

An AMBEROLA in your home brings greater Christmas joy

THE tree—The Yule log—the glad hearts and merry faces! And over the rejoicing come the strains of music—of the sweet old Christmas carols—played by the Edison Amberola!

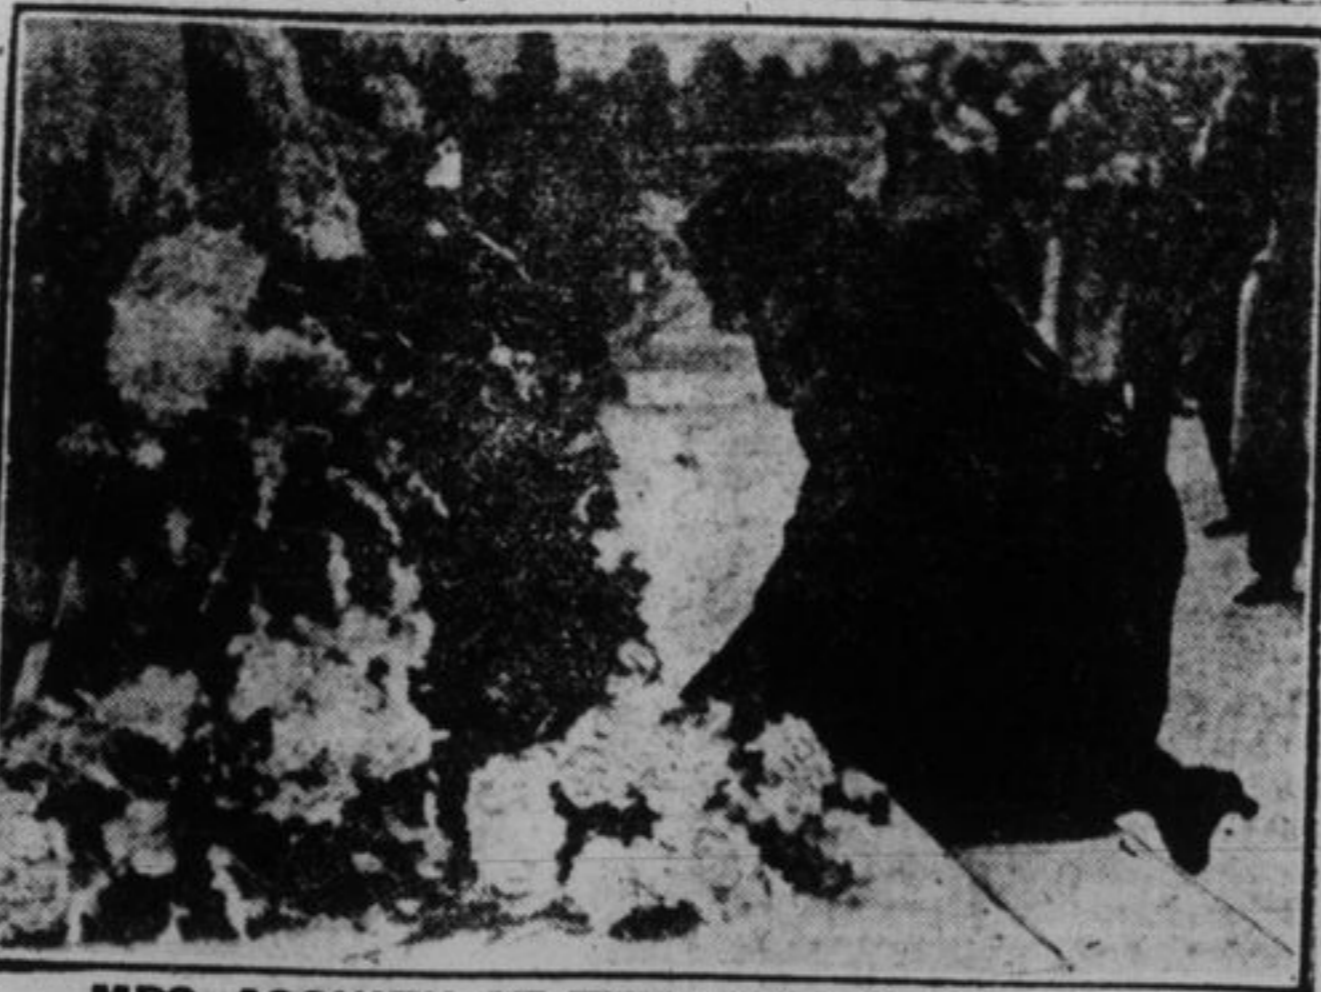

—That is a picture of what your home can be, if you own this perfected musical instrument! And you can own it because its remarkably low price puts the Amberola easily within reach of everyone.

Don't think that just because the Amberola is reasonably priced, it is an ordinary "talking machine!" As a matter of fact, its startling realism makes it the superior of the usual high-priced "talking machines." And despite the fact that we offer the Amberola as the world's greatest phonograph value, we will gladly let you have it on terms that will suit your convenience.

The Ideal Christmas Gift

If you would really like to increase the joy in your home on Christmas, come in today and select an Amberola. If you can't come in, phone or write us today, so we can deliver the Amberola to you for Christmas.

A NOTED ATHLETE IN CITY

Walter Knox Addressed a Large Gathering at Gordon Hall.

The track club at Queen's University had as their guest Thursday afternoon, Walter Knox, who has made a name for himself and Canada, as one of the world's best in track and field athletics. Although at the present time well past what most athletes call their prime, Mr. Knox is an example of an athlete who has kept in condition, and it is only as recent as 1914, that he was all-round champion of the world in track and field sports. In the afternoon he addressed a large crowd that filled Gordon Hall to capacity, and with the aid of a film showed and explained the way the athletes of the present day have made records. As in everything else, so in track sports, there is a right and a wrong way to do this. In his short talk, he impressed on his student hearers the advisability of clean living as a training aid, and advised them to remember that it was not only in the fall, just before the events, that they required to keep themselves fit, but all the time. After the showing of the film, which illustrated the events in glow and fast motion, the audience went to the "gym," where in a manner that drew generous applause from the gallery, Mr. Knox went through the various track sports, showing the "wrinkles" in each and instructed the Queen's sprinters and hurdlers in a few of the details.

Mr. Knox is travelling in the interests of the Ontario Athletic Commission. The film is an Ontario government one, and was taken in Toronto. Mr. Knox is visiting the public schools, his aim being to begin with the youth. His visit to the college was a great stimulation to the track and club activities.

New Use for Radio. Among the new uses to which wireless telegraphy is being put, the Radio News (New York) cites the following:

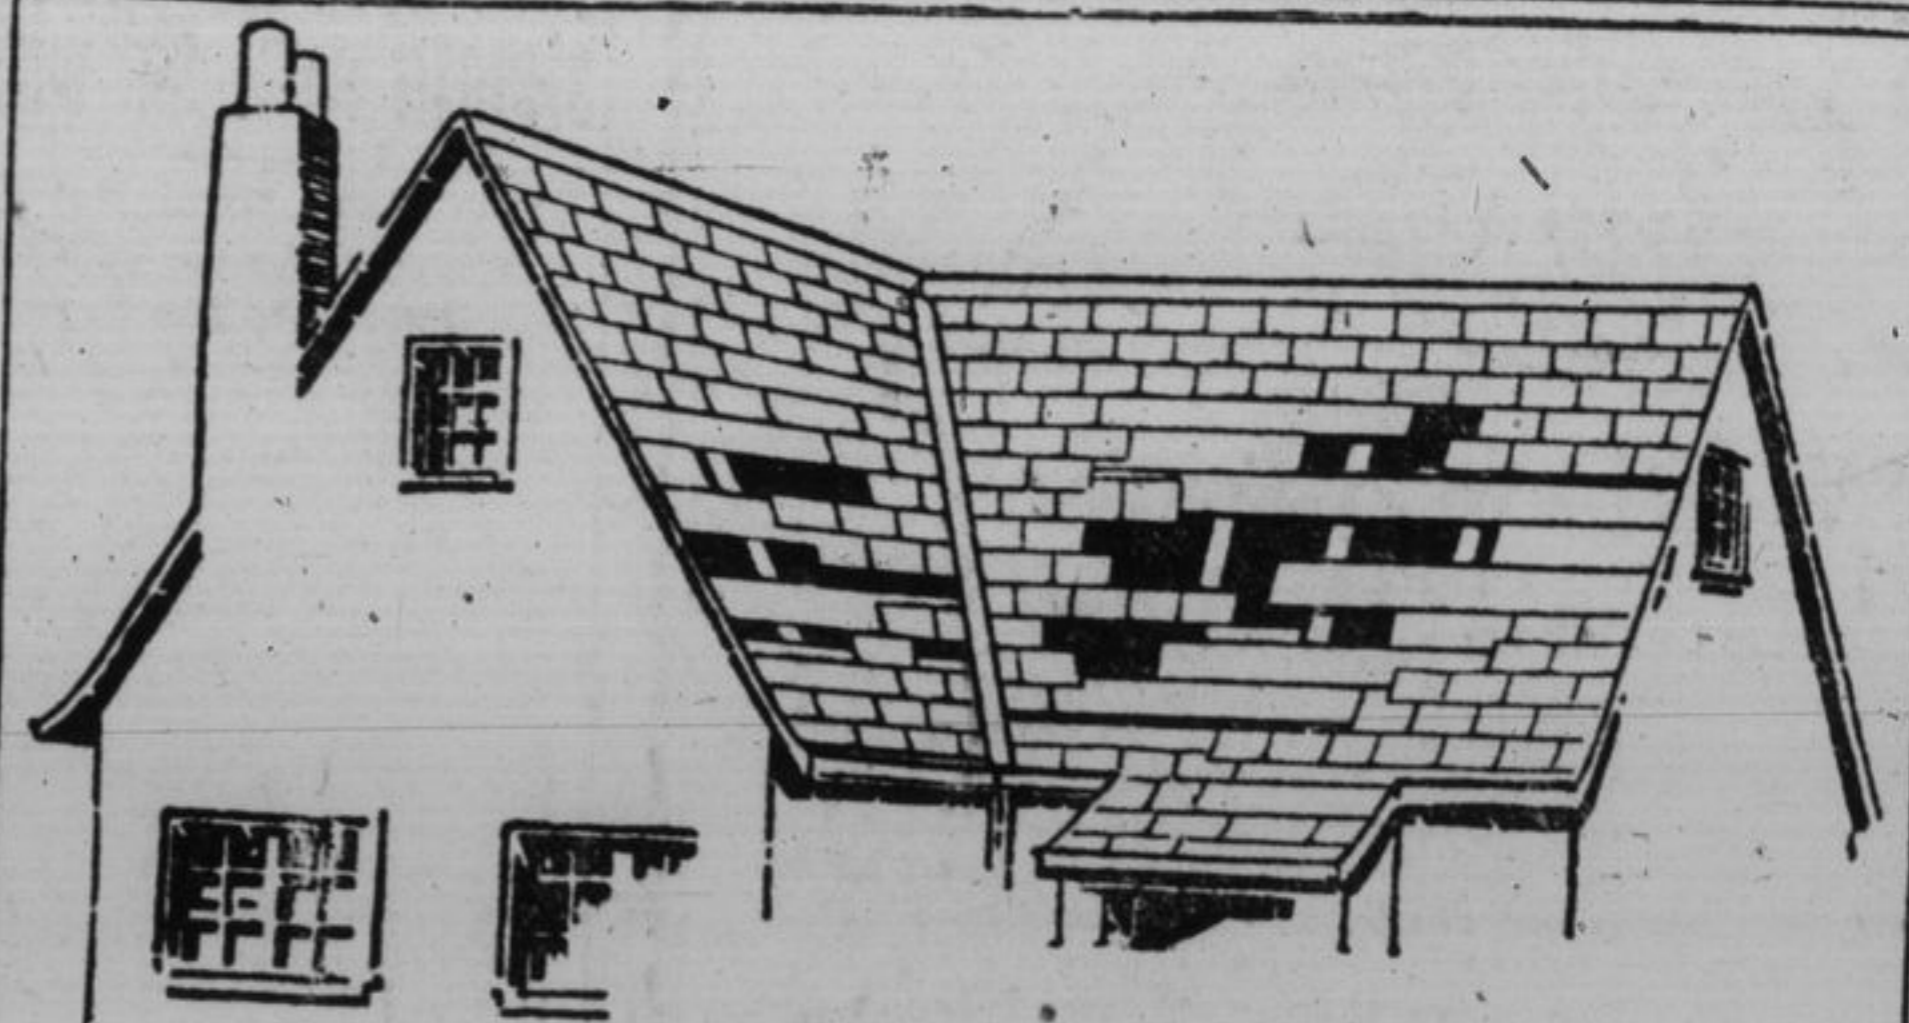

"The Westinghouse Electric Company now mounts a sensitive wireless receiving outfit on an auto truck using a loop aerial as antenna. And what do you suppose they do with it? They run the truck parallel to a high tension line to discover the leakage of the insulators' Whenever there is a bad leakage, the crackling sound in the receivers of the radio outfit will reveal the energy going to waste. An insulator may look all right from the outside, but it might be porous and thus waste a lot of the company's power. The radio receiver will detect the bad insulator immediately.

"Then we have power companies in the West which are now opening and closing switches in distant sub-power plants by radio. Instead of keeping an operator at each one of their sub-stations to throw the switches in and out, this is now accomplished without the touch of human hands."

The London Times foreshadows a sharp cut in freight rates from Britain to British Columbia, which should provide special opportunity for the development of British export trade.

Keeping the Roof On

Would you consider that a man exercised good judgment if he used the roof of his house for fuel to keep it warm? "Nobody would do a thing like that," you say. Perhaps not, but men do things equally absurd. For example, widows are left without an income sufficient to purchase the necessities of life. In order to live, these unfortunates must spend each year all the interest and part of the principal of the estate left them by their husbands. Each year sees a reduction in Revenue through this sacrifice of principal. In other words, they burn the roof to keep warm only to face the terrible day when they will have neither fuel nor shelter. You do not want this to happen to YOUR loved ones if you are called away! It need not happen. It is in your power to prevent any such misfortune from occurring. How would it be to figure out exactly what their necessities would be if they were left alone? We have prepared a table which will enable you to ascertain your monthly expenses and probable income. The figures are confidential, as you retain the chart. A copy is yours for the asking. Write to-day.

Noise and Nerves. An eminent authority who gives an analysis of the noisier of our London streets has discovered that the note of London traffic is distinctly "low" as compared with that of our northern cities. One wonders how it compares with the notes of other capitals. Practical experience suggests that the comparison would be favorable. The high-pitched rattle of Paris should be as proverbial as the din, so nerve-racking because so irregular, of New York. Even a comparatively small city like Rome is more noisy, in the main, than London. For this advantage we have to thank our wooden and asphalt pavements, and, perhaps, our more efficient handling of street traffic. That the subject is of importance is shown by the fact that even in London where noise is better regulated than elsewhere, most of us, according to a prominent ear specialist, "are slightly deaf after fifty." There seems something to be said after all in favor of the third-floor back in a side street. (London Daily Express.)
