Lecture by Dr. Edward Sapir, Ottawa, on "West Coast Indians."

After Hearing an Address on Canadian Authors by J. M. Gibbon.

On Monday evening Dr. Edward Sapir, chief of the department of anthropology at the Royal Victoria Museum, Ottawa, opened his lecture course with an illustrated lecture on "West Coast Indians." The lecturer was introduced by Professor John Macgillivray, who acted as chairman. Dr. Sapir presented the case of the West Coast Indian in a very acceptable manner in the early part of the lecture stressing the fact that when we think of the Indians we think of them as a rather exceptional people. The speaker pointed out the fact that whereas we people now-a-days live a life that is a series of inco-ordinated events, the Indians in those times had every movement linked up with legends and other forms of art. There was the personality pervading every activity. As far as art is concerned, it is too many of the modern day people a mere, what some might term, "cold-storage" affair but to the Indian it was before him all the time, for every move he made he was confronted with drawings of legendary happenings. The life of the Indian was notable because there was no break between the mechanical and cultural life as there is in our day. The art was a part and parcel of the hum-drum current of his life. All the activities of the people were linked up with legends, according to which some were given special privileges as economic rights, ceremonial rights and "mysterious" rights. Two great ideals were prominent in the minds of the Indian, the speaker suggested. Firstly that he might do something in life that would give him prestige over his fellows or rival chiefs and secondly, that everything eventually took the form of a dramatic affair.

In the second part of the lecture, by means of an excellent collection of slides, Dr. Sapir illustrated his thoughts, showing the types of natives, their homes, their industries, their canoes, which were decorated by the various artistic designs, and their totems which were truly works of art and which had a definite meaning when translated by one who knew their significance. In referring to the linguistic division of the races, the speaker stated that he had formed the opinion that several of the groups living in certain parts of the west were a wedge from the Asiatic Mongolian groups. He had been given to understand that his opinion was probably correct as a prominent physical anthropologist had expressed a similar view.

After the chairman had thanked the speaker for his excellent address, Prof. W. T. MacClement moved a hearty vote of thanks.

At the meeting of the English Club held in the Red Room in the arts building Monday afternoon, the lecturer was Prof. Secombe who spoke to the club on the "poetry of W. De La Mare" who was an intimate friend of the speaker and whose works were sympathetically reviewed by the lecturer. After the address the meeting took on a social form when refreshments were served.

The first of the interfaculty soccer games was played off on the snow-covered lower campus Monday afternoon, when Arts '23 and Medicine '24 clashed. The former team won out from the Meds. by a score of 3-1, the score standing a tie for some time until with one of the meds. banished the arts boys staged a whirlwind finish and got two more counters. Arts now meets Science in the finals.

The teams were:
Arts: Becking, Saylor, Salter, Mahaffy, Brown, McLaughlin, Courtney, Laird, Baird, Drummond, Sverferger.
Medicine: Stewart, N. A. Houston, S. W. Houston, Quinn, Edwards, Smith, McLachlan, Waddell, Ritchie, Noonan, Leggett, MacAvelia.
Referee, Prof. J. F. MacDonald.

SHEETING THE ROOF.

Of the Jock Harty Skating Rink at Queen's.

On Monday, the Hamilton Bridge Company, which has the contract to erect the steel work for the "Jock" Harty skating rink at Queen's University, completed the work of erection. It will be some days yet before all the rivetting is finished.

While three gangs of men are finishing the rivetting, the remainder of the men are taking down the derrick and other equipment which was used in the erecting work.

S. Anglin & Co. have the contract to do the wood work, and are pushing their end of the work along as fast as possible. On Monday, carpenters were sheeting the roof. It will take some weeks to do the wood work. One quarter million feet of lumber will be used in the building of the rink.

To Close Poultry Farm.

The well-known poultry farm at Barryvale, the largest institution of its kind in Ontario, if not in the Dominion, is to be closed and the stock sold. It is expected that the business will be wound up by Christmas. There are 5,000 hens of various breeds to be disposed of and the entire enterprise represents a heavy investment. James F. Belanger, who has been manager of the farm since the death of G. Matte, last spring, may start a poultry farm on a smaller scale on his own account.

Catarrh Means Impure Blood

It is a Constitutional Disease. When it affects the nose and throat and becomes chronic it weakens the delicate lung tissues, deranges the digestive organs, and may lead to consumption. It impairs the taste, smell and hearing.

Take Hood's Sarsaparilla, which by purifying the blood removes the cause of the disease, so troublesome at this time of year, and gives permanent relief.

"I had catarrh of the head and stomach, and dreadful ringing noise in my ears. I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla: my health improved wonderfully, and I adopted Hood's Sarsaparilla as my family medicine." Mrs. M. Jenney Shaw, St. Johns, O.
