Auto Hit Buggy.
Several people had close calls for their lives on Tuesday night, in an accident, which occurred near the railway crossing at Catarqui. It appears that a Kingston man was on his way into the city in his auto, with three or four passengers. As he came to the railway crossing a train was approaching, and the driver, it is alleged, put on extra speed to clear the crossing and on clearing the tracks ran into a rig which was coming from the city. The rig suffered considerable damage, but none of the occupants were injured but it is stated that it is a miracle how they escaped.

CHARGED WITH SHOOTING

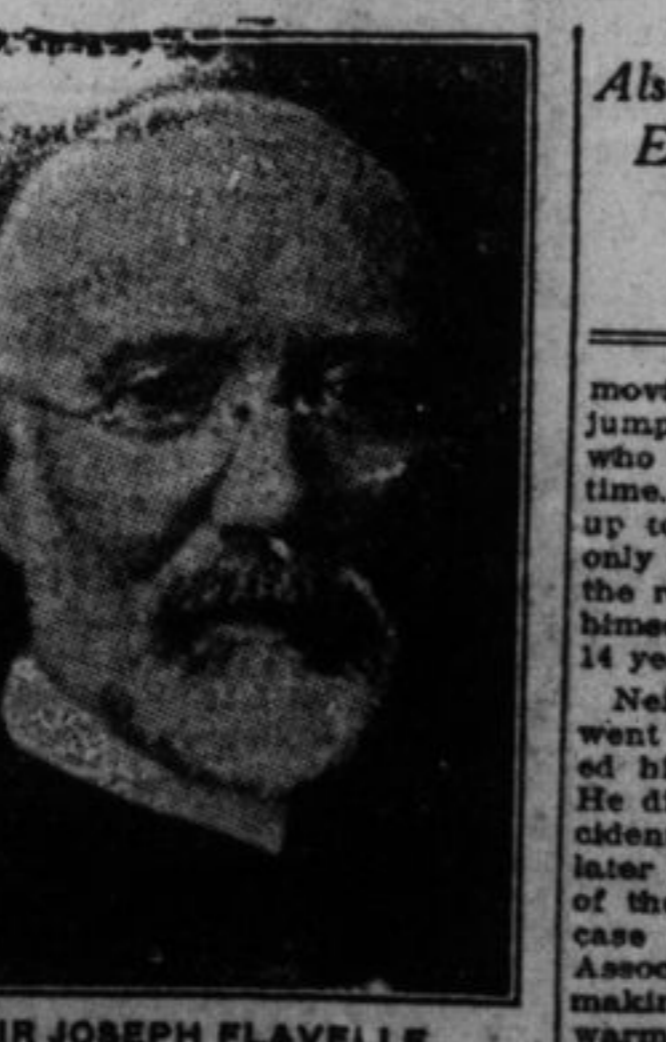

Man Wanted for Forgery Held in Ogdensburg.

Thomas Turner, wanted at Brockville and in Prescott for forgery and theft, is in jail in Ogdensburg, N.Y., on a charge of shooting a taxicab driver whose car it is alleged he intended to steal to engage in a bootlegging enterprise. The victim will recover.

Turner, posing as a wireless operator, from a vessel in the port of Montreal, and wearing a naval uniform, arrived at Brockville in the summer and disappeared after attempting to pass a worthless cheque. At Prescott early in October he entered a house and stole jewellery, also a horse and buggy, and passed a forged cheque for $100. The horse and buggy were located in Kingston, whence he entered the United States. It is charged Turner shot the taxicab driver three times from the rear seat of the car and was dragging him to the roadside for dead when the victim suddenly overpowered Turner and seized the revolver. Turner was later arrested in a vacant cottage.

James ("Jimmy") Barret, famous Detroit American League outfielder prior to 1905, and more recently engaged in the real estate business, dropped dead in his office at Detroit Tuesday. Apoplexy is believed to have caused his death.

SIR JOSEPH FLAVELLE HONORS HEROIC RAILROAD CONDUCTOR

SIR JOSEPH FLAVELLE

Sir Joseph Flavelle, chairman of the board of directors of the Grand Trunk Railway System, in the presence of the principal officers of the road, honored at Montreal, Charles Albert Neill, heroic freight train conductor, presenting him with the medal of the Royal Canadian Humane Association for saving life. The act of bravery for which Neill received recognition was performed at Hawkesbury, Ont., last March. Neill, who was on duty on a Grand Trunk train, saw one boy in the water of the Ottawa River and another boy on the ice. Neill jumped off the moving train, crossed the sea, and jumped in after the boy in the water, who had gone down for the second time. The boy and his rescuer came up together under the ice and it was only with the greatest difficulty that the railway men were able to extricate himself and the lad, Noel Burtheime, 14 years old, of Hawkesbury.

Neill took the boy to a nearby house, went to his own boarding place, changed his clothes and returned to duty. He did not say anything about the incident and it was not until three days later that the railway officials learned of the plucky rescue and reported the case to the Royal Canadian Humane Association. Sir Joseph Flavelle, in making the presentation of the medal, warmly commended Neill.

Sir Joseph also presented to Grand Trunk Team No. 1, from the Montreal shops of the company, the Chamberlain Trophy for excellence in First Aid (Ambulance) work and paid a high tribute to the railway and its officers and employees.

"I was simply amazed during my tour of the Grand Trunk System, with President Howard Kelley and other officials, at the splendid manner in which the road was conducted and the general spirit of Grand Trunk family loyalty," he said. "I found this everywhere. I cannot say too much regarding the splendid manner in which the physical condition of the road has been maintained and the general manner in which the employees were evidently trying to preserve at all times good public service. In this I am speaking as a man who has been associated with large industrial enterprises from his youth up, and who knows what real efficiency and service mean.

"Both on the United States and Canadian sections of the road," concluded Sir Joseph, "the loyalty of the employees to each other and the spirit existing between the officials and the rank and file was a conspicuous feature, and I speak of it with great
