INDUSTRIAL WEEKLY KINGSTON REVIEW

ARROWROOT BISCUITS GOOD FOR THE KIDDIES

WHERE WILL YOU KEEP YOUR CAR THIS WINTER?

OWN YOUR HOME TO BE TRULY HAPPY

Have you ever seen a youngster sitting in a carriage out side some store on Princess Street, or on some veranda in the residential part of the city, contentedly chewing on a biscuit? Doubtless you have, and in that case you will have noticed that he keeps quiet and behaves himself like a little gentleman (or perhaps it may be a little lady).
If you enquire from the mother or nurse-girl she will tell you that the baby is enjoying an arrowroot biscuit. The soft, mild flavor of these biscuits attracts the youngsters and makes them rooters for arrowroot for evermore and the nourishing ingredients used in the manufacture produce thriving children. That is the secret of the success of arrowroot.
The W. J. Crothers Company, Kingston's old and established biscuit and confectionery manufacturer, are the makers of good arrowroot biscuits. Besides, they handle all sorts of fancy biscuits, candies, and confections. A trial will convince you that they are good. Your grocer will have them on hand, or, if he has not, the office staff at the factory will gladly take your order.

It may seem early yet, it is really the first week in November, two months from Christmas, but the time is not far off when you will be putting away your car. Then, just when everything is in a rush around the holiday season, you may find out that there is no storage room in the local garages for it. Some wise birds may have reserved their storage space ahead of time, and when you come along late the garage man will express his regrets and send you away again.
The Blue Garages' large, dry, fire-proof building, but recently erected, could not be bettered for storing cars.
Then, there is another thought. The rainy, muddy weather of autumn soon makes the car dirty, and a car left dirty soon loses all traces of good appearance and resembles a mud heap more than anything. The Blue Garages are also specialists in washing cars. To the uninitiated nothing seems simpler than to secure a satisfactory job of car washing, but the experienced auto owner knows that there are a variety of degrees to it.

Not until a man possesses his own home does he realize the satisfaction there is in it. No rent to pay, no fussy landlord or landlady complaining about repairs to be made or raising rents, bother him. He is not in danger of being turned out into the street on short notice. Legal formalities every year to worry him are abolished. The baby can eat the wall-paper, the boy can model the attic into a work-shop, the owner himself can make alterations, when and where he pleases.
Added to all that the house is an asset in time of need. If he ever really runs "up against it," and is in desperate straits for money, there is his home ready to say, "Take me, I'll get you out of the hole."
Then, too, home-owners are an asset to the city. Most men take a pride in what is their own, while they might be indifferent to another man's property. When a man owns a house he will make some effort to beautify it, to improve its surroundings, just through natural pride and self-respect. Thus the city is beautified.
George A. Bateman is a purveyor of homes. Many people have found happiness and contentment through his agency, now situated at 159 Wellington Street.

DRINK MILK NOW TO SAVE MONEY LATER

There are a great many people in the world who are constantly running around to doctors and to their friends, complaining of ailments. They don't feel well at all; have pains in the back; terrible headaches; nerves are on the bumper; cannot sleep; do not feel like working. You know the kind. There is always something the matter with them. There is a tonic which would soon put such individuals on their feet, and it is milk.
Then there are also many people who really do suffer from ill health. Their work is such that it deprives them of a chance for exercise, puts an unnecessary strain on their constitutions, and leaves them generally run down. Drug tonics do not seem to help them out any. A pint of milk a day would make different people of them.
Take also the manual laborer, the mechanic, the man who uses his muscles to earn his daily bread. He needs fuel of the highest order to keep those muscles running at high speed and smoothly. Milk is the best and cheapest food that such men can buy.
School children, growing all the time, must be carefully nurtured. Their little bodies are going all the time and besides the energy needed for the daily work, also must have a reserve force to build up the muscles, bones and tissues that are developing, even while they sleep. Milk once again comes in as the big helper.
Milk is good for every person from the healthiest down to the weakest it is of inestimable value. The best kind to use is milk that is pasteurized and made safe for the consumers. Price's Dairy, 277 Princess Street, pasteurizes all its milk by the most modern processes.
The secret of success will always be found in the man, and not in the stuff he works on.

The Problem Solved.

Five years ago John Wright and wife
Designed and built a home,
And there took up the country life
Beneath its gabled dome.
A butler, cook and parlormaid
Composed the personnel
Of their house maintenance brigade,
Which functioned very well.
But times have changed, and just last week
Strikits hit the band;
The maid forgot her manner meek,
And filed a raise demand,
The cook blew out the kitchen fire
And left the bread uncut;
The butler evesdropped with ire
And simply wouldn't but.
They called 'em back and raised their pay,
Did John and Mrs. Wright;
But out they went the second day,
And stayed until that night,
Once more they struck, and in a rage
The Wrights arose to shout:
"Go forth and seek your princely wage;
You've struck three times; you're out."
The Wrights installed electric aid,
And swept and washed with wats.
Who scorches skirts in spots,
They missed the butler not a bit,
But mocked his formal cough,
And now their servants never quit
Until the switch is off.

Your lungs must keep absorbing new air to keep you alive; so must your brain keep absorbing new ideas to insure its healthy development.
Success does not build up a life as full success is never achieved in this world. Noble endeavor is the builder.
Get moving or you may find that there are not enough tomorrows to correct the mistakes of the yesterdays.
You can tell a lot more about a man's intelligence from his questions than you can from his answers.
Temper, not trouble, makes the misery of most men's and women's lives.
When it is in your power to choose the better friends, do not choose the worse.
