IN THE HALLS OF QUEEN'S

Student Rooters Are Ready for the McGill-Queen's Game Saturday

Queen's rooters will this week prepare for one of the biggest days in years at the game Saturday when McGill plays here. The supporters have shown throughout what some speakers have expressed the "lean years" of Queen's athletics, a splendid spirit, yelling for their teams at all games, winning or losing, for special occasions rallying with great enthusiasm. The rooters for the past two years have been under the capable leadership of "Bill" Holdcroft, who has always been on the job. It, as some of the Toronto papers have stated, the two hundred who supported the team last Saturday in Toronto could make plenty of noise, then the students backing a winning team on Saturday ought to be heard as far as the market square. Special parodies on popular songs are being asked for for the game and several new ones will likely be sprung. A notable feature of the cheering this year has been friendly rivalry which has existed between the boys from Navy Bay and the tricolor rooters. At the last game, when after R.M.C. had given Queen's a yell in a recognizable manner, the Queen's boys attempted to reciprocate with a "Beer comes emma, etc." but soon got twisted up in the words and finally gave the old familiar "college" yell. R. M. C. have said that they will be yelling for Queen's on Saturday and the students will certainly pull for the cadets' first team when they play off in the intermediate intercollegiate finals.

Queen's students have been informed through the medium of their Journal that a polling booth will be at the college in the gymnasium building for the student electors. Outside of the students who are local residents, the registration excluded all those whose homes were not in Kingston during the past year, as the "three months' residence" before October first could not be satisfied. Students who did not go to their homes during the summer and who left books and other belongings in the city, thus making Kingston their headquarters while in other places working, were allowed to register. These regulations will exclude the majority of the student body from voting but at the appeal sittings more may be included in the lists.

In the tennis schedule H. A. Jones has advanced to the finals by defeating G. Stewart. In the semifinals, A. L. McLachlan and I. MacLachlan stand matched, and the winner will meet H. A. Jones. These final games are attracting keen interest as all the players are experts in this game and some of the finalists gave a good account of themselves at Montreal in the intercollegiate tourney.

The arts society held a meeting Tuesday afternoon to install the newly elected executive. "Queen's new heating plant and power house," was the subject of address and discussion at Tuesday evening's meeting of the Kingston branch of the Canadian Institute of Engineering in Carruthers hall. Messrs. Arkley and Wilgar were the speakers.

RULES ON OSTEOPATHY

Ohio Statutes Recognize Osteopaths as Physicians.

Columbus, O., Nov. 9.—The Attorney General of Ohio has just rendered an opinion settling a long and bitter controversy in Ohio, which will have a far-reaching effect as a precedent in many other states. He rules that an osteopath is a physician without limitation as to what disease he may treat and that he may sign death certificates and all other such documents.

The opinion was requested because of the refusal of the State Registrar of Vital Statistics to accept a death certificate signed by an osteopathic physician. This decision is overruled by the opinion of the Attorney-General who says in part:

"The osteopathic physician who complies with the educational qualifications of the general code which requires of an osteopath a preliminary education as is required by law of applicants for examination to practice medicine and surgery, and which enumerates the subjects in which he is examined by the state medical board, and who passes such examination, receives a certificate from such board. Such certificate shall authorize the holder thereof to practice osteopathy and surgery in the state, but shall not permit him to prescribe or administer drugs, except anesthetics and antiseptics.

"It will be noted that there is no limitation as to the diseases an osteopath may treat. He takes the same examination in diagnosis as is taken by the physician for the practice of medicine. He is as fully equipped under the law for diagnosing of any disease, or ailment, if he meets the educational requirements outlined by the statute, as any other person can be. The present statutes relating to osteopathy refer to the practitioner thereof as a physician, the only qualification thereto being the term 'osteopathic.'

"From the above considerations no reason is apparent why the osteopathic physician is not included within the terms of Section 210 G.C. He is qualified and the tendency of the law to recognize him as a physician is apparent. You are therefore advised that an osteopathic physician who meets the educational requirements of the law, can properly sign a death certificate."
