LITTLE BITS

The Frontenac Hockey club is organizing for this winter tomorrow evening. If interested in hockey come down to the city council rooms and get in the game. If not interested, it is time that you were a follower of this great Canadian game. Come down to the meeting anyway.

Nothing but flowers, where before were bricks. The papers in Toronto have seen and believed.

"After watching University of Toronto, McGill and Queen's in action, local fans will not concede that the intercollegiate is furnishing as high class football as McGill and Varsity did last year."—Toronto Globe.

It looks as if Steve Vair will be his own successor as coach of the Argonaut O.H.A. senior team this hockey season. No official statement has come out but several players say he will be back on the job.

Aura Lee J. Bioris stole a march on our Toronto rivals when they romped out on the arena for a practice on Tuesday night.

O. to be in California, now that winter's here, and have a good angel to transport us back each hockey match night.

The skaters and hockeyists are all getting uneasy since the heavy snowfall and the little cold spell. Many are in the habit of watching the big new rink anxiously.

Local hockey fans who followed Queen's through the semi-finals of the Junior O.H.A. last winter will be interested to hear that Lane, of last year's Cornwall team, is out with Aura Lee juniors this year.

Walt Cain, former lacrosse star for Brantford, has been appointed deputy minister of lands and forests for Ontario.

THAT TIE GAME

Has Made Things Run Even More Surprisingly.

When Varsity and McGill played to a 4-4 tie on October 29th, there were many comments passed in sporting circles. Many claimed that the tie should have been played off before the teams left the field, others said that it did not matter. All agreed that it would add to the surprises and twists in the intercollegiate series this year.

For Queen's if it had any effect, it was a bad one. There was a possibility that McGill might have won their game if overtime had been played. There was more possibility that Varsity would have taken it. At any rate, it left each team with an odd point to its credit, so that, when Queen's had been defeated by McGill, they found that it was necessary to win two straight games in order to show up in the title list. A win and a tie would have given them a chance to even up with one of the other teams.

If they defeat McGill here on Saturday it will leave Varsity in the lead, with the points; Varsity 5, Queen's 4, McGill 3, truly as close as any could wish it. If McGill should win it will stand; Varsity 5, McGill 5, Queen's 2. To finish up in good style Queen's should win.

Then we would have the points 5, 4, 3; the champions scoring only one touch; the second team winning two games out of the total played, and breaking even with the other two teams in the series without having a show at the title. The second team will have scored more points than the leading one in their meetings, and the third team will have scored more against the second than the total scored by the second against the first. But that's enough. We give it up.

Many Golf Balls Used Yearly. Canada buys three million, six hundred thousand golf balls every year now, according to estimate given by P. F. Forgan, of Scotland, a manufacturer of golf supplies, who is visiting Toronto. Mr. Forgan said the strides made by Canada and the United States in the matter of golf were wonderful.

It was also amusing to see McLeod penalized for "scragging." In the future, players, when it is impossible to get a man around the ankles, will kindly step aside and let him pass.

NO PANTS.

But He Went on and Scored a Touch For His Team.

At a game in Toronto last Saturday between Beaches midgets and Albany, Housell, of the Beaches, started through the line and was tripped by several Albany players. He emerged on the other side, triumphant, but minus his pants. Without stopping to ascertain the extent of the damage done, he kept on and scored a touch, much to the amusement of the spectators. With the true spirit of a rugby player he decided that the touch was worth more to his team than his pants and sacrificed his blushes.

Sella da Peanaut?

... the Queen's team showed in this fellow "Tony" Evans the smartest quarterback in the intercollegiate."—Toronto Telegram.

What's in a name? They have the last part of it right and they are saying something nice about him so it's all right. Anyway "Johnnie" won't mind.

Another New One.

This year Varsity and McGill are determined to try out every known kind of athletic and sporting competition and have invented some new ones even. The latest is a "telegraph" shooting match held on Thanksgiving Day. The Toronto team shot at Long Branch and the other team in Montreal. The results were sent over the wire and the competition went on with the teams three hundred miles from each other. Varsity won out by 663 to 698.

Leadley and Harding.

And just a few words for the work of Leadley and Harding. They are as good as the advance notices said they are. These advance notices said Leadley would kick even, or perhaps surpass Snyder or Sommerville in this respect. They said Harding would prove a great ground gainer because of his speed. They did that and more. Leadley not only kicked splendidly, but used great judgment in placing his punts. And along with Harding, he did not muck a single one all afternoon. And that is a high class record considering the kicking Varsity handed them. As for running, Leadley stood out over Harding. The Hamilton boy showed great foot, an evasive shift and a fake pass that fooled the Varsity tacklers time and again.

A man's curiosity never rivals that of a woman until some one casually remarks that his name appeared in yesterday's paper.

Even if there is no place like home that is no reason why a man should loaf around there instead of looking for work.

SMILES

THAT'S HIM
I knew a fat waddling gent
Every place in his auto he went
He had barrels of dough
It was no wonder though
For he was all the time raising my rent.

She: Do you think the present styles are becoming?
He: Yes, yes, go on. Becoming what?

10,000 Disabled Men See Football Games

Ten thousand disabled United States veterans of the great war will see the leading college elevens in their games played in the big cities this season as guests of the Knights of Columbus and football park authorities.

The K. of C. took more than 50,000 veterans to major league baseball games during the summer, and the recreational programme will be extended to include football, basketball and boxing. Announcement to this effect was made by William McGlinley, supreme secretary of the order.

THE LAST GAME.

Queen's Final Match Here on Saturday With McGill.

Queen's play their final rugby game in this year's intercollegiate series at the George Richardson stadium on Saturday when McGill's dozen will be here to attempt to take a fall out of them. There is little chance of this. That 25 to 1 defeat is still smearing the tri-color players and they will put all they have into this week's contest.

The winning of the game by Queen's will give the title to Varsity without further argument. If McGill should squeeze out a victory they will be tied with Varsity and a play-off will be necessary, as last year.

So far the Queen's squad has done better than was ever hoped at the beginning of the season. With Varsity they have come out of the two contests slightly in the lead, having 21 points to the 18 made by Toronto. The first game on October 8th was a clean victory for Queen's and the better of the play in last Saturday's game is conceded to them, so that, curiously, they have worsted the team picked for the championship.

With McGill they have yet to even up such a score as the Red and White did in Montreal but it is thought that they will give the Shamrock a bad beating. However, it is not safe to take the outcome for granted, as Shaughnessy has fooled the best of "dope" before now and might repeat. If he does repeat, then he will deserve to be known as a leader of rugby coaches.

RED AND WHITE WORK.

Both Morning and Afternoon for Queen's Game.

The McGill rugby squad is reported to be working both morning and afternoon in preparation for the game with Queen's here on Saturday. If they fail to win in Kingston their last chance of taking the intercollegiate title goes afloat. If they win, then they are tied with Varsity and will have to play off.

No casualties resulted from the game with Syracuse and Murphy and Lazier have returned from the sick list. No move regarding a play-off will be made until the McGill has definitely won the game, Montreal papers say.

In Montreal they do not seem to look on a win from Queen's as a very hard task. Having seen the game on October 29th, in which Queen's put up their poorest exhibition this year, they cannot possibly imagine how the tri-colour will hold the Shamrock.

Kilties Go to Texas. Training quarters in Texas for the New York Kilties next spring have been decided upon by the club management. The location has been selected, it was said, and would be announced later.

There is a likelihood that the Kilties will engage in a series of games with the St. Louis Cardinals while in Texas, and will not meet the Brooklyn National League until ready to start northward.

Don't follow the crowd if you want to be a leader.
