harvest.

Care for Children of Canada. In an inspiring address in Toronto, Rev. Peter Bryce, who brought a report of the International Child Welfare Conferences held last July in London, Eng. and Brussels, Belgium, said: "The lowest infant mortality in the world is in New Zealand, where it is 40.6 per thousand. England reports 80 in every thousand and in 1921; Ontario 103.59; Quebec 142.48. The improvement in England is due to the increase of child welfare clinics and the care taken to give the little ones pure milk. If the truth were known," said Mr. Bryce quoting Dr. Hastings, "15,000 of the 30,000 children who die in Canada annually might justly have the epitaph placed on their graves, 'Poisoned by impure milk.'"

The Women's Municipal League of Boston is to open a school for the purpose of training women to fill municipal and state positions. The school will aim to fit women to take a high place in the civil service eligible lists and to enter upon their work well equipped for service.

WOMAN'S PART IN THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS. "Men may forget what the horror of war means, but women will never forget. That is why we are prepared to support anything which has for its object the prevention of wars, and we firmly believe that a society of nations, impartial and sincere, will accomplish this purpose," said Mrs. Jules Pusch, who has come from France for the MGH reunion, speaking before the Women's Canadian Club in Montreal this week. The speaker concluded with the suggestion that a federation of societies endorsing the League of Nations should be formed in Canada.

To-morrow's HOROSCOPE By Genevieve Kemble. SUNDAY AND MONDAY, OCT. 16-17. Sunday's horoscope puts the emphasis on the spiritual activities, since the very high vibrations of the practical planet, Neptune, rule the day. It is a propitious time for all psychological research and study, with occult experiences. Those whose birthday it is may have an interesting year in higher lines, but they should be careful not to offend superiors or employers. A child born on this day may be peculiarly gifted with mediumistic or occult powers. Monday's astrological map forecasts some sudden change, which may prove to be radical and far-reaching in its final results. Although the visitation may be abrupt and wholly unplanned and unforeseen, it holds fair to be ultimately satisfactory and successful. On the whole, it is a prosperous outlook, but quarrels and litigation should be avoided. Those whose birthday it is may have an important and unexpected change, which may be expected to result in great advantage. Litigation and quarrels should be avoided. A child born on this day may be fond of change, and perhaps headstrong and stubborn. This is a propitious day to use a Whig Classified ad.
