MABEL BALLIN

"Greater Than Love"—Mabel Ballin—"Lovetime"—Constance Talmadge—"The Greater Profit"

THE outstanding feature of "Greater Than Love" is its message. The Faith of the Mother in the play transcends all loves—the love of self, the love of drama and the love of love.

Louise Glaum appears as the unregenerate, the unbeliever whose heedlessness and selfishness disappear before a great love which, in turn, gives way to the "Greater Than Love" element personified by frail Miss Gertrude Claire the mother and which is shown to be Faith.

"The Journey's End"

"The Journey's End" tells the story of a young girl delicately nurtured and bred who leaves a convent in Rome, where she has been educated, to make her home with an uncle in America. Through force of circumstance she is forced into a marriage with a man infinitely her inferior. Then, when finally she meets a man who is in every sense of the word her mate, conditions become intolerable and she leaves her husband. How Fate intervenes to straighten out the tangle makes one of the most gripping, forceful stories ever flashed upon the silver-sheet.

"Lovetime"

The romance of "Lovetime" begins when an artist of noble birth, wandering into a village of Savoy under an assumed name, paints the portrait of a little peasant maid whose beauty has attracted him. The scene shifts to Paris, whither she goes to escape the attentions of an aged Don Juan and where she earns a living by her ability as a singer and dancer. The young artist follows her, and so does the aged Don Juan—his uncle. The latter enlists the co-operation of the artist's aristocratic mother to prevent a union of the loving pair, and difficulties thereupon are erected. But all comes right in the end, of course.

"Up The Road With Sallie"

The story concerns a number of irresponsible young relatives who, at a given time have to account for the several ways in which they have employed five thousand dollars. The one who has put his initial bequest to best use will receive the bulk of a large estate. How Sallie, her initial five thousand dollars in hand, kidnaps her own aunt, bumps into a house infested by burglars, is herself mistaken for a crook, is quarantined for smallpox, and finally falls prey to the very game which she herself is playing, make a fast moving screen story in which count as laughs are punctuated with a few sighs and many tense moments.

JIMMY AUBREY IN "THE RIOT"

"The Riot," undertakes to play the part of a Sir Gallahad—a rescuer of forlorn dames. His sweetheart and her tearful mother are about to be ejected from their humble home because they cannot meet the rent bill. Jimmy is penniless but his soul is afire with intentions. The landlord shall not pass the doorill of his beloved's domicile! But unfortunately for the landlord is a veritable Goliath while Jimmy is not cast of an heroic mould. His most ferocious weapon is a twitching moustache. Jimmy, however, meets the issue and proves a modern David. He not only saves the girl but receives a reward in good old coin of the realm which is a fitting ending to a story of modern days when "Cush" is king.

"The Greater Profit" is highly dramatic, revolving about a young girl of high ideals and her experiences in the underworld where she is compelled by circumstances to live among criminals and other undesirables. Fate, however, brings about her regeneration and there is a delightful touch of romance to lighten the stronger moments in which the production abounds. Rod La Rocque Among the most popular of the younger players is Rod La Rocque. His latest appearances are in "Life" and "Greater Than Love."

USEFUL AND ORNAMENTAL.

This The Ambition of The Present Day Girl.

Baltimore, Oct. 26.—Judging a girl's fitness for business by the length of her hair as an employment standard has little more to recommend it than the selection of a man because he wears a bow tie or a four-in-hand, in the opinion of Dr. William W. Guth, president of Goucher College, of Baltimore. While a little vanity is good for any woman, "bobbed brains" are a more vital subject than bobbed hair, according to President Guth.

"It is difficult to see why this harmless feminine whim has aroused such widespread discussion," Dr. Guth added, "unless, perhaps, it is true that we delight in making mountains out of molehills. For, all the evidence visible from a college office point to the fact that the young girl of today is aiming toward a standard not to be compared with uniform coiffures—the standard of real usefulness in the home, in the community and in the world of business.

"So much has been said about the vanities and frivolities of the modern girl that it is only fair to point out that the average girl of today is far better equipped mentally than the girl of a generation ago. The girl of today wants to be useful as well as ornamental."

The pulpit was occupied by the pastor, Rev. George W. Dustin, S.T.L., who preached from Mark 1: 21. The singing was of a high order. In the morning the choir sang "Praise Ye the Lord," and a duet was sung by A. Doggett and Mrs. (Rev.) Doggett, "Near to Jesus." In the evening the choir rendered an anthem, "My Times Are in the Hands," and Mrs. (Rev.) A. S. Doggett sang a solo, "This is My Task."
