To-morrow's HOROSCOPE By Genevieve Kemble

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, Dec. 11-12 Sunday's astrological map holds the promise of important change or journey, possibly of an unprepared nature. While the prospect is excellent for success and benefits from this venture, yet the forces portend the danger of accident or injury. Avoid all such possibilities and also shun quarrels.

Those whose birthday it is have the prospect of an important change or journey. They should guard against accident. A child born on this day may be fond of travel and change. It will be generally fortunate, although quarrelsome unless taught self-control.

Monday's planetary forecasts may not be read as fortune. There is an augury for troublesome and perplexing conditions, with the presence of erratic or irregular situations to be confronted. Possibly, duplicity or subtle attack may enhance these dangers, therefore the conduct should be particularly guarded and discreet, both in the business and social relations.

Those whose birthday it is have the forecast of a troublesome year with peculiar conditions to be met. A child born on this day may have many curious and interesting adventures.

An auspicious day for the use of classified advertising.

What the Editor Hears

That the Girls Fellowship Club is a live organization, seeking health and happiness by out-of-door life at U-auto camp in the summer and now endeavoring to make Christmas happy for others. May they have a happy one themselves.

That fashion again favors sleeves that sweep floor and two yards of material are required, according to latest style dictates.

MOTHER! Open Child's Bowels With "California Fig Syrup"

Harry mother! Even a sick child loves the "fruity taste of California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful to-day may prevent a sick child to-morrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup," which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

DYED HER SKIRT TO MAKE CHILD A DRESS

"Diamond Dyes" Package Tells Mothers How to Save Any Old Material.

Don't wonder whether you can dye or tint successfully. Just buy "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind—and follow the simple directions in every package. Then perfect home dyeing is guaranteed even if you have never dyed before. Worn, faded dresses, skirts, waists, coats, sweaters, stockings, draperies, hangings, everything, become like new again. Just tell your druggist whether the material you wish to dye is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton, or mixed goods. Diamond Dyes never streak, spot, fade or run.

That most children of even the poorest families have toys given them from the Sunday school to which they belong, but there are many, many little ones to whom warm mitts, socks, shoes, etc., would be a real delight.

That the small draped turban of brocade or embroidered silk or velvet, is a smart and comfortable head gear for wear at a tea-dance.

HINTS FOR THE HOUSEMOTHER

Fruit Brown Bread. This is almost as good as cake. Mix together two cupsful of sour milk buttermilk, three-quarters of a cupful of dark molasses, one teaspoonful of baking soda and two tablespoonfuls of brown sugar. Stir in gradually one cupful each of Graham and rye meal, two cupfuls of cornmeal, one teaspoonful of salt, one cupful of seeded raisins, half a cupful of currants and four tablespoonfuls of minced candied orange peel. Divide into four greased pound baking powder tins, filling them two-thirds full, cover and steam for one and a half hours. Dry off in a moderate oven for ten minutes.

Mixing French Dressing. Put into a bowl which has been rubbed with the cut end of a clove of garlic one-half teaspoonful of salt, a quarter teaspoonful of paprika, three tablespoonfuls of oil and one tablespoonful of vinegar—plain cider or some special salad vinegar. Whip with a silver fork. In three or four strokes it should be creamy looking because you have emulsified the oil. Serve at once, or it will separate, but it may be beaten up as often as necessary. The point is, the success depends upon the whipping of the oil to get a seasoned mixture. This is enough for two large plates of salad.

The Woman M.P. We shall all watch with interest the parliamentary career of Miss Agnes McPhail, the only woman returned in the elections, from Grey county, Ontario. As many men have done, Miss McPhail graduates from the school-house to the House of Commons. She is thirty years of age, an age when one has acquired experience and developed some judgment while yet having a mind open to new impressions. Miss McPhail is a farmer's daughter, and has taught in rural schools. She has been quoted as saying that if she went to Ottawa, she would "do as the always had done, and would not gravitate towards Peacock Alley. It should be interesting to observe the way Miss McPhail adapts herself to the life of the Capital with its comparatively conventional atmosphere and strenuous social climbing.

Royal Dancers. Princess Mary is a particularly graceful dancer, and is especially loved of the fox-trot and the waltz. She pays great attention to her dance frocks so a London society item informs us. The Queen wears the waltz, and dances it beautifully. At Court functions hardly anything except the waltz is danced. Her Majesty does not care much for "jazz" dances. The King is not a dancer in the modern sense. He has, however, a great fancy for the hornpipe, and has been known to dance it at Balmoral. He learned the steps when he was a sailor.

A CAPITAL IDEA. How Calgary Brings Christmas to the Poorer Homes.

A visitor in Kingston from Calgary tells how this western city brings Christmas cheer to the less fortunate members of the community. This matter is not left to the regular associations who have their hands full supplying the actual necessities of life and from whom gifts are apt to be felt as charity, but is taken in hand by the Sunshine Club, with which the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs join, even the school children help, subscriptions are received from many quarters, the object being made known through the press; supplies are brought in large quantities and names received from the relief societies of families who have little to buy Christmas fare with, and a committee of warm hearted women make up the parcels according to the size of the families, and the Kiwanis and Rotarians, always ready for any good work, are on hand again with their cars to bring the Christmas cheer which their own little ones have in abundance to the homes where sickness or lack of employment have made it impossible for the natural bread winner to provide for those of his household. In some cases fuel is given, but what ever the gift is, it is a real gift from friends and fellow citizens, whom a turn in fortunes wheel might place in the same position and in remembrance of God's great gift to man in the incarnation of His Son, Jesus Christ.

MAY WEAR MESS DRESS. On Occasions When That Uniform Used to Be Worn.

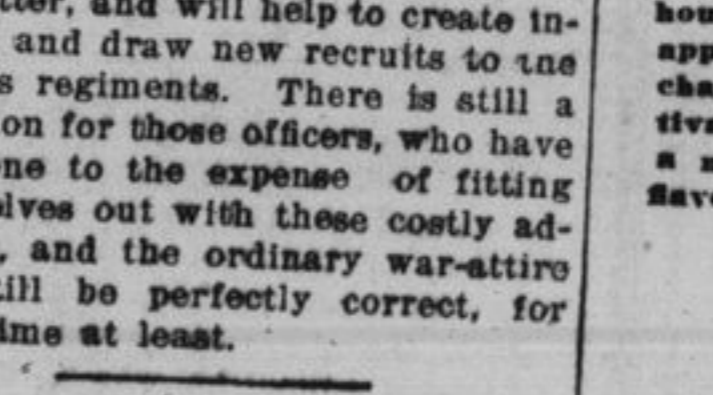

Some of the uncertainty regarding the return to the pre-war dress in the Canadian militia has been removed by the recent order from militia headquarters, Ottawa, which states that from this time on, all officers who are in possession of mess dress, will be permitted to wear the same on all occasions when the uniform is supposed to be worn, according to King's regulations and orders. In future, all officers will make their appearance at social functions of a military nature, in the old bright colors of scarlet, gold and blue, and medals in miniature taking the place of the khaki with strands that have been noted for the past seven years.

The opinions of various officers in Kingston military circles are not unanimous on this subject, as many hold that the mess uniform is too expensive, especially for young officers coming into the service. However, others are tired of the eternal drab khaki, and perhaps the citizens will largely agree with them, and think that a touch of color will change for the better, and will help to create interest, and draw new recruits to some various regiments. There is still provision for those officers, who have not gone to the expense of fitting themselves out with these costly additions, and the ordinary war-attire will still be perfectly correct, for some time at least.

There Are Others Like Latrelle. "The reason I made the affidavit against Bouchard," said Raoul Latrelle, "is that I feel it is time the hypocrisy in amateur hockey should end. I did in my little way all I could to encourage the game, I helped as I thought the promising young players, and I never got any thanks for what I did and was treated badly by them in the end." I have ample proof and many witnesses to back up my affidavit. I never made a secret of paying the players, many saw me do so and my wife aided me in getting ready the accounts. The Royal Bank holds some of the checks with which I paid them at times, though often I paid in cash.

For every man voter in Quebec, Canada, there are two women. Many titled women in London are students in cooking schools.
