At the Grand. The get-together spirit which characterizes the Rotarians everywhere was a real feature of Thursday night's performance at the Grand Opera House. "Billy's Tombs" provides a series of laughs, the spectators evidently pleased the house, and how we did enjoy the local talent. The Rotary songs were sung "haute voix" as the French say, and so much pep and vim were in evidence that in other days we would have said "Everybody was in the best of spirits." Instead of that word "spirits" we say pep or enthusiasm; "other times other manners." At any rate we were duly impressed by the amateur magician, and after seeing him being gently but firmly made up by Mr. Yule, thought that he ran the famous Rickstone a close second, at any rate as far as appearances were concerned. Miss Vaughn and the ladies were delighted with their respective gifts of flowers and candy, and before concluding we want to tell you that next week's show, "The Man From Home" was written by William Hodge and played by him for several seasons to constantly crowded houses.—Adv.

THE LATE WILLIAM FENWICK

An Aged Resident of North Fredericksburg Passes To Rest. Napane, Nov. 4.—William Fenwick, North Fredericksburg, died at his home on Oct. 31st after a stroke of paralysis which he suffered Friday evening, without regaining consciousness. He resided at his late home for twenty years, retiring from farm life at that time. He was an active worker and took great pride in his garden, which was one of the most beautiful in this locality. Mr. Fenwick always spared his garden, which consisted of one acre, following the method of the old country, as he was born in Scotland eighty-one years ago. He came to this country in early manhood to occupy a position in the paper mill at Strathcona. After a number of years, he took up farming. The deceased was a Presbyterian in religion, also a Mason and a follower of the Liberal policy. He had a very clear memory of times and happenings in the fifties. The evening he took the fatal stroke he walked all around his garden, ate a hearty dinner and recited one of Robert Burns' poems, "Why Man Was Made to Mourn." He will be greatly missed by his friends and neighbors as he was always ready to chat and joke, and give sound advice to all. He leaves a widow at home, one sister and two brothers in Scotland. The remains were laid to rest in River View cemetery at Napane.

Big Catches of Lake Trout. Considerable lake trout fishing is going on off the Cape Vincent, N.Y., shoals, some of the fishing grounds being located several miles from the village in Lake Ontario. The trip is taken in motor boats with guides from the village. The fish are readily taken with hook and line.

Backing Auto in New Picture. Tom Mix, the William Fox star, has jumped through glass windows on horseback; he has leaped from cliffs into rivers while in the saddle. Now, in his new picture, "The Road Demon," he takes another and different turn and does his jumping in an automobile.

He trades his horse for the machine on the desert. It is a used and abused car. Tom gets it going, but fails to stop it at the ranch, and it plows through fences, a barn, a corn shucker and other obstacles and finally stops in a cyclone cell.

Tom also leaps a twenty-five foot stream with the car in the big road race in the picture, which will be shown at Griffin's, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.—Adv.

THANKSGIVING SONNET.

To God, the bounteous Giver of all good,
 Let grateful praise and adoration rise!
 He send the fruitful showers from the skies,
 And gives to all His creatures life and food.

Praise Him for all His mercies that are past,
 Praise Him for all His mercies daily given,
 Praise Him who gives the light and air of heaven,
 Praise Him whose goodness shall forever last.

Let holy songs of praise to Him ascend,
 In whom we live and move and being have;
 And to the Son, who is the sinner's friend,
 Who gave His life our ruined world to save;
 And to the Holy Ghost the Comforter—
 The triune Deity for evermore.

Blood Stains on the Door Burglar Was Injured

A thorough examination of the rear door at Mahood "Bro." store which was robbed of between $5,000 and $10,000 worth of jewelry last Tuesday morning reveals some blood stains, and it is believed that one of the burglars, while using some tools in forcing an entrance cut his hand or arm.

The police are engaged on the case, but on Saturday there were no new developments to report.

"It" is the most unsatisfactory word in the English language.

and meets Milady without suspecting the villainy underlying her charm. In Paris his introduction to his future obdurate is a challenge to fight all three—then comes a sudden turn by which they are bonded together for life. His love for Constance, a lady in waiting to the Queen, leads him to the supreme adventure of the story—a mission to recover from her admirer in England, Buckingham, the evidence needed to convince Louis XIII that Anne of Austria is not involved, and to confound the insinuations of the Cardinal, her foe.

The principal struggle in the story is D'Artagnan's dash to obtain this evidence and to return in time, although nearly baffled at every turn—in France by the Cardinal and his fighting guards; in England by his influence and by the machinations of Milady. How D'Artagnan goes and returns, fighting every step, and manages to save the reputation of the Queen at the last moment, provides this exciting main thread; a more tragic one is the secret history of Athos, whose renegade wife is discovered in the adventures of Milady.

These situations but faintly cover the scope of "The Three Musketeers" whose story sweeps along with a bewildering host of angles. For Alexander Dumas gave good measure. Humor, pathos, surprises, twists, quick clashes at arms, and plot, plot, plot, pile up in the story. With Edward Knoblock, the internationally noted dramatist, adapting it to the motion picture, and Fred Niblo directing, the cream of his power has been for Douglas Fairbanks to interpret.

As for that, the critic's answer: he has actually "eat it up!"—Adv.

At the Strand. Elsie Ferguson, who is starring in "Footlights," the Paramount picture which will be shown at the Strand theatre on Thanksgiving Day brings to her role the finesse of both stage and screen experience. The part, which portrays an American, who is introduced on the New York stage as a Russian actress, challenges the best of Miss Ferguson's art. In one scene she gives an impersonation of Eddie Foy and in another she has a fencing bout. All through the picture there are the two personalities to play, the one of the puritanical New England girl, and that of the pampered Russian actress.

In making the picture, Miss Ferguson has broken a precedent. She has refused to appear in many plays and pictures, dealing with the stage, feeling that no true presentation of the profession has been given.

"Footlights" tells the story of a vaudeville entertainer who becomes the most famous actress in America. Her rise to fame, although unique in every way, is made through struggles, hardships and sacrifices. It is not the exaggerated story of an overnight career with flowers and dinner parties. To reach this height, Lizzie Parsons, had to give up her friends and part associations and lose her identity in that of a Russian.

Miss Ferguson's interpretation of this role makes "Footlights" one of the outstanding pictures of the year. Reginald Denny heads a capable supporting cast of players.—Adv.

THE LATE FR. W. E. WALSH.

Who Ministered at Various Places in Kingston Archdiocese.

Many in this vicinity will regret to hear of the death, which occurred at Ann Arbor, Mich., last Sunday of Rev. Father William E. Walsh. He was a native of Skibbereen, County Cork, Ireland, and received his primary and classical education at that place. On emigrating with his parents to Canada, he became affiliated with the archdiocese of Kingston. He made his theological studies at the Seminary at Pointe Lévis, and the Grand Seminary, Montreal. He was ordained to the priesthood at Trenton by the late Archbishop Cleary in 1882. At the same time Archbishop Spratt, Kingston, the late Archbishop McEvoy, Toronto, and the late Rev. Father Sweeney were raised to the priesthood. Following ordination, Rev. Father Walsh was appointed assistant at St. Francis Xavier's church, Brockville. In 1884, he was appointed the first rector of St. James parish, Ballynaoche. He did splendid work there and was later transferred to Frankford. From that place he went to Spencer-ville and Throoptown. He remained in that parish for some years and was unremitting in advancing the religious and temporal welfare of those confided to his spiritual care. He was promoted by Archbishop Gauthier to St. Edward's parish, Westport, and after serving there, resigned to join the Venetian order. For a number of years he was a professor in Niagara University. Last year he was appointed by his superiors chaplain at the Sister's hospital, Ann Arbor, Mich., where he died.

The funeral took place at Niagara University on Wednesday morning. A solemn mass was celebrated for the repose of his soul in St. James church, Ballynaoche, by the pastor, Rev. Father Cullinan.
