De Courville Revue "Hullo Canada" That the life of a "King of Revue" is not entirely filled with joy is attested to by Mr. Albert de Courville, who is bringing his entire London company in "Hullo, Canada" to the Grand Opera House on Saturday, November 12th, matinee and night.

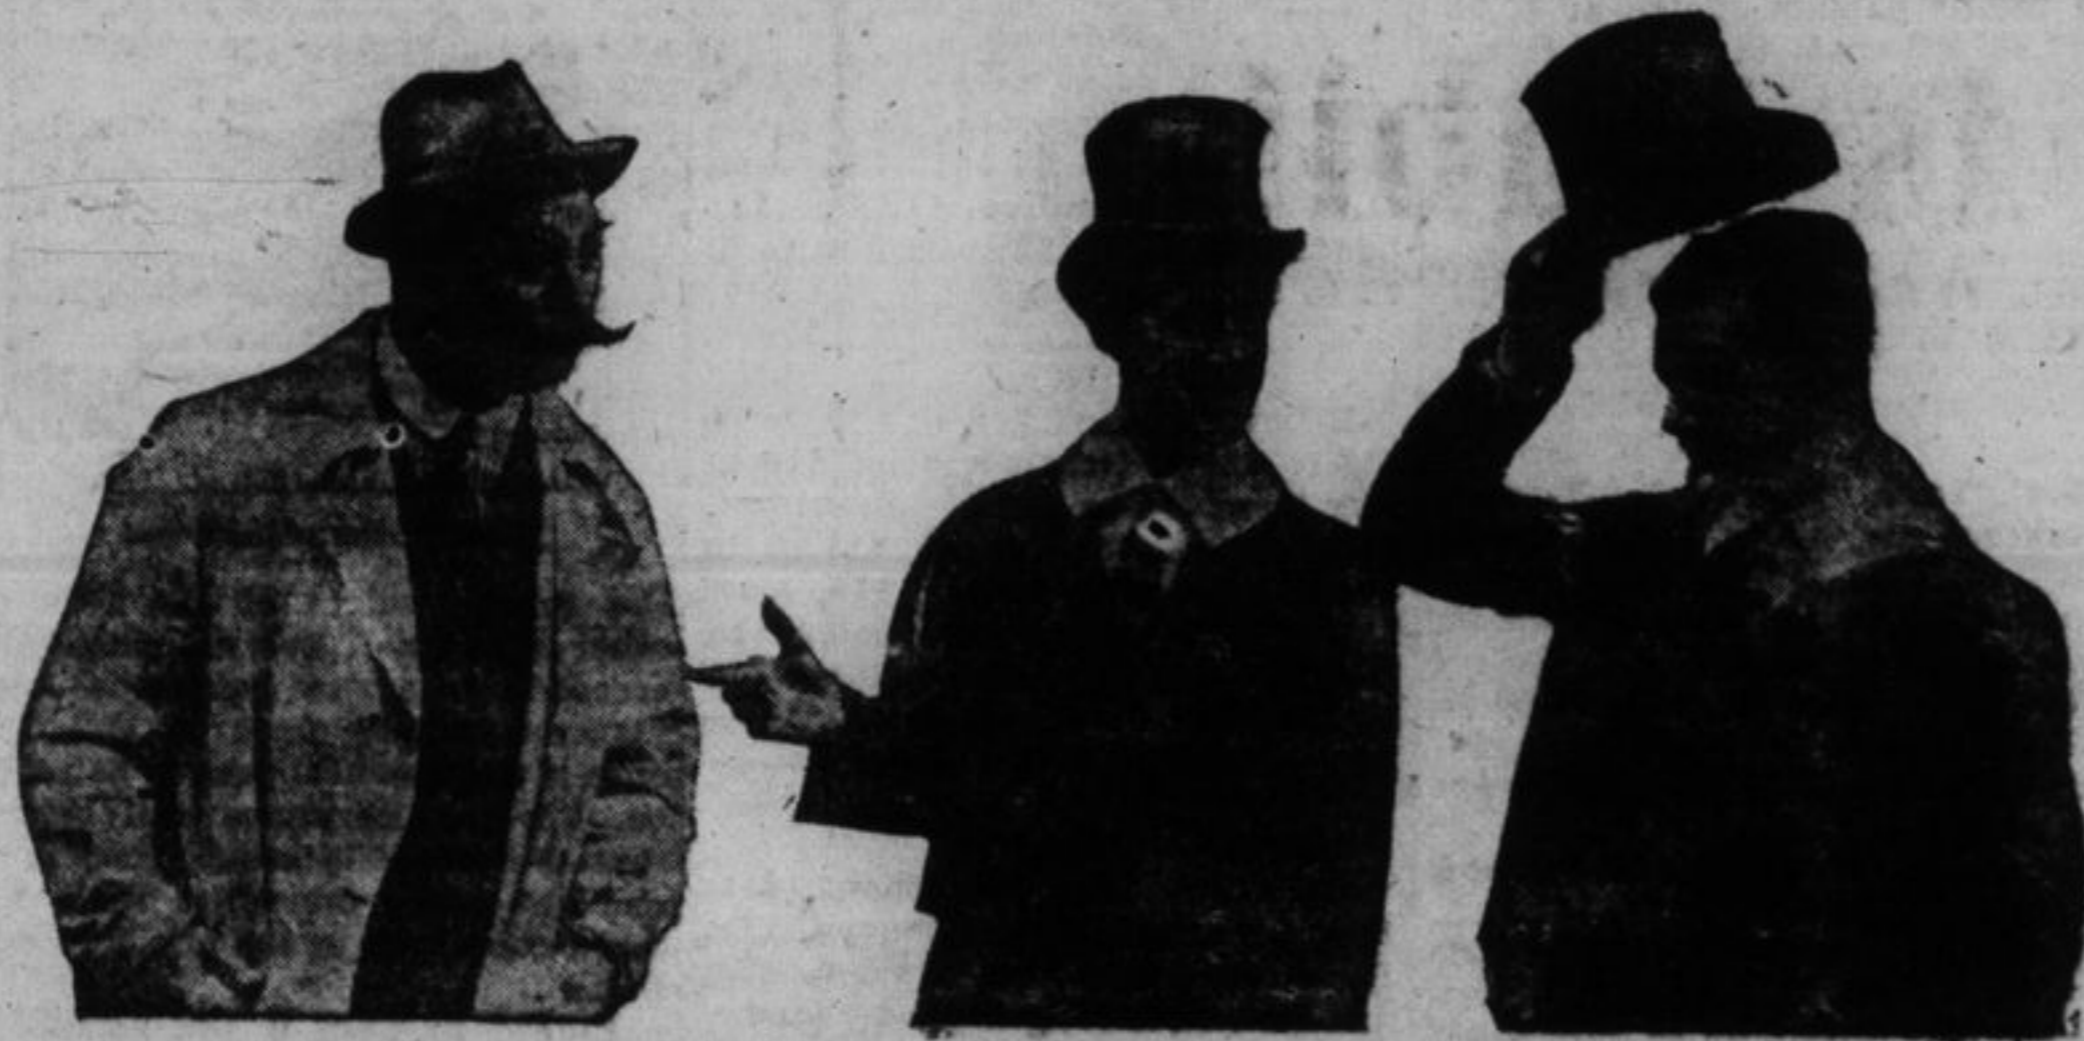

Six months before sailing for Canada, Mr. de Courville started on a quiet search for the thirty most beautiful girls in the British Isles. A month later he was not so quiet about it and was running want ads in the papers all over the country. It seemed that the captions de Courville eye for beauty could not be satisfied.

Finally the entire Gaiety Theatre Press Department was set to work to ferret out girls with the required amount of pelfritude. A storm was raised in the press by those who claimed that Mr. de Courville's statement that he could not secure thirty girls in Britain with beauty and talent enough to work in the chorus was an insult to English womanhood.

Mr. de Courville said nothing, but still kept up his campaign, and it was not until his boat was on the eve of sailing for Canada that he issued the following statement: "Now that I'm on my way with the entire company filled, I'll frankly admit that during the past few weeks I've seen more beautiful girls with talent than I thought existed in the whole world, let alone England, but I think you'll agree that my reason for getting in touch with so many is a good one."

"In Canada, I am told, the young men have a habit of getting what they are after. Some of these chaps are bound to fall in love with some of my girls and, if they do, what chance have I or anyone else to stop the wedding bells from chiming. If the young lady is willing. Therefore, I have fortified myself with a list of far in excess of the number needed for my revue. I am bringing fifteen extra girls with me and have reservations on every boat coming over the balance of the season, so I can fill my vacancies at a fortnight's notice."

"Of course, I am not saying that any of the girls would leave the company before the end of the season, but 'Safety First'."—Adv.

One of the most striking pictures of the season is coming to the Allen theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday when "A Man's Home" is presented. This picture is so charged with powerful, dramatic strokes, carries such an abundance of humanities, and intrigues the imagination through its clash of dramatic events that the spectator forgets time and environment and becomes associated with the characters of the story. It is a cross section of the ordinary man's home—reveals the husband and father who has succeeded in the world of affairs. He is not exactly neglectful in his attitude, though he is engrossed with business. But his wife feels the social urge. She must find pleasure no matter where it may be located. This conflict precipitates a line of dramatic action which holds the spectator in a tight embrace. The characters, the dialogue—the atmosphere—all are human. The walls are penetrated. The door is opened and the spectator becomes an attentive observer and listener.—Adv.

Coughs, Colds, Grippe, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Asthma, Etc.

MATHIEU'S SYRUP is a sovereign tonic combining the curative properties of TAR and the strengthening virtues of COD LIVER OIL. Colds, when neglected or badly treated give rise to consequences of such a grave character that you should not risk using inferior preparations. MATHIEU'S SYRUP is the only genuine remedy whose reputation has caused to crop up many imitations of doubtful value.
